The Vatican Decrees Midnight Mass for Divine Intervention.

Secretary of Interior Hernandez Implores Church to Undertake Pacification—Madero Needs Half a Million Men to Subdue Rebellion, Which Has Spread Beyond His Control.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 8.—In obedience to a papal decree there will begin tonight at midnight in every Catholic Church throughout the republic a special mass for divine intervention in Mexico. In St. Peter's at Rome, at the same hour, or o'clock Rome time, Monday morning, the Pope himself will join in the prayers for the restoration of peace. Monsignor Bonzani, the apostolic delegate, will officiate in the church of Guadalupe, where a service of unusual solemnity is planned, although the services in the cathedral will be almost equally impressive.

That the revolution in Mexico has defied its conditions beyond control of the government appears to be indicated, not only by the reports of the rebel operations, but by the action of the Secretary of the Interior, Jose Hernandez. The secretary hastily summoned Monsignor Bogard and appealed to him to use the power of the church in restoring order. The Secretary requested that the Pope issue a decree to that end. The Liberals construed the act of Secretary Hernandez as being not in accord with the laws respecting the separation of the church and the state, and are considering the expediency of interpellating the government in the Chamber of Deputies.

NEED HALF MILLION MEN.

Secretary Hernandez also has admitted that the army is not nearly large enough to give protection to the haciendas and small towns. In response to requests from these quarters, he has sent the following note:

"The government is making almost superhuman efforts to afford protection, but to accede to all demands would require an army of half a million men. [illegible] outlined as the

GAY WINTER PLANNED BY NEW YORK SOCIETY.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gayer than ever, the mad social whirl which has been turning about grand opera is now headed for Christmas parties and holiday madness culminating in New Year festivities. But it is not until after New Year, that the real season will be ushered in. However, the social leaders are already racking brains to devise new forms of entertainment that will dazzle guests and neighbors and incidentally give Mrs. Grundy something to talk about.

The younger set will take charge in many instances. There will be a number of notable coming-out receptions. The hegira for the great city has begun.

Miss Elizabeth Sands, the talented daughter of Mrs. Frederick P. Sands, sister of Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Jr., and one of the most popular young women in eastern society circles, will spend the greater portion of the winter in New York.

Mrs. Maturin Livingston will return from Staatsburg, N. Y., this week for the winter.

Mrs. William Bayard Cutting and Miss Olivia Cutting will return from Oakdale, L. I., in January, but expect later to visit in Santa Fe, N. M.

Mrs. Edward Spencer has closed her house in Lenox and is in New York for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Devrox Emmett, who were stopping with Mrs. Prescott Hall Butler, have gone to Florida.

TAFT TO VISIT PANAMA DURING THE HOLIDAYS.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] A final trip to Panama to view the work on the canal before the water is turned on and before his term of office expires may be taken by President Taft during the Christmas holidays. No decision has been definitely made, but it is known that the President has been desirous for a long time of seeing the canal before it is completed.

Even before election he had the trip under consideration and intended to go before Congress convened. As he desires to remain in the capital while Congress is in session, the Christmas holidays will afford him the last chance to make the trip.

Should the President decide to go, the trip will be made on the Arkansas, the newest and largest battleship in the navy.

PORTRAYALS OF INDIANS WIN HIGHEST ART PRIZES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Awards of prizes for the best in American art, as represented in the forthcoming exhibition of the National Academy of Design, were announced tonight. The exhibit included about 400 pictures and many pieces of sculpture. The exhibit is unusually catholic in tone, representative of almost every school.

Two of the awards go to the portrayal of a peculiarly American subject—the Indian. E. Irving Gouse won the Carnegie prize of $500 for the best oil painting, portraits excepted, with his "Making Pottery," an Indian subject. The Isidor medal for the best figure composition was won by Ernest L. Blumenschein with "Wise Man, Warrior and Youth," another Indian subject.

The Thomas H. Proctor prize of $200 for the best portrait was won by William M. Chase, with his "Portrait of Mrs. H." The Helen Foster Barnett prize of $100 for the best piece of sculpture by an artist under 35 years of age was awarded to E. McCartain for "Fountain."

ANGLO-SAXON NATIONS WILL ARBITRATE CLAIMS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Composition of the tribunal for arbitration of pecuniary claims between the United States and Great Britain has been determined upon by the two governments it was learned today.

Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Chief Justice of Canada, will represent Great Britain, and Chandler P. Anderson, Counsellor of the Department of State, the United States. Cecil J. Hurst, of the British Foreign Office, assisted by Edmund L. Newcombe, Canadian Deputy Minister of Justice, will be chief counsel for Great Britain, and Severo Mallet-Prevost of New York, assisted by Robert Lansing, will act similarly for the United States. All have had experience in international arbitration.

Claims scheduled for consideration aggregate $4,000,000 at present, but a supplemental list of claims is likely to be agreed upon.

The claims involve real property rights, shipping, collection of customs duties, damages to property of either government, personal wrongs of subjects or citizens, and contract rights. The first session will be held in Washington, probably next spring.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Winter, more than two months overdue, after many false alarms, finally secured a fairly secure grip upon the Northwest and the Great Lakes region last night and today, and railroad traffic is tied up.

FAR BELOW ZERO.

Tonight the temperature in Chicago has sunk to seventeen and is falling rapidly. That there is no joke about it is shown by what is coming from the Northwest. The temperature is twenty-four degrees below zero in Minnesota, sixteen below at Q'Appelle, sixteen below at Winnipeg, six below at Duluth, Minn., and adjacent points and six below at Huron, S. D., and that territory. Moorhead, Minn., reports eight below tonight and prospects for much colder. Colorado reports temperatures of twenty below and New Mexico of zero.

There is not much hope in the direct Middle West. At Des Moines and other Iowa points it is twelve above, but growing colder rapidly. Oklahoma is below the freezing point and Texas reports some minimum temperatures of twenty-two above.

Cincinnati is within two degrees of the freezing point, while St. Louis has a minimum of twenty-two above. Snow is falling tonight in Lower Ohio, practically all over Western Michigan and portions of Wisconsin. Rain and snow are reported along the lower Atlantic Coast, and prevails in Eastern Canada.

Dispatches from various points tonight report a drop in the temperature of from ten to thirty degrees, ranging from the New England States to Western Canada. The southeastern gulf coast country also is experiencing cold, rainy weather. Indications are for snow in the mountain States and over the Northwest generally tomorrow.

In Chicago the day began with a blizzard. There were snow flurries and fitful sunshine during the day, but tonight it settled down to clear weather, too cold for snow and growing steadily colder.

Congress of London to Undo Work of Beaconsfield and Bismarck.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The stage is now being set for peace and for the Congress of London, which begins its sessions tomorrow. A very different type of men from those who composed the Congress of Berlin are the spokesmen for the powers who will sit around the round table with Foreign Minister Sir Edward Grey. Prince Bismarck will not be there to crack jokes with Prince Gortchakoff and offer snuff to, and blow his nose at everybody. Beaconsfield, the bearded Salisbury, Hohenlohe—all are dead and gone and ready for interment is their work. New men, new manners, succeed those of '78.

The last of the old school of diplomacy ended with the scholarly and magnificent Marquis of Dufferin and Ava. The silken, drooping moustache and persuasive beard of the debonnaire Dufferin, his soft manners and musical voice belonged to the fashions of court caprice which came in with Buckingham and died with the Vis-

BULLETS BRING DOWN AIRSHIP OF BULGARS.

Wings of Biplane Pierced and Aviator Shot Through Breast — Frightful Excesses by Turks Reported at Gallipoli—Greeks Occupy Two Villages Near Janina, but Seem to Hesitate in Forcing the Dardanelles.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, Dec. 8.—The fate of Dr. Jules Constantin, a French aviator in the Bulgarian service, who was decorated by King Ferdinand for bravery, is described in a dispatch just received here. Dr. Constantin started from Surma village on his last flight over the Tchataldje lines, with the object of dropping bombs on the Turkish troops. His biplane disappeared rapidly and some hours later was seen to descend near the Bulgarian camp. The aviator was found lying on the ground with a wound in his chest. The wings of the biplane had also been pierced by bullets.

The instruments showed that he had reached the height of 400 feet. He had photographed the Turkish works.

TERRIBLE EXCESSES BY TURKISH TROOPS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 8.—Letters of a late date received from Gallipoli report terrible excesses by the Turkish troops. The telegraph lines having been cut beyond Gallipoli and the military authorities holding the Christian villages responsible, ordered a detachment of troops to punish the residents.

The troops burned the houses, held many of the villagers for ransom, massacred those who refused to pay, assaulted the women and carried on wholesale pillage. The villages of Malgara, Keshen, Karadjali, Aloali, Grabunar and Examili were practically destroyed.

Turkish reinforcements from Asia Minor continue to arrive at Gallipoli.

The authorities at Janina report that eighteen battalions, comprising the regiments of the Monastir army, have reached there with artillery and ammunition, thus strengthening the Turkish position at that important Albania town.

The Greeks have occupied Syrankon and St. George, villages four hours distant from Janina, where the remnants of the Turkish Monastir army are said to have arrived.

GREEKS AND TURKS DODGE EACH OTHER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Turkey and Greece are still dodging the expected naval engagement at the mouth of the Dardanelles. It is explained in a dispatch from Constantinople that the Greeks evidently acted on advices that the submerged defensive mines would be defective and later learned that the straits are so well protected as to defy any attempt to break through. A mishap to one of the Greek submarines is denied in a message from Athens. The Turks have strengthened the posts and forts along the Gulf of Saroses and on the Asia Minor coast of the Hellespont. If the Greeks attempt a landing the pashas in command are prepared to give them a hot reception. The peace commissioners are now on their way to London to take part in the conference in St. James palace.

Stage Set for Peace.

torian days. Indeed, beards seem to have passed out of the diplomatic make-up since business methods have come into the ways of the corps. The admirable United States Ambassador, Whitelaw Reid, is one of the very few prominent and noteworthy representatives of a great nation sporting "spinach" in a crop plentiful enough to go around the corps.

WHAT ABOUT UNCLE SAM?

Will Ambassador Reid participate in the settlement of the question?

That, itself, is a question which is agitating the powers. There is a strong desire to have Reid's sage advice, his sincerity, his broad grasp of big questions and his absolute impartiality as the representative of the most disinterested of all the great powers, the United States. For personal reasons, as well as for reasons of state, Sir Edward Grey, the father of the coming congress, desires the inclusion of Reid.

Ambassador Tewfik Pasha wants the United States a party to the congress to assure fair play for the Ottoman empire. The great bankers of Europe want the United States to have a word in the settlement as a guarantee that the fiscal problems will be met in a manner which will not weaken their securities at stake. France, Germany, Austria, Italy are all alike willing that the congress should benefit from the presence of the American Ambassador. I cannot state exactly how Russia stands, but I think she would be more willing than unwilling.

THE YELLOW PERIL.

With this preponderance of feeling among the European nations that the congress of London should be restricted to the six great powers of Europe, but should have the adhesion of the great power of the new world, Americans will doubtless ask: Why is there hesitation in giving effect to the sentiment? The answer is contained in one word—Japan. The little yellow man of the Far East is not wanted at the congress of London.

No; the chancelleries are not drawing the color line. It is not the skin of the Jap to which objection is raised. It is what is under the skin.

DARK SPECK ON HORIZON.

The objection has nothing to do with the circumstance that to let Japan in would be to add another vote against the Triple Alliance. England, France and Germany are alike opposed to the presence of the little man from Nippon. Russia would like to see Japan given a seat for the identical reason that the other powers pale at the very suggestion. For, as the clouds seem lifting from the Near East with the hope of a final settlement of the future of the Balkans, a dark speck is hourly growing in density and in expanse over that old battleground of the Chinese Tartans, Mongolia. The pigeonholes of the chancelleries are bulging with heavily underscored dispatches on the Mongolian question, Chinese relations and the hurrying, grasping methods and measures of the intriguing Jap. That Russia and Japan have been using the rebel Mongols as a pin with which to prick to the quick the skin of the young Chinese republic is a fact notorious in every European capital. The methods used by Von Berchtold in Albania were used to more dangerous effect by Sazanoff at Urga.

TIGHTENING HER GRIP.

Japan is tightening her grip upon Manchuria and seeking to absorb the rich resources of Middle and Lower China. The Lancashire cotton spinners and weavers are alarmed by the certain loss of their most important market. The French are fearful of losing all they have invested in Tonquin. The practical Germans, who without an inch of territory managed to multiply godowns (warehouses) on the Orient seaboard from Singapore to Shanghai and whose trade with China is now worth millions of marks in fat profits to the manufacturers of the fatherland, view the onward march of the Jap with dismay tempered by the determination to fight for the retention of her commerce with China. All know that it must come to a fight, sooner or later; that Japan will leave nothing in China to cheer Europeans unless it be nailed down by the mace of Mars.

A PUZZLER.

The conduct of Japan in China precludes the possibility of her Ambassador being persona grata on the stage of the congress of London. And so the problem is: How can the United States be admitted and Japan excluded without sacrificing a card to the trick-takers of Tokio?

In the meantime, Ambassador Reid is confined to Dorchester House by a severe cold, which may possibly be overcome by Friday when the debate on the eastern question will begin.

WILL NOT PERMIT ALBANIA'S PARTITION.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Dec. 8.—The Temps prints a Constantinople dispatch embodying an interview with the Grand Vizier, Kiamil Pasha. With regard to the peace negotiations, the Grand Vizier says Turkey could not permit Albania to be cut in two to enable Servia to reach the sea, and could not give up Adrianople. He refused, however, to indicate what concessions Turkey was prepared to make.

Asked if the government favored Turkey's entry into the Balkan federation, Kiamil said that all depended on the value of the federation and what advantage Turkey was likely to find in such a union.

With respect to the Porte's attitude on foreign affairs, Kiamil said the Porte desired and was required to stand well with all the powers, but that it must not be forgotten that Turkey was a maritime country, and it was therefore her more especial interest to have good relations with certain maritime powers.

The government's policy, he added, would be an extremely liberal one, and would introduce numerous reforms as soon as the end of the war permitted.

"I am happy to be able to affirm," concluded the Grand Vizier, "that no crisis threatens the internal policy of Turkey, and that the government is sufficiently strong to settle in perfect calm the numerous difficult questions now outstanding."

SHIP SIGNALS FOR DINNER.

Norwegian Steamer, Unequipped With Wireless, Sends Call by Code for Meat and Potatoes.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch. Capt. Schjott, of the Norwegian steamer Vinland, bound here from Turks' Island, signalled by means of international code pennants to the observers at Highland Light yesterday morning, requesting that a message be sent to Boston ordering meat and potatoes to be delivered at the wharf when the steamer arrived in Boston today, so that a Sunday dinner might be possible. The Vinland is not equipped with wireless, and the job of signaling as per the order for the crew's Sunday dinner was a lengthy one. The observers at Highland Light spent several hours trying to figure out just what the code signals meant.

CONDEMNS SMOKING SOLDIERS.

Dr. Lewis B. Fisher of University of Chicago Says They Would Be No Good in War.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] It is the belief of Dr. Lewis B. Fisher of the University of Chicago that smoking soldiers are no good for war. Addressing the Chicago Political Equality League, he said:

"In a time of war I believe there are more gymnasium athletic trained girls in this city to shoot the head off of cigarette-smoking boys. The women are as much wealth-producers as the men. I believe, furthermore, in fewer and better voters. In time there must be a line drawn between voters and non-voters. A sex line in this would be idiotic. The line might be an educational one, and in this way the citizen who reads and writes is the one who votes."

BALKAN STATES NAME THEIR DELEGATES.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—All the Balkan States, including Greece, have named their peace delegates, and they will start for London tomorrow.

Dr. Daneff, president of the Bulgarian Chamber of Deputies, will stop at Bucharest and will endeavor to reconcile Roumania's territorial and economic aspirations with Bulgaria's interests.

Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador at London, has declined to act as a delegate in the coming peace negotiations owing to ill-health. The Porte consequently is seeking a third delegate, who probably will be Naby Dey, the newly-appointed Ambassador at Rome.

The Greek delegates to the peace conference at London will be Premier Venizelos, M. Sculudis, a former Minister; J. Jenadius, Minister at London, and Dr. Georges Streit, Minister at Vienna. The mission also will include M. Politis, professor of International law at Paris University; Gen. Dangils, chief of the general staff, and Col. Metaxis.

AUSTRIA SEIZES SHIP; KING PETER FAINTS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—A Belgrade dispatch to the Telegraph says that the Austro-Hungarian authorities have stopped at Fiume, the steamer Hegedisch with a cargo of 800 tons of flour, destined for the Servian army at Durazzo. It is announced that Austria intends to confiscate the flour for the use of her own army, thus creating a situation similar to that brought about by the stoppage by Turkey of Servian guns.

Another Belgrade dispatch says there is considerable anxiety over the health of King Peter. The King fainted several times yesterday.

CHOLERA ON INCREASE IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE. BY WIRELESS OVERLAND TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—5:45 a.m.—The Times Constantinople correspondent reports:

There has been a distinct increase of cholera in Constantinople in the last two days, during which twenty-four cases have occurred, mostly among the inhabitants of the native city. There is reason to believe that a massacre of Greeks has occurred at Pairamich in the Troad (plain of Troy) about twenty-five miles from the coast of Asia Minor.

HORSES FIGHT TO THE DEATH.

Thoroughbred Objects to Valuable Arabian and Furious Battle Follows.

[By Wireless Line to The Times.]

MENLO PARK (Cal.) Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] A valuable Arabian horse owned by Royal Ross Coryell was killed today following a furious battle with Saucer, another thoroughbred, in the Coryell stable. The dead animal was worth more than $1000. The Arabian was turned into a corral with the other horses for the first time today, and Saucer resented the intrusion upon his domain. With scarlet, furious nostrils and maddened eyes, he big thoroughbred attacked the Arabian. Before the grooms and stable boys could separate the animals the Arabian had been so badly injured that it had to be shot.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 8.—Revolutionary agitation is being given substance by a movement to proclaim Grand Duke Michael, president of Russia. At the same time, the Empress Dowager, mother of the Grand Duke, as well as the Czar, urge the Grand Duke to recall his renunciation to the succession to the throne but the Grand Duke is firm in his declaration that he prefers domestic bliss, which has been enhanced by the birth of a son by his morganatic wife (or whose sake he renounced the possibility of some day succeeding the present Czar, whose health is precarious and whose son is reported to be dying of tuberculosis of the hip.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Miss Helen Morton, daughter of Mark Morton, and niece of Joy Morton, the multi-millionaire, has quit society to study farming. She is taking a course in agriculture at the Wisconsin University, with a view of establishing herself at the head of a big farm of her own.

"Helen is taking up the study of agriculture because her thoughts run that way rather than to other things," said Mrs. Mark Morton at her Lake Forest home. "She takes the short course and perhaps something else will follow. She will be allowed to make her own decision in the matter and will get all the education she wants."

Miss Morton is a noted horsewoman and formerly attended Bryn Mawr and Miss French's school for girls in New York City.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—Interest was added yesterday to recent statistics showing that California now ranks second to New York in the number of automobiles owned by residents from Michigan that a special train of seventy-five double-deck cars had left for California with 375 automobiles. This is said to be the largest single shipment of automobiles ever made. They will arrive about Christmas day.

As the cars are already sold, the Secretary of State will be asked immediately to issue 375 new State licenses. In view of the fact that California already has more automobiles according to the population than any State in the Union, and that this year the registration of new cars exceeded that of New York by more than 40 per cent., the Secretary of State is planning increased facilities in this department for next year.

[By Wireless Line to The Times.]

DAVENPORT (Iowa) Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Jasper Bennett, 64 years old, a grandfather, and Mrs. Minnie Wright Smith-Bernard, 40 years old, a grandmother, refuse to grow old. They eloped and were married here November 29 in the presence of the bride's father, children and grandchildren. It was the third marriage for each of them. Today they are in Chicago receiving the congratulations of the grandfather, the bridegroom's children and grandchildren. Mr. Bennett's father, James Monroe Bennett, who claims to be the oldest man in Illinois, is 91 years old. After a year's correspondence between Grandfather Bennett and Grandmother Bernard, the wedding was arranged and Mr. Bennett disappeared from the residence of his daughter in Chicago. Nothing more was heard from him until his daughter received the following telegram, sent with the enthusiasm of a boyish eloper to his parents: "Married at 6:10 this evening. Letter follows."

acquired a little port south of Acapulco from which point they are shipping to the interior ammunition and supplies which they receive there. These rebels are commanded by Andrew Almazan.

The general situation is best defined by explaining that the government is in control of all the big towns and many of the smaller places, but practically the disturbed regions are in the power of the insurrectos. The government troops have been unable to pursue them effectively on account of lack of numbers. The scattered detachments accomplish little, and for the most part are left in the towns, while the highways are at the mercy of the rebels. Residents of Puebla say it is not safe to ride outside the city limits.

PAYING FOR IMMUNITY.

While it is no secret that Mexicans and foreigners alike in numerous instances are paying the rebels, periodically, for immunity, it is not always given.

A report that the El Paso junta has named Flores Magon for president has brought from Magon the statement that it was not authorized. It is not believed he will take any part in the opposition to the government, although neither did Emilio Vasquez Gomez for months after the rebels proclaimed him.

Gen. Trevino, whom many of the Zapatistas have proclaimed for the Presidency, has not as yet given his approval, but at the same time he has not taken the trouble to reject the honor conferred upon him.

ASK FIVE REPRIEVES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 8.—Reprieve for five condemned murderers awaiting execution December 13 at the State Penitentiary at Salem, until an expression can be had on the subject of capital punishment by the recently-enfranchised women voters of the State, will be sought by opponents of the death penalty.

This was the net result of a well-attended mass meeting of antagonists of capital punishment, held in Portland today. A set of resolutions, urging the reprieve, which were adopted by the meeting, will be taken to Salem Thursday, the day before that set for the hangings, and presented to the Governor. The petition will be accompanied by as many opponents of capital punishment as can make the trip to the capital, it being the intention to run a special excursion train from here to Salem to bear the petioners.

The murderers at Salem have been under reprieve in some cases for more than a year, pending a verdict of the electorate to whom a law abolishing capital punishment was submitted November 5 last. Not until after that election day however, did women have the opportunity to vote, and therefore had no voice in rejecting the proposed act., which was defeated by over 20,000 majority.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

LARNED (Kan.) Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] But for his horse J. H. Ellis would have been eaten by coyotes near Stock Range in Southern Trego county.

While driving a herd of cattle he sighted coyotes and gave chase. The horse stumbled, wrenching a leg. Ellis was thrown on his head and rendered unconscious. The coyotes then formed a circle around the helpless man, awaiting a chance to begin the feast. The horse, on three legs, hobbled round and round her master, holding the coyotes at bay until the situation was noticed by passers-by and the rider and steed rescued.

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Barker of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over. —[Advertisement.

Largest Item for Automobile Road in Yosemite.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] The Department of the Interior proposes to spend $288,403 in the national parks in California during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, if the amount requested by the Secretary of the Interior is appropriated by Congress. This is an increase of $170,903 over the current fiscal year. The increases requested are: Yosemite National Park, from $80,000 to $233,703; Sequoia National Park from $15,650 to $29,900; General Grant National Park from $2000 to $4800.

THE PRINCIPAL ITEMS.

The principal items for each park are as follows:

Yosemite National Park: Improvement of Big Oak flatroad from Gentrys to the Floor of the valley in order to make it safe for automobiles; improving and widening road from Camp Ahwahnee to Yosemite village; concrete bridge over Mercer River near El Capitan; extension of road sprinkling system for Yosemite village to Happy Isles and Camp Lost Arrow; improvement of power plant; extension and improvement of water supply system; improvement of trails to Yosemite Falls, Eagle Peak, Glacier Point, Nevada Falls, Tittill Valley and Lake Vernon; construction of new trail from Yosemite Point via White Wolf, Harden Lake and Smith Meadows to Junction with Hetch Hetchy trail on Poopenaw Meadows; sprinkling El Portal Yosemite road and general improvement and maintenance of roads, trails and bridges.

Sequoia National Park: Widening Grand Forest road; experimental oiling of three miles of road, extension of telephone lines, stairway on Moro Rock; general repairs and administration.

Gen. Grant National Park: Three-fourths of a mile of new road in order to give separate route to automobiles; water supply system for tourist camp; fencing camp grounds.

For the development and care of the national parks the Secretary of the Interior has asked Congress to appropriate $733,014, an increase of $505,464 over the appropriation for the current fiscal year. The national parks constitute ideal recreation grounds for thousands of people, but their development and use are seriously retarded by the lack of adequate roads and trails, and until sufficient money is appropriated for beginning a comprehensive plan of development the parks will fall short of rendering the important public use for which they are intended. It is the intention of the department to make the principal places of interest in the park more accessible, to render traveling more comfortable by sprinkling the roads throughout the dry season and to guard the health of the traveler by the installation of proper water supply and sewage systems. The responsibility for the future conduct of the national parks rests with Congress, but the department feels the financial needs of these reservations should be clearly presented to Congress in the annual estimates.

Conspiracy.

WILL TESTIFY IN OWN BEHALF.

TWENTY ACCUSED IN DYNAMITE CASE TO BE HEARD.

Defendants' Attorneys Say that Scores of New Witnesses Have Been Summoned to Bolster Up Reputations of Officials for "Peace and Quiet."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Dec. 8.—About twenty of the defendants so far unheard, including executive board members of the Ironworkers' Union, are to begin tomorrow their testimony at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial.

Those still to appear in their own behalf against the government's charges that they aided in the McNamara dynamite plots by causing explosives to be transported on passenger trains illegally are John T. Butler, Buffalo, vice-president of the union; Michael J. Young, Boston; Frank C. Webb, New York; John H. Barry, St. Louis; J. E. Munsey, Salt Lake City, and Eugene A. Clancy, San Francisco.

Attorneys for the defendants said that scores of new witnesses have been summoned to testify as to the reputation of the union officials for "peace and quiet." Altogether about 100 more witnesses for the defense are to appear.

Three of the defendants, including Herbert S. Hockin, accused leader of the "dynamiting crew" and "betrayer" of the McNamaras, are confined in jail because of their inability to furnish bonds.

Alfred R. Hovey, who with Senator John W. Kern is counsel for Munsey of Salt Lake City and Clancy and Olaf A. Tveitmoe of San Francisco, said tonight:

"We do not expect to put Clancy and Munsey on the stand until four or five days or until after most of the testimony of the defendants from eastern cities has been completed. Clancy has been making his own arrangements as to who shall be summoned in his behalf."

Among witnesses for Munsey will be Thomas Kearns, Salt Lake City, former United States Senator.

TVEITMOE NOT TO TESTIFY.

"As for Tveitmoe, we do not believe he will take the stand at all. Our belief is that the evidence produced by the government against him has not been sufficient to warrant his testifying."

The three defendants mentioned have been charged by the government specifically as implicated in Los Angeles explosions. Tveitmoe, as secretary-treasurer of the California Building Trades Council and a labor leader who helped finance the efforts to unionize various trades in Los Angeles, has been accused by the government and in testimony as follows:

Of asking John J. McNamara, after the Los Angeles Times explosion, for more explosions in Los Angeles, and acknowledging Ortie E. McManigal's explosion in an iron works in Los Angeles on December 25, 1910, as a "Christmas present to the Pacific Coast."

Of furnishing David Caplan and M. A. Schmidt to help James B. McNamara blow up the Times Building.

Of helping to get Caplan and Schmidt "out of the way" so they never have been found.

It was also charged that McNamara, while in San Francisco arranging for The Times explosion, called up Tveitmoe on the telephone.

Clancy also has figured in the testimony. McManigal said after causing the second explosion in Los Angeles that, while looking for Tveitmoe at the Building Trades Council in San Francisco, he met Clancy and Clancy "almost fainted." Arthur Veitch, deputy District Attorney of Los Angeles county, said Clancy once fainted at sight of McManigal. Clancy, who was in Boston at the time of the first Los Angeles explosion, is accused of telegraphing to San Francisco to "clean house," meaning, the government charges, to destroy evidence.

ATLANTIC LINERS SUFFER FROM STORM.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Reporting bad weather during the last half-week of their voyage passengers arrived here today on board the St. Paul of the American line and the Minnetonka of the Atlantic Transport line. During the nasty weather of Wednesday a big wave swept the St. Paul and flooded Capt. Passow's room.

On the same afternoon a wave struck Miss J. Morrison, who was walking on the weather side of the Minnetonka. She was thrown to the deck with such force that her right arm was sprained.

Among the passengers on board the St. Paul were Lyle D. Andrews, who was treasurer and business manager for Oscar Hammerstein in the London Operahouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Story.

Mr. and Mrs. Story are on their way to Philadelphia, where they will remain for the Christmas holidays.

Gov.-Gen. Forbes Predicts Big Trade Expansion.

Disapproves Bill Granting Independence.

Says Islanders Show Genius for Commerce.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Gov.-Gen. William Cameron Forbes, who will leave here tomorrow, for Seattle, whence he will sail for the Philippines December 16, came out in warm disapprobation of the Jones "Independence" bill. Forbes says that any talk of free-self government for the Filipinos, beyond the autonomy given them under the present administration, is absurd.

He predicts that the opening of the Panama canal will end once and for all Filipino aspirations for independence. The growth of trade will be such, says Forbes, that the Filipinos, who are developing remarkable genius for commerce, will be the last to wish the political alliance with the United States severed.

Forbes returned to his New England home a very sick man in May last. His leave of absence has completely restored his health, and he goes back to Manila ready to end his term as Governor-General by another spell of hard work in the interest of Filipinos and Americans.

He had a long conference with President Taft. Brig.-Gen. McIntyre, director of the Bureau of Insular affairs, and his predecessor, Gen. James Francis Smith, of San Francisco, Cal., while the latter was in Washington. Gen. Smith is now one of the judges of the court of Customs Appeals, and one of the most popular Californians in the capital.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] It is stated here that the Filipino delegate in Congress, Manuel Quezon, has the pledges of William J. Bryan, Representative Jones of Virginia, Chairman of the Committee on Insular affairs, and other prominent Democrats that the Jones bill giving the Filipinos complete independence in eight years will be pushed through the House as a "paramount" issue, despite the fact that President-elect Wilson has not yet committed himself on the question.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 8.—The local police are searching for a masked robber, who went through a sleeping car on the Canadian Pacific Railway's eastbound Imperial limited as it left Vancouver last night and held up the conductor and all the passengers.

The robber got $308 in bills, two watches, a diamond ring, and a pocketful of loose change before he dropped off the train as it slowed down for Barnet, six miles east of here.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Klaw & Erlanger will appeal from the verdict for $22,500 awarded last Friday to Edith St. Clair by a jury on a ten years' contract, which Erlanger revoked on the alleged ground that it was obtained under duress. He charged an attorney with blackmail. The contract was for ten years at $2500 a year, but was lived up to for only one year, according to the testimony.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Dec. 8.—The Episcopal Church of the district of Nevada, in convocation here yesterday, was placed on record by adoption of a resolution pledging the clergymen to require a certificate of health before performing a marriage ceremony "in any case where there is a reasonable doubt as to the fitness of either party for marriage."

As a part of the resolutions, the convocation also advocated the passage of a law by the next Legislature in Nevada requiring that such a certificate of health be presented to the County Clerk upon application for a license to marry.

The convocation by resolution also urged that the coming Legislature amend the present divorce law so as to provide for a residence of one year before coming under jurisdiction of Nevada courts.

Progressives to Come in for Sharp Criticism.

Archbald Trial to Last Until Christmas.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Criticism of Col. Roosevelt and the Progressive party and of President Taft is expected in the Senate early in the week, from Senator Works of California. It is understood he has prepared a speech based on the revelations of campaign contributions and expenditures and he is expected to deal vigorously with the subject.

The resumption of the "money trust" investigation tomorrow and a hearing Tuesday on the O'Shaughnessy resolution for a Congressional investigation of Grand Trunk and New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad operations in New England promise to divide Congressional attention this week, with the Archbald impeachment trial and the consideration of general legislation in the two houses.

"MONEY TRUST" QUERY.

Before the end of the week, it is expected, the campaign expenditures investigation by the Clapp committee, and the "shipping trust" inquiry by the House Committee on Merchant Marine will be under way. Bankers and financiers from New York, Baltimore and Pittsburgh are under subpoena to appear before Chairman Pujo's "Money Trust" Investigation Committee during the week.

In the trial by impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald of the Commerce Court, efforts will be made to hasten the presentation of testimony. Senators are skeptical as to the possibility of concluding the trial before the Christmas recess.

APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Appropriation legislation will hold the right of way in the House. It is expected that the legislative, executive and judicial bill will be completed and pass during the week and that consideration of the Indian bill will be begun. The Senate Committee on Appropriations probably will make changes in the legislative bill that will add several million dollars in the measure.

NEW WIRELESS LAW IS RIGID.

GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION IN EFFECT NEXT FRIDAY.

Licenses Are Required on All Steamers and Shore Stations and Nine Divisional Headquarters Are Established, Including San Francisco and Seattle.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—An extensive system of government supervision over wireless telegraphy will become effective next Friday, four months from the date of the enactment of the law. San Francisco and Seattle will be among the divisional headquarters.

Government licenses hereafter will be required for all shore stations and for steamers leaving American ports. There are several hundred shore stations along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the Gulf and the Great Lakes, and Porto Rico. The number of steamships required to carry wireless under the new law is estimated at 1000. Every steamer with a carrying capacity of fifty passengers on trips exceeding 200 miles is required to have two operators for its wireless equipment, in order to provide continuous watchfulness for signals of distress. Safeguards for quick communication between the bridges of steamers and the wireless operating-room are also provided. If accident to the ship should derange the machinry, provision is made for auxiliary machinery to continue the wireless in operation.

DIVISIONAL HEADQUARTERS.

The country has been divided into nine districts for the purpose of carrying out the supervision, the divisional headquarters being located at New York, Baltimore, Savannah, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle, Cleveland and Chicago.

The government inspectors are required to visit the shore stations and ships and to report upon the equipment and efficiency of instruments. These reports are to be made the basis of licenses issued by the government. No station or ship will be permitted to operate a wireless plant without such license. Wireless operators also must be licensed.

Under the new system some naval stations on the South Atlantic Coast and on the Pacific Coast, and the army stations in Alaska, where there are no commercial stations, will be open for general business.

NEW LAW IS STRICT.

The new law was framed shortly after the Titanic disaster, and one of its provisions gives a right of way for distress signals, as follows:

"All stations are required to give absolute priority to signals and radiograms relating to ships in distress; to cease all sending on hearing a distress signal; and except when engaged in answering or aiding the ship in distress, to refrain from sending until all signals relating to the distress call are completed."

DIDN'T NEED A DOCTOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DEVILS LAKE (N. D.) Dec. 8.—Lars Jensen, a laborer employed on a building under construction here, fell from the third floor yesterday when a scaffold broke. He was buried beneath bricks and mortar. While his fellow-employees were loudly discussing whether to call a physician or to notify the coroner, a voice from beneath the debris shouted: "To —— with the doctor, dig me out." Fifteen minutes later Jensen was working on another scaffold apparently unhurt.

CHARGES MALICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MUSKOGEE (Okla.) Dec. 8.—John H. Carter, former president of the American National Bank of Asheville, N. C., indicted yesterday at Greensboro on the charge of misapplication of the funds of the institution, maintains his innocence, declares the charge is the result of malice and says the only question that ever came up between himself and associates in the bank was an "excess line of accommodation extended to a corporation." Carter has been in Oklahoma several days assisting in the organization of a trust company. Carter said he helped organize the company six years ago and owned the majority of the stock. He resigned in April, 1910.

SUBMERGED TAXI.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—A half-submerged taxicab was found by the police yesterday in Wolf River, a stream south of Chicago. It is thought to be the "black car" used by automobile bandits in the robbery of four South Side stores and restaurants, in one of which they shot down Charles Sherman, the 60-year-old proprietor, who defended his cash drawer with a bread knife and drove off the robbers. They shot Sherman through the right lung as they ran, but today he is considered to have a fair chance of recovery. The taxicab was stolen from a livery company here.

WINDJAMMER'S LAST TRIP TO BREAK WORLD RECORD.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] The great steel clipper, Erskine M. Phelps, has left here on her last voyage to Honolulu and San Francisco as a windjammer. When she berths at her buoy in the Golden Gate, auxiliary engines will be installed to prepare her for faster service to the Hawaiian Islands and the Orient through the Panama Canal. Her skipper hopes to make the last trip under wind alone around the world record.

A full-rigged and stately queen of the waters when all her sails are set, the Erskine M. Phelps was the first steel clipper built in the United States, and she has more fast voyages to her credit than any other sailing ship afloat.

HITCHCOCK DISTRIBUTES FUND FOR NEW EQUIPMENT.

Postmaster-General in Anticipation of Big Rush of Business Has Purchased Large Amount of Supplies and Awaits Estimate of Increased Cost.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Postmaster-General Hitchcock has apportioned among 1600 postoffices having city delivery, $300,000 of the parcels-post appropriation to be used for equipment of the delivery of parcels-post business.

The amounts allotted to the ten largest cities of the country follow: Chicago, $15,000; New York, Boston and Philadelphia, each $10,000; Brooklyn, $5000; St. Louis, $5000; Pittsburgh, $4000; Baltimore, Cleveland and San Francisco, each $2500. In addition to this emergency allowance, the Postmaster-General has authorized postmasters to employ as many temporary and auxiliary clerks and carriers as may be necessary to handle the increasing volume of business.

After the parcels-post system has been in operation fifteen days from January 1, the postmasters are directed to submit reports showing the volume of the parcels business, the additional cost and an outline of the plans for handling the new business. Through these reports, Mr. Hitchcock expects to obtain a close estimate of the cost of the parcels post, so that he may inform Congress what appropriations will be necessary for the new system.

For the establishment of the parcels-post system, the Postmaster-General has already authorized the expenditure of $180,000 for supplies and equipment. More than 20,000 scales have been bought at a cost of $72,000; the guides and regulations will cost $43,000, 25,000 special mail sacks, $22,000; 10,000,000 tags, $16,000; 120,000 special zone maps, $12,000; 110,000 impellnes, $1000, and 195,000 rubber stamps and small miscellaneous necessities, $11,000.

MAY DISCONTINUE FIGHT.

Head of San Pedro's Dry Zone League Willing to Compromise on Removal of Certain Saloons There.

"Compromise" was the word yesterday in the fight against the "wet" election result being made by the Dry Zone League of San Pedro, of which Clyde C. Johnston is president. "We will agree to discontinue our fight," said Johnston last night, "if the Council will move the saloons off of Front street and restrict the number to four, which will then give us the same ratio to population that Los Angeles proper has.

"This move must come from the Council, and I understand that several of the members look with favor upon a compromise. If it is not effected we will proceed with an initiative petition and submit the question to a vote of the entire city. We had our fight won until the steamships Harvard and Yale unloaded their cargoes for voting purposes."

At the present time there are ten saloons in San Pedro and two in Wilmington. A large percentage of the San Pedro places are located on the water front. Johnston thinks that the saloon men themselves would consent to forsake this street and cut down their number to six in the interests of peace and harmony.

COMES FOR GRANDCHILD.

Banker Has Alleged Kidnaper of Son's Son Arrested—Another Said to Be in Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frank Crouch was arrested by detectives late last evening during a quarrel with L. D. Gale, a Sherman (N.Y.) banker, who charges Crouch with the kidnaping of Gale's grandson, and who says he fears violence at the hands of Crouch.

Crouch searched for Gale all day. Several times the men missed each other by barely a minute. At 9 o'clock last evening Gale returned to the Albany from the Detention Home, where his grandson, DeWitt Gale, is being cared for. Crouch ran up to Gale and hot words immediately followed. The quarrel became so heated after a moment or two that the detectives stepped up and arrested Crouch.

The Los Angeles police department advises that Laura, Gale's granddaughter, is there and Gale will leave Monday to get the girl from her mother, and will take the two children back to New York. He charges Crouch with fraudulent cashing of money orders in Cleveland. Leon Gale, the father of the children, was awarded their custody when he secured a divorce two years ago.

More Truth Than Poetry

"It was a cough
That carried him off;
It was a coffin
They carried him off in."

The action of the Board of Health, urging citizens to take precautions against the prevailing coughs and colds, brings to mind the old jingle. Probably most of the deaths in this country today are the result of diseases which had their origin in neglected coughs.

There is no better prescription for giving immediate relief to acute coughs and speedily breaking up the most severe colds than that of a famous throat specialist who always advises his patients to shake together two ounces of glycerine, eight ounces of whiskey and half an ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine, and to take a teaspoonful of this simple remedy every four hours.

Any druggist can supply you with genuine Virgin Oil of Pine, which comes only in sealed half-ounce vials in wooden cartons bearing the label of The Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati.—[Advertisement.

BULL MOOSE SPECIAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and 150 other Progressive party leaders and members of the party left for the Progressive conference at Chicago, on a special train of ten cars from the rear of which an electrical letters was emblazoned "Bull Moose special." A number of New England and New Jersey members accompanied the New York delegation. Others were to join the party at Albany.

Col. Roosevelt and his party were greeted by a small crowd as they left at 1 o'clock. Although the colonel made no comment to make on the election, several members of his party, particularly Oscar Strauss and Frank A. Munsey, declared that if the Republican party hoped to reunite itself it would have to turn to Roosevelt.

These sentiments were in reference to the decision yesterday of the Republican Governors' conference in Washington to wait another year before taking steps to reorganize the party, with the hope expressed that differences might be brought back and be laid.

Mr. Munsey said that those attempting this task had a "big job on their hands." He added that the only way to achieve the union was for the Republicans to accept the Progressive platforms and policies and come into the party as formed. If they did this, he said, the two parties would be united.

More than a score of women were in the party. Others were Elon Hooker, national treasurer; Theodore Douglass Robinson, Timothy L. Woodruff and a large number of New York City local leaders.

THE POPE ILL.

Nearly Fainted as a Result of the Recent Consistory — Restoratives Used to Revive Him.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, Dec. 8. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] The Pope was so affected by dizziness and sickness caused by the swaying of the chair during the recent consistory that he nearly fainted in his apartments and doctors had to use restoratives to revive him. It has since been decided that at all future functions the Pope shall be carried in the chair only inside the hall of beatifications and not all the way from his apartments and down the steps, which occupies a full quarter of an hour. This action was taken because it was feared that at the Pope's age such an attack as the recent one might some time prove fatal.

The use of the chair cannot be abolished, as it is part of the liturgy, and during the ceremonial the pontiff is carried shoulder high surrounded by cardinals with other lay and ecclesiastical functionaries walking behind.

TORTURE TALES SHOCK KOREA.

Follows Attempt on Life of Japanese Governor.

Court Allows Accused Wide Latitude on Stand.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEOUL (Korea) Dec. 8—Two weeks have elapsed since the beginning of the trial of 106 Koreans charged with conspiring against the life of Count Terauchi, the Japanese Governor-General, and only half the prisoners have undergone direct examination by Judge Zuzuki. The rules of procedure require that this examination be based strictly upon the Dossier handed in by the public procurator, which gives the results of the police examinations.

The court continues to allow the prisoners the greatest latitude. The long stories they tell of terrible hardships at the hands of the police during their preliminary examinations run unchecked and increase daily in harrowing detail notwithstanding the protests of the defendants' counsel. These in open court urged their clients not to dwell upon the stories, which, they maintain, challenge belief and are likely to prove ineffective. The defendants are advised to produce material evidence, alibis and documents which can be used by their counsel with some effect.

The prisoners hear one another testify and when some new detail of torture is related by one, it is repeated generally, by others on successive days until even the judge sometimes suggests greater conciseness.

Among the witnesses whose presence has been demanded by counsel for the defense are several American missionaries the police inspector and his assistants. Judge Zuzuki has promised that he will conduct a searching examination of all evidence presented.

Up to the present time the trial has not presented the slightest indication of prejudice against the Christian movement.

THIEVES PROFANE TOMB.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TURIN, Dec. 8.—The profanation of the tomb of the dowager Duchess of Genoa, the grandmother of King Victor Emmanuel, was the work of thieves, who showed an intimate knowledge of the mausoleum. According to the authorities, the thieves opened three coffins, using acids to melt the metal. They removed the earrings from the body of the Dowager Duchess, and in doing so mutilated one of the ears.

THE ACID TEST OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

10 grammes Picric Acid.
20 grammes Citric Acid.
Water to make one litre.

Equal quantities of this re-agent and specimen from case of Bright's disease in test tube will, in twelve hours, show the percentage of albumen. Thus no one need be in doubt as to the ability of Fulton's Renal Compound to eliminate albumen and permit recoveries in Bright's disease. (Usually takes about twenty days to begin to show.)

The new agent is a mild infusion without opiates or heart stimulants. The substance of the formula surrounds each bottle. Its action being on Renal degeneration, it does not conflict with physicians' prescriptions—can be given with the usual heart, eliminative and tonic treatment. Often gets recoveries alone where there is a fair heart and recuperative power. All do not recover, but it changes the prognosis from despair to hope in many cases. The substance of the formula surrounds each bottle. All druggists.

SHOTGUN DUEL ENDS FATALLY.

Preacher Wounds One, Disables Another.

Tragedy Follows Quarrel Over Estranged Wife.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

GREENSBURG (La.) Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Three men, each armed with a shotgun, stood up and fired at each other until one was mortally wounded, the other so badly disabled he could not fire and the third, a preacher, slightly hurt Thursday evening in a remote section of the parish, according to reports here today. The minister, Fleet Harrell, took Mrs. Charles Lindsey into his home after she separated from her husband. This enraged Lindsey and Thursday he met the minister in front of the latter's home, told him he was armed and suggested that Harrell get his gun. The minister stepped into his house, got his gun and on returning fired at Lindsey just as the latter shot at him. Lindsey fell.

Nat Lindsey, son of Charles, then appeared, and after the old man got to his feet both fired at the minister. In the exchange of shots the son was mortally wounded, the father was shot again but will live, while the minister was only slightly hurt.

The preacher assisted the wounded men into a wagon to be taken to a physician.

KILLED MAN FOR BURGLAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Dec. 8.—Mistaken for a burglar, Emil Bochmann, aged 60, a stonecutter, was shot and killed yesterday by Frank Bedford, in front of the latter's home in Colorado City.

According to Bedford, who was arrested, some one had been prowling around the house early in the evening.

Hearing noises shortly after midnight, Bedford grabbed a gun and rushed out. Seeing Bochmann on the sidewalk and taking him for the would-be burglar, he fired two shots, one of which took effect in the abdomen.

In the patrol wagon on the way to police headquarters, Bedford turned to Police Captain C. C. Barnhardt, who sat beside him, and asked: "Do you know who that man was I killed?"

"Do I?" responded Capt. Barnhardt bitterly. "I ought to. He was my father-in-law."

MASKED MEN ROB GROCER.

Bandits in Oakland Tie and Gag Victim and Secure Two Hundred and Forty-five Dollars.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, Dec. 8.—L. D. Lewis, a 70-year-old grocer of East Oakland, was held up and robbed of $245 by three masked men last night.

The three bandits entered the store by a side entrance and forced the old man to turn out the lights, after which they dragged their victim to a back room where they gagged him with a wet towel and tied his arms and legs with ropes. After this was accomplished they began ransacking the store until they came across an old tin box containing $200. The cash register yielded $33 and $12 was taken from Lewis's pockets.

Lewis's condition was not known until half an hour later when a customer happened to come into the store and heard him groaning.

PERSISTENT DIGGING WON FIRST BOOKLOVERS' PRIZE.

Jesse W. Detrick, a Clerk in the Railway Mail Service, Residing at No. 6317 Elgin Street, Highland Park, Los Angeles, Winner of the First Prize in The Times Booklovers' Contest.

HERE'S how Jesse W. Detrick of Highland Park, Los Angeles, winner of first prize in The Times Booklovers' Contest, achieved his success, and how he feels about it. Detrick got the answers to sixty-nine of the seventy-seven pictures correct, and made 643 answers in all—an average of more than eight answers to each picture. But let the winner tell for himself how he won that $1750 automobile.

BY JESSE W. DETRICK.

I was considerably surprised and gratified to read in my Sunday Times that I was the winner of the first prize, as I had not expected to be so fortunate.

Persistent digging through the catalogue, the invaluable assistance of my wife, and the help of some few friends who, on numerous occasions, assisted me when I was in doubt in selecting my answers enabled me to win. With the assistance of my wife I went through the catalogue and took every title that even remotely applied to the picture I was working upon, and wrote it in a notebook, sometimes getting as many as fifteen or twenty answers to a picture. I then went through the list of answers I had obtained, and eliminated all the answers that did not seem to me to be the correct ones. I believe that it was this method, and my wife's good judgment, that obtained for me the sixty-nine correct answers and the first prize.

I am not related in any manner to any employee of The Times, and I do not know any member of its staff.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Following editorial comments on topics of the hour are printed in eastern newspapers:

EGG GAMBLERS.
COUNTRY MAY STOP IT.

[Baltimore American, Dec. 8:] Last year the cold storage gamblers got hurt badly when they stored millions of eggs because the hens started early to work. And now a half-million dozen of eggs has been sold at Chicago because the egg harvest has interfered with the stored stuff. The prospect of 10 cents a dozen eggs by the 1st of January is too good to be true and despite the slump in eggs in one market the country will have to pay high prices until the egg gamblers in general are forced to disgorge the hoarded supplies. While the general public suffers deprivation and imposition it is a question whether the chickens do not, so to speak, come home to roost in all kinds of bad luck for the gamblers. After awhile the country will demand that egg gambling in any form shall be suppressed.

BLEASE AND HIS POEM.
REBUKE WAS MERITED.

[New York Press, Dec. 8:] If the Governors' conference had not passed the resolution it did in rebuke "To —— with the Constitution," Blease condemning the mob law which the South Carolina Governor had defended it would have dodged an imperative duty. No Governor taking such a stand, as matter of fact, should be permitted to sit in the council.

Yet it cannot be denied that the views of the people of South Carolina are fairly well represented by Cole Blease and his lawlessness. They knew where he stood on lynching when they re-elected him. While there can be nothing but contempt for a Governor who flouts the laws he is sworn to enforce, he must be credited with a certain kind of courage in publicly expressing what is tacitly the policy of numerous Southern Governors, though few care to go to the lengths he does upon the public record.

GOETHALS AND THE ARMY.
HIS PROMOTION URGED.

[New York Times, Dec. 8:] President Taft in his message to Congress recommended the appointment of Col. Goethals as a major-general in recognition of his services as constructor of the Panama Canal. He suggested also that the appointment be accompanied by a provision permitting his designation as chief of engineers on the retirement of the present incumbent of that office.

These suggestions will doubtless be received with favor by the army.

That officers of high rank of the large constructive and executive ability of Col. Goethals might greatly improve the efficiency of the army is not to be questioned, but if their actions are to be hampered and their judgment set aside by ill considered Congressional action, year by year, the army must suffer.

JAPAN QUICK TO ACT.

Representative of Government Here to Inspect Port and Foster Maritime Relations.

That the Panama Canal will mean the development of Los Angeles harbor into one of the great ports of the world, and that it may induce Japan to establish a merchant marine with Los Angeles as a principal port of entry are predictions made by H. Hashhipuchi of Tokio, now in America to investigate harbor and commercial possibilities on behalf of Japanese steamship interests.

Hashhipuchi, who registered last evening at the Van Nuys Hotel, recently returned from Europe, where he went on a similar mission. After inspecting our harbor he will visit the canal zone to secure further data for his report to the companies he represents.

"At present none of our Japanese steamers touch here," said Hashhipuchi last night. "It will be different after the opening of the canal, provided your harbor accommodations prove adequate for our purpose. My people think the canal will open wonderful trade possibilities for us.

"The results of my investigations in Europe are entirely satisfactory. At the present time there are no Japanese vessels plying between Japan and European ports. The time is coming when the Japanese flag will be seen flying from the masthead in every European port of consequence, as well as in the leading American ports. The Panama Canal offers the desired opening at just the right period in Japan's commercial development. We can take care of ourselves in war, but our ambition lies in the direction of peace and a world commerce."

PRETTY ITALIAN WEDDING.

Daughter of Vice-Consul and Young Wine Merchant Married and an All-Day Celebration Follows.

In the presence of some fifty relatives and close friends Miss Anna Pfuma, daughter of Giovanni Pfuma, Italian Vice-Consul, No. 291 North Avenue Twenty, was married yesterday morning to Frank Ghiglia, a young rancher and wine merchant, at St. Peter's Church. Rev. Father Alexandro Bucci performed the ceremony.

An elaborate wedding dinner was served at noon at the Pfuma residence, followed by a reception to friends at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at the M. S. Kornblum Hall, No. 816 East Washington street. There many members of the local Italian colony, in which both families are prominent, bade a congratulatory farewell to the young pair, who left last night for a fortnight's honeymoon in the north. They will make their home in Los Angeles.

IT IS THE TALE of the "Land o' Heart's Desire"—a graphic recital of the bulwark of mighty forces that is making of California, and especially Southern California, not only a "Land of Promise," but a "Land of Fulfilment"—a "paradise on the hither side the grave."

IT DEALS conservatively and convincingly with the stupendous development of the Southland. . . . It recites the story of the sensational unfoldment of Metropolitan Los Angeles. . . . It details golden opportunities in unnumbered fields of endeavor for breadwinner and capitalist. . . . It reviews the inconceivable wealth of natural resources tributary to Los Angeles. . . . It dwells at length upon the marvels of climate and scenery that make Southern California the "all-year out-door playground" of health, wealth and pleasure-seeking America. . . . It enlarges upon the vast commercial and industrial expansion of recent years—the result of the splendid enterprise of the Southland's progressive, energetic citizens.

PERSONAL—Business.

PERSONAL.

Before hiring detectives because of perhaps unjust suspicions regarding husband, wife, friend or employee, seek to discover if there is reason for your fears. Domestic infelicity may be based upon imagination or a cause easily removed when discovered. Psychological investigation may restore the honeymoon spirit. Few divorce are necessary; ascertain whether one is really wanted or necessary before hiring a lawyer. In business, psychology is a tremendous aid, for the psychologist, trained to investigate problems, gets a better view of that which interests you than you can secure because of your interest in the matter. You can perhaps get a view of life which will flood your pathway with sunshine. Why be a fortune teller's dupe when scientific reasoning can be made to bear upon your problems? I give no legal or medical advice. When possible meet my clients at their own homes or offices wherein lies the true psychological condition in which their difficulties arise. $1500 forfeited for proof of violated confidences. Consultation by appointment only. Telephone 71355, 9 to 12, or address Z, box 511, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

HIS JUGULAR EXPOSED.

Man With Terrible Wound in Neck Walks Streets Twelve Hours Before Going to a Hospital.

With a stab wound so deep and long on the right side of the neck that it exposed the jugular vein, each heart pulsation swelling the vein to twice its natural size because there was nothing on the exposed side to support it, Fred Fernandez, 23 years old, living at No. 2417 Los Angeles street, walked the streets for twelve hours before he could find sufficient courage to visit a hospital yesterday and ask for surgical treatment.

After he had been placed upon the operating table at the Los Angeles Hospital, Dr. Jones found another stab thrust that had almost pierced the man's right arm near the shoulder. Fernandez was much surprised when informed of the second wound, declaring that he had been cut but once.

Central Station detectives are trying to locate the Mexican who made the murderous assault upon Fernandez. He denies knowledge of the man, but asserts that he would be able to recognize him. The men had a fight about 11 o'clock Saturday night near Ninth street and Santa Fe avenue. After Fernandez had knocked the unidentified man down he jumped to his feet, pulled his dirk, made two thrusts at Fernandez and ran away.

Fernandez staunched the flow of blood from the neck wound by tieing a handkerchief over the wound. When friends advised Fernandez to go to a hospital he said he was afraid. Twelve hours later his courage returned.

COMMEMORATE MIRACLE.

Congregation Beth Israel and Children of Educational Department Attend Chanukah Services.

Chanukah services—commemorating the miracle of the holy oil—were celebrated by the Congregation Beth Israel and several hundred pupils of the educational department of the institution at the Olive and West Temple street synagogue yesterday afternoon, as they were the nation over.

Solemnly and impressively a long programme was carried out, with vocal and instrumental numbers and addresses by Rev. Moses A. Alter and others.

The story of the miracle of the oil, how it burned in the synagogue eight days when oil enough for but a day was on hand, was one of the features of the afternoon.

Another interesting narrative in connection with the celebration is the story of the ancient Hebrews' victory over their enemies, which the services also commemorate.

The celebration, which began Thursday last, will continue until Friday.

HANFORD GETS MEETING.

Wins Over Santa Rosa in Contest for December Gathering of California Development Board.

HANFORD, Dec. 8.—According to a private dispatch received here this afternoon, Hanford won over Santa Rosa in the fight for the next December meeting of the Counties Committee of the California Development Board, waged at the convention which closed this evening at Oroville. Bearing messages and invitations from the City Council, Merchants' Association, Chamber of Commerce, county Supervisors and other civic bodies, a delegation composed of Ben B. Price, J. D. Biddle and T. E. Cochrane made the fight for the convention for Hanford at Oroville. The convention is expected to bring about 500 delegates from different parts of the State, composed principally of promotion enthusiasts and public officials.

OIL PROSPECTS.

Considerable excitement has been occasioned by the discovery of what is reported to be a considerable amount of oil on top of the water standing in an abandoned artesian well on the W. N. Stratton ranch, near Stratford, in this county. There is said to be a considerable quantity of the oil in evidence and samples of it were being shown here today. The well is about 1000 feet deep, the deepest hole in that district, and it is probable that the discovery will lead to some exploration of the district at greater depth. There are many natural gas wells around Stratford, which supply an abundance of fuel and light for the farmhouses, although only a few hundred feet deep.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The trustees of the First Presbyterian Church have just signed with Henry Gedde of Fresno the contract for the construction of the new edifice to be erected on lots purchased several months ago at Dewey and Irwin streets. The contract price is $16,500 and work will commence next week. The structure will be of brick and cement, in mission style, with a dome tower and art glass windows. It will cover a ground area of 80x110 feet and have seating capacity of 300, besides a Sunday-school room large enough to accommodate several hundred children. A $2000 pipe organ will be installed.

NEWS BRIEFS.

At a meeting of the members of the Kings County Fish and Game Protective Association last evening W. R. Newport, R. A. Whiteley, George L. Tilton, Willitt Foster, A. F. Flory and A. Warrenburg were selected as Kings county delegates at the district convention to be held December 10 at Fresno.

The First Methodist Church has sold its parsonage on Porter street and plans to build a handsome one on lots recently acquired adjacent to the church.

At the meeting of the Lucerne Cream and Butter Company's new directorate today, J. H. Dawson was elected president, George E. Dodge, vice-president, and F. J. Bowden, secretary.

Destiny Draws.

TO TAKE THIRD FLING AT LIFE'S ROULETTE.

MRS. PANSY ELLEN LESH is to return to Los Angeles and take a third fling at life's roulette.

Fortune has smiled on her recently. She was acquitted of the two murders she accused herself of, and behind her inherited a large estate while behind bars here. Now she is to seek reconciliation with her husband.

Whether luck or fate or destiny—whatever controls her remarkable life—will be kind to her now and brim her cup, cannot be foretold even by the man she would reconcile.

"Let her tell me what she wants and I shall answer. I do not know myself, now," said Warren C. Lesh, her husband, in answer to a query put to him in his room at No. 833½ East First street, last night.

"I cannot say I shall receive her; I cannot say I shall not. I have been wronged, yet I stood by her through her trouble here as a man should. Now, I cannot say whether we are better apart or not. The real story underlying all this has not been made public. No, I shall answer only to her and that after I have heard from herself."

Advices from Sedalia, Mo., where Mrs. Lesh was taken to answer for the self-charged murders of Mrs. M. E. Quaintance and Mrs. Eliza A. Coe, said last night that Mrs. Lesh is pining for her husband and her boy, and that she is preparing to return here to them and ask her husband's forgiveness.

Mrs. Lesh is at Jacksonville, Ill., where her executors are completing settlement of the estate which pended adjustment for ten years while search was made for her and which resulted in her "confessions," leading searchers to her while she was in jail here.

In a letter to Sheriff Henderson of Sedalia she announces her intention to return here, but does not specify the date.

"The Wires Cut."

MARINES AND MEXICANS MIX; AMERICANS JAILED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 8.—Two marines attached to Admiral Southerland's fleet now in port were arrested in Tia Juana this afternoon. The men were in uniform.

News of the affair was brought to Admiral Southerland late tonight. He at once left the hotel where he was staying and went on board the flagship California. What steps, if any, will be taken are not yet known.

The arrest of the men is reported to have been the result of a fight. A bluejacket was attacked by a Mexican. The marines went to the sailor's aid and were assailed by the Mexican. The latter had the worst of the fight, whereupon the Mexican police seized the marines and took them to the quartel.

The first news of the affair came this evening when Ensign D. J. Callaghan of the California, who was on patrol duty in this city, received a brief telephone message from the bluejacket who had been first attacked and who stated the facts as given above.

In the midst of the message the bluejacket stopped so suddenly as to suggest that he had been forced to hang up the telephone.

Nothing more could be obtained from Tia Juana.

A message received by telephone from Tia Juana at midnight says that the marines were released early this evening, and that the Mexican who assaulted the bluejacket was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

EARL BECOMES SOCIALIST.

Lord Russell, Grandson of Famous Premier of England First Peer to Take Up Visionary Ideas.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Fabian Society, an organization whose aim is to propagate socialist ideas among the middle and upper classes, has added to its membership roll the name of Earl Russell, the first member of the House of Lords to become a Socialist. George Bernard Shaw is a prominent Fabian and H. G. Wells, the novelist, did much to extend the society's operations, but has now withdrawn from it.

Earl Russell explains the step he has taken by saying he is in general agreement with Socialist idea of placing the control of industry and the means of production in the hands of the community, and he attaches special importance to the nationalization of land.

Lord Russell is the great grandson of the Duke of Bedford, and grandson of Lord John Russell, who was Prime Minister for several years.

SUFFRAGISTS IN CHURCH.

Votes in Sacred Organizations Is Latest Triumph of Advocates of Rights of Femininity.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] The right of franchise in the church is the most recent accomplishment of the devotees of woman suffrage. This concession has been granted by the men of the Memorial Methodist Church. For some time, the men have been of the opinion that the women are doing much good work and that they are being treated unjustly by not being allowed a voice in church matters. A big church meeting was called and the men unanimously agreed that as soon as the preliminaries could be arranged the women who were members of the church should have the right to vote on church matters.

This will require an alteration in the charter and notice has been served in the Court of Common Pleas to the effect that all women members of the church will have a right to vote on church matters.

NEW TWIST TO BADGER GAME?

Eddie Faction Charged With Sebastian Plot.

Planned It to Be Instantly Discovered, Theory.

To Imply that Ex-Censor Was a Similar Victim.

Members of the District Attorney's office assigned to investigate the alleged attempt to discredit Chief Sebastian, expressed their conviction yesterday that the affair was a carefully laid plot to divert attention from the Eddie case. In support of this theory it is contended that the Eddie defense would be materially strengthened if a "frame-up" of this character on Chief Sebastian could be shown. Their view is that the Sebastian scheme was intended by its authors to be immediately discovered.

According to officials conducting the investigation the evidence developed thus far presents an interesting and unusual situation. In event of the "frame-up" going through as planned it would be easy for Eddie's friends to see that Chief Sebastian was summoned and in this way get before the jury the story of the attempt to discredit the head of the city police department. It would not require an astute lawyer, it is argued, to influence the jury in the belief that, if such an attempt was made against the Chief of Police, the suspended City Prosecutor might have been the victim of a like plot.

Yesterday's developments in the imbroglio, which is threatening to involve several persons heretofore not mentioned, lends strong color to this belief. F. W. Lloyd, Eddie witness and intended victim of a recent fiasco wherein the evident purpose was to "job" him, is strong in the conviction that the alleged attempt to discredit the Chief emanated from the same source as the scheme against himself, though with a widely different purpose.

THE SAME SCHEME?

"The plot against the Chief, taking into account the persons named as having been suspected of having a hand in the matter, is no great surprise to me," Lloyd said last night. "There are numerous circumstances connected with the attempt which bear the ear marks of the scheme that was worked on me. Personally, I have no doubt in the world but that the scheme originated and was planned in the minds of friends who are going to extreme lengths in their efforts to break down the case against Eddie."

Jack Arlington, who was mentioned in connection with the Sebastian plot, went into detail yesterday in his denial of complicity in the scheme. Arlington, being placed in the position of "goat" in connection with the Lloyd fiasco, feels anything but friendly toward those primarily responsible for his present incarceration in the County Jail. He insists that he knew absolutely nothing of the plot against the Chief.

"I have no intention of suffering in this affair," he said yesterday at the jail. "The real people behind this Lloyd affair kept still and refused to tell what they knew to the grand jury. So far as this talk of me and Queenie Mack trying to "job" Chief Sebastian, that's a joke. I knew this fellow Faulk was up to something but didn't know what it was. I did tell Queenie that if anyone asked her to say that she had called the Chief, but that was just to draw this fellow on and make him "tip his hand." Why, that very night when Queenie was supposed to be in her room, she went to the show with me. The real truth of the matter is, in my opinion, that this deal was a "frame-up" to help the looks of Eddie's case. As far as I am concerned there is nothing to it. I have hired a lawyer and they have nothing on me."

DIGGING DEEP.

Efforts to get at the truth concerning the source of the $100 furnished by interested parties at the time of the Lloyd affair parties at the time of tery yesterday. A report was current that Lloyd had in his possession a check drawn on a prominent member of the Good Government Organization for the amount named and that this check was thought to be the one upon which the money was secured. This report proved erroneous. Cecil H. Nicholson, the go-between in the Lloyd affair, said yesterday that he had reason for believing the money came from the secret service fund of the City Prosecutor's office, but this statement was denied by City Prosecutor Nimmo.

In a statement touching the Lloyd matter Nicholson said yesterday that an attempt was made at the time he signed the statement concerning the money transaction with Lloyd, to induce him to say that the money had been paid for gambling protection. This, according to his story, he refused to sign, whereupon another statement was prepared and signed. Prosecutor Nimmo, when asked concerning this matter, said he had taken the statement and that there was some discussion at the time about the contents of the document. He said that no attempt had been made in his office to influence Nicholson in the character of the statement he should make. Nimmo at that time, according to his own statement, told the persons interested in the affair that they had a "mighty weak case against Lloyd."

Frank Faulk, who was arrested and held in custody on suspicion of being connected with the alleged plot to blackmail Chief Sebastian, was released yesterday. Faulk was a witness before the grand jury, and it was largely on his testimony that a number of additional witnesses have been summoned to appear before the grand jury at today's session.

The determination to go to the bottom of the matter has led to an investigation of every possible angle of the unsavory affair, and there was a strong intimation from official sources that the work of the grand jury was really just begun. Among

Dr. J. W. Kramer,

The new pastor of Central Baptist Church, whose first sermon, preached yesterday, was filled with verbal bullets.

Ambition.

HIS CHURCH FOR MAJOR LEAGUE.

FIRE AND PUNCH IN CENTRAL BAPTIST'S NEW PASTOR.

"Baseball Preacher's" First Sermon a Broadside of Epigram. He Gives Notice to Others of the Cloth Here to Look to Their Laurels—A Policy of Militancy.

"I propose to give every minister in Los Angeles a run for his money; the field is wide and the race will be clean," said Rev. James W. Kramer, D. D., new pastor of the Central Baptist Church, yesterday.

His first sermon before the Central Baptist congregation, yesterday morning, was a volley of epigrams. He outlined his policies, told his auditors what they might expect of him, gently slammed a certain type of minister, ridiculed the rich man's church, and altogether managed to create the impression of a forceful personality.

"I have no desire to be the minister of a rich church," Dr. Kramer asserted, "or of a one-man church, a family church, a church with the sheep on the inside and the lambs on the outside. I want an attractive church and not a jail. God is not a policeman, but a father.

"A church with a ghost in the pulpit and an undertaker's sign over the door will fail to draw. Let a minister have a message and he will get his hearers. The same old truths should be uttered but they need a new setting. The sermon must find the man where he lives. Preach politics? No; but preach the gospel into politics.

"Many a man is dying of dignity and does not know he has the disease. If Christ were alive he would use twentieth century methods. I do not believe in a Sunday night concert, a religious show, ragtime methods, but I do believe in church services which are free from cant and groans. I am more concerned about making Los Angeles a holy city than I am about seeing the Holy City.

"The New Testament church is not a haphazard, free-lance, outlaw league. I do not intend to administer to the tubes pepsin tablets and soothing syrup. Churches that do not keep pace with the times had better go into bankruptcy. A church was never intended to be a retreating army. The heartbeat makes the most perfect oratory; it is the only clutch that will hold men.

"We have tried in the pulpit to feed the people on philosophy speculation, higher criticism, but the people have refused to stick their noses into this chaff. There are many churches Christ would not join if He were on earth. He would not join the church where the rich are seated in rented pews, and the poor away back by the door; where the poor man is compelled to work all day Sunday, while the manservant attends divine worship; the church which keeps on its records names which secret orders spurn; the church which never advertises itself to the lost. The coming church must be sin-bearing, and must stand in the other fellow's place."

He looks smilingly out upon the world from a pair of kindly dark gray eyes. His features are well defined and indicate strength of character and a marked individuality. There is a healthful tan about the cheeks, bespeaking wholesome exercise out of doors. He impresses one as being a person who finds life well worth the living, and glad to do whatever he can to put everybody else in the same attitude of mind.

He is married and has "the best wife and three of the finest boys that ever put foot into cow leather," to use his own words. He is 41 years old and was born in Columbia, S. C. His parents were Germans. He attended the graded and High Schools of Atlanta, Ga., Walker's College, Southern Presbyterian and Baptist Theological Seminaries. He has been immensely successful as a minister and has built up more than one large church.

For the past four years Dr. Kramer has been pastor of the First Baptist Church of Spokane, where he preached to the largest Sunday evening congregation in the city. It is said the crowds were so great that at times they could not all be accommodated. He was called "the baseball preacher" because of his being an enthusiastic fan, and was on terms of personal friendship with every ball player in the city. He is a thirty-second degree Mason, national chaplain of the Rotary Clubs, a member of the Odd Fellows and of the Knights of Pythias.

TOWNSHIPS IN HOT CIVIL WAR.

Belvedere and San Antonio Waters Boil Over.

Would Recall Judiciary and Constabulary Both.

Warren Resigns; Garwood to Fight to the End.

An attempt to make sweeping renovations of its judiciary and constabulary has the township of Belvedere by the ears. Recall petitions will go into circulation this morning, demanding that Justice of the Peace D. W. Garwood and Constable Samuel G. Warren be ousted from office because of alleged unfitness and inefficiency. Rival factions in Belvedere and the adjoining township of San Antonio are up in arms, prepared for a fight.

Warren will appear before the Board of Supervisors this morning to ask that his resignation, mailed yesterday, be accepted at once. He is resolved that the recall shall not "get" him. Garwood says he will fight, and challenges his enemies to debate in open forum the questions at issue. San Antonio people are all agog, because it is proposed that their township be consolidated with Belvedere; and they would like a chance to say who the officers of the law are to be. A committee of Belvedereans is expected to follow Warren before the Supervisors and ask that a temporary successor be appointed.

Warren last night said he had received information from William Fellows, supposed to favor the recall action, that rival candidates for the offices both men hold are behind the move to toss them out. He names H. L. Hopkins, brother of the County Assessor, as the man who will seek the bench, and T. G. Holtz as the candidate for constable. The affair is also characterized as an outlet for professional jealousy. Hopkins, Warren and Garwood are all real estate men, with offices not far apart. J. R. Romines of San Antonio, who arranged with Holly & Holly, attorneys, for the drawing up of the recall petitions, is also a realty man.

THE EARLY BIRD.

When Warren heard yesterday that an attempt was to be made to recall him, he at once conferred with E. O. Clay, who wants to be constable, and Clay started out with a petition furthering his candidacy, which is being signed by numbers of Belvedere voters. Warren is certain Clay will become his successor. The opposition is equally sure Holtz will be chosen. Sparks will fly when Clay's and Holtz's friends take up cudgels before the Supervisors.

Proponents of the recall stated yesterday that Garwood, formerly a painter, does not know any law, and that Warren, who was a carpenter before he began to sell real estate, has not enforced as much law as has been permitted to percolate into the inner consciousness of the Belvedereans. The latter say they have been unable to get complaints issued by Garwood, or to get arrests made by Warren. Garwood is charged with fining Mrs. Anna McKenna $5 because she refused to testify against her husband, which under the law a woman cannot be obliged to do. It is further stated that Garwood failed to jail a couple of chicken thieves, but let them go without trial.

The "Night-Owl Gang," a crowd of youthful roisterers who infest the streets of Belvedere, is said not to have been properly curbed by either Warren or his deputies. It is charged that these lads, ranging in age from 12 to 22 years, have blockaded the sidewalks, expectorated on the windows, insulted women and destroyed property without hindrance. Warren is blamed for shooting an inmate of the Whittier School, who escaped recently and was brought back with a bad wound. It is charged also that he sends deputies to make arrests, or fails to have them made, rather than do the work himself. This condition of inaction, complained of in the alleged negligence of both officials, is said to have begun in April, 1911, when the fee system was abolished and they were placed on straight salary. Warren receives $40 a month, with fees for civil service. Garwood gets $50 a month.

THEIR SIDE OF IT.

Garwood last night denied the charges against him without qualification. "I have failed to issue warrants only when there has been no corroborative evidence," he said. "When it was simply a case of one man's word against another's, I have realized the impossibility of a conviction. I admit that I fined the woman $5; but it wasn't because she wouldn't testify against her husband. It was because, after she had badgered us into chasing all over the county after him, because she said he abused her, had a change of heart and replied: "It's none of your business,' when I asked whether the man we caught was her husband. That was clearly contempt of court. As for the chicken thieves, the people who owned the fowls refused to testify against them, so I let them go. The Night-Owl gang is bad. Something ought to be done; but they always mind their P's and Q's when I'm about and I can't find anyone to give evidence in court against them."

Warren was bitter against the people who, he says, have been heckling him. "They talk about the Night-Owl gang," he said. "I am always getting telephone calls to look out for that crowd, but the people won't give their names or appear in court. The whole town is afraid to start something. As for that Whittier lad, I had to shoot in self-defense. He came at me with a rock. I go to the dance-halls, it's true; but that's to keep order, and my conduct is seemly. Garwood and I ran together on the Democratic ticket, receiving indorsement of the Socialists and Prohibitionists. It is absurd to say the votes of all three parties had to be counted to elect us. I've been planning to resign for some time, to take full charge of my realty interests, and I'm going to beat 'em to it before the Supervisors tomorrow."

Would Oust These.

Justice D. W. Garwood (above) and Constable Samuel G. Warren of Belvedere township, petitions for whose recall will start this morning. Warren will beat his enemies to it by resigning, but Garwood will fight.

"FOOLISHNESS," SAYS WILLIAMS.

HAYNES BOARD INVESTIGATION OF ITSELF PLAYED.

May Take Fat Policemen to Get Members of the Council to Answer Civil Service Subpoenas from Their Own Creation—Citizens' Committee Named Tomorrow.

From all the signs the meeting of the Civil Service Commission this morning for the purpose of investigating itself with the enforced aid of the members of the City Council, present under subpoena, will be among the classics of municipal history. Not only because it will be an example of the tail wagging the dog—a commission ordering its creators about—but because the Councilmanic body may make it necessary to employ vigorous means to have them present to explain why they voted to have Dr. John R. Haynes's commission investigated by a citizens' committee following the filing of charges by turned-down applicants for the job of superintendent of the bureau of fire alarm and police telegraph.

President Williams of the Council minces no words in the matter. "This is all foolishness," he said, referring to the "investigation." "I will investigate the right of the commission to compel my attendance before them, and if I find such a right exists, of course, I shall obey; otherwise I shall pay no attention to the summons. If every one stopped this childishness and got down to busi-

Taxmen and Axmen.

WHO IS TO PAY STATE DEFICIT?

Four Million Shortage Must Be Met Next Year.

Assessors and Equalizers to Meet Here Tomorrow.

Grave Budget Question on Four-Day Programme.

Whether there should be a raise in taxation for corporations to meet a deficit estimated at over $4,000,000 in State funds for the coming year, or whether an ad valorem tax that will strike the whole people should be levied, will be a principal point of discussion during the eleventh annual convention of the County Assessors' Association of California, which will open in Los Angeles tomorrow and continue until Friday evening.

Other questions that will have much attention are the proposed law to give assessors, auditors and tax collectors more time to do their work, and the query as to what the word "value" means in the statute relating to the exemption from taxation of property belonging to veterans of our wars. The abolition of the poll tax, ardently desired in many quarters, will come in for debate, also.

The convention will bring to Los Angeles the State Board of Equalization, practically all the County Assessors in California, and tax agents and corporate representatives from many cities. Members of the next Legislature have been especially urged to be present, since the deliberations of the gathering are likely to shape important legislation proposed for the next session at Sacramento.

The convention will meet in the Hall of Records, where the address of welcome will be delivered tomorrow morning by Chairman Pridham of the Board of Supervisors, if that official has recovered sufficiently from his late illness. Clarence E. Jarvis, president of the association, will be in the chair. The local arrangements have been going on for weeks under the supervision of County Assessor Hopkins.

AFTERNOON PROGRAMME.

Reports of committees will fill the morning hours, after the address of welcome. The first speech of the afternoon will be on "Valuations," by John Mitchell, of the State Board of Equalization. He will be followed by Montgomery M. Moulton, Assessor of San Diego county, who will talk on "Veterans' Exemptions." Under the present law, if the property of a veteran is valued at less than $5000, he is exempted from taxation on $1000 of it. The question is, does that $5000 mean real or assessed valuation? Each Assessor has decided this question in his own way, with much resultant confusion. It is desired that legislative enactment secure uniformity hereafter.

"Escaped Assessments," by Attorney Hartley Shaw of Los Angeles, will be the last address of the afternoon. In eastern States Assessors are permitted to go back several years in collecting taxes on property that has escaped being put on the rolls, while in California this may be done for only one year.

"Methods of Equitable Assessments," will be the topic Wednesday morning of John Ginty, Assessor of San Francisco county. He will be followed by Edmund Norton of Los Angeles on "Simplicity of the Single Tax." The morning session will close with an address of "Troubles of a New Assessor," by Clio Lloyd, Assessor of Santa Barbara county. Discussion will follow all papers.

The afternoon will open with a debate between E. J. Kay and J. W. Hollister, assessors, respectively of Sacramento and San Luis Obispo counties, on "Should the Poll Tax Be Abolished?" with Kay taking the affirmative. E. A. De Camp, a Los Angeles pioneer, will speak on "Assessors I Have Known."

Mistress of Empire.

LAND SHE LOVED LOSES NOTED NATIVE DAUGHTER.

SENORA FRANCISCA ESCANDON DE SANCHEZ, descendent of one of California's oldest and wealthiest families, is dead.

With her demise from old age at the home of one of her daughters, Mrs. J. M. Barker, at No. 1616 Bridge street, yesterday California lost one of its historic feminine notables, a woman who in her 74 years of life witnessed the evolution of the State from the days before its organization and admission to the Union to the present time.

Senora Escandon was the widow of the late ex-State Senator Angel G. Escandon, one of the first Senators from what was then Ventura county, elected in 1874, two years after the county was created, and who divided it into Santa Barbara and Ventura. She survived her husband a full quarter of a century and since his death has lived in Los Angeles.

The senora was born on the Rancho Santa Clara, her father's great property, in what is now Ventura county, in 1838, eleven years before the State Constitution was framed and adopted, twelve years before California was admitted to statehood, and thirty-four years before Ventura became a county. Don Juan Sanchez, once owner of vast tracts of California, was her father.

Requiem high mass will be said over her remains at St. Mary's Church at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

Sra. Francisca Escandon

De Sanchez, widow of former State Senator Escandon and daughter of Juan Sanchez, of the ancient Ventura family of that name, who died at the home of her daughter in this city yesterday.

FINAL FIGURES ON BUNKER HILL

Most Important Razing-Plan Meeting Tonight.

Exactly What It Will Cost; Why It Will Pay.

Seattle and Pittsburgh Will Tell How They Did.

Complete plans and estimates for cutting down Bunker hill, including the engineering report in detail, architects' reports on the buildings and their value, suggestions for a graded assessment area and a plan for financing the project will be presented at est point is at Second and Bunker Hill avenue and is 415 feet above sea level. The elevation of First and Broadway, which is about the average grade of the proposed change, is 200 feet. The maximum cut would be 108 feet. The greatest cut in the Ft. Hill area would be ninety-five feet. This would be on the east end of the hill at Broadway, south of Sunset boulevard.

The engineer's estimate of the cost varies with the different projects, the first one calling for an expenditure of about $9,000,000. The entire project, including excavation and disposal of dirt, damages for wrecked buildings, cost of lowering buildings to be saved, restoring streets and pipes and conduits, damages to leaseholders, interest on money tied up, and $1,000,000 for a dumping ground, would cost $13,200,000.

The methods by which they arrived at these conclusions and further details will be told tonight by Barrett and Dougherty. They will also explain what part of the total estimate has been exactly figured and what items are susceptible to variation.

FINAL FIGURES.

The meeting will be primarily for the purpose of presenting the result of the investigation which has been conducted during the past month by the association at a cost of about

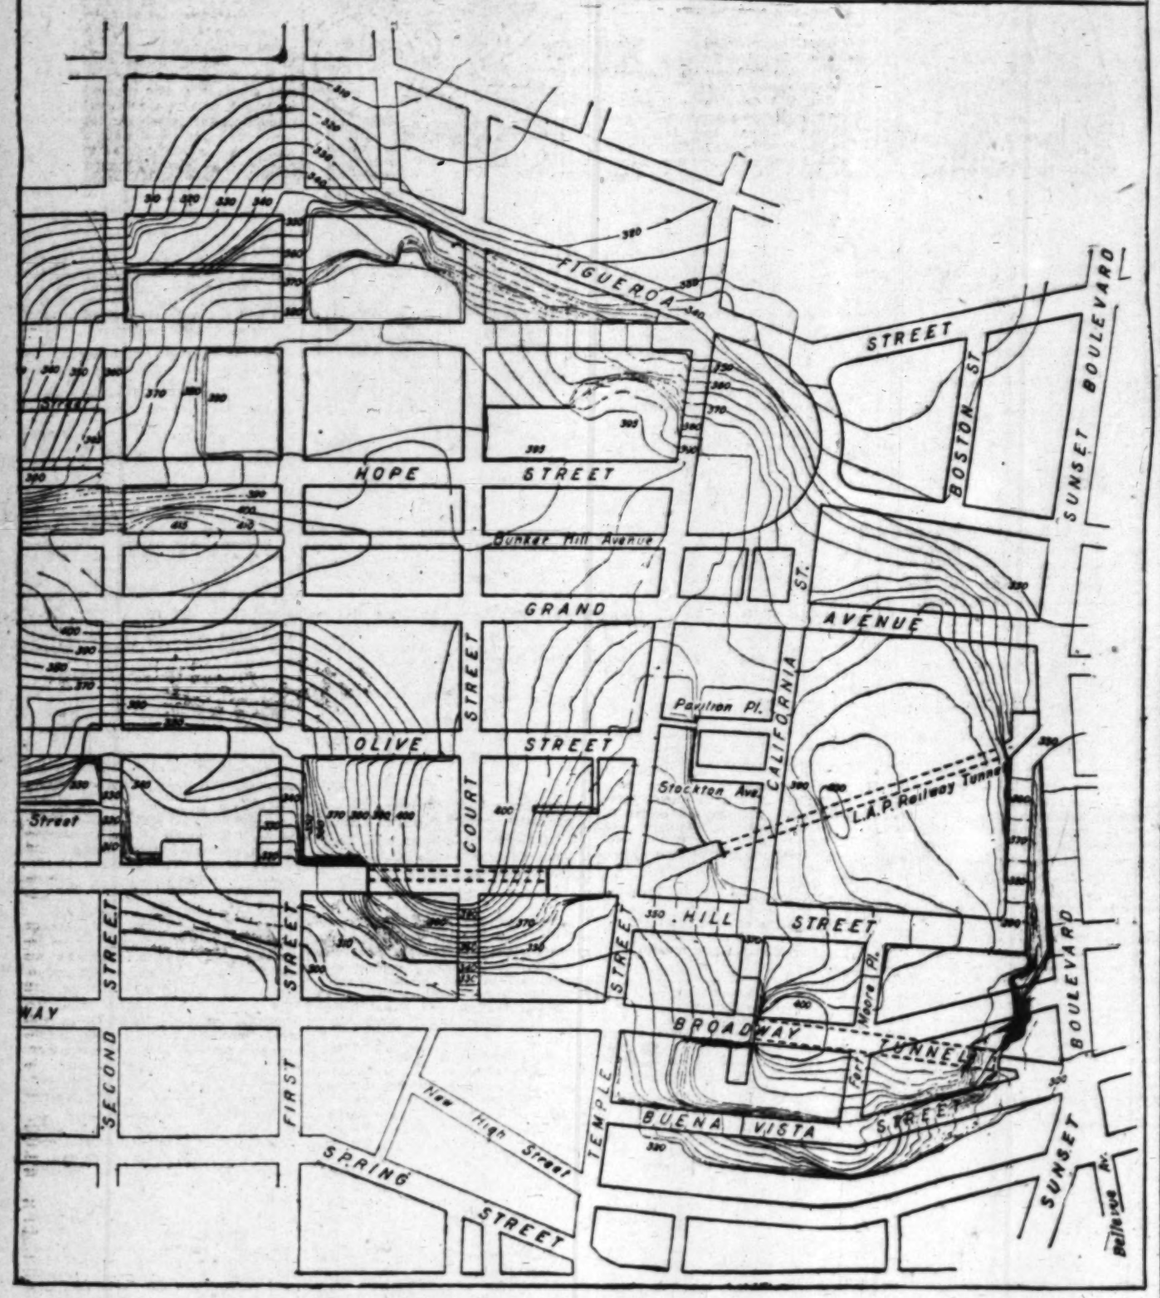
City Council to Be Called Upon to Consider Centrifugal-Spray Cuspidor Around Street Uprights on Downtown Thoroughfares — May Promote Temperance.

A humor-loving public, so far back as human memory extends, has placed but one interpretation on the spectacle of a man sagging weakly against a lamp-post, arms affectionately entwining it.

Publications of the comic variety have so insistently pictured the inebriate's predilection for supports of this character that if a lamp-post device proposed for Los Angeles becomes a reality streets in the business district will, in the eyes of most



The Proposed Bunker Hill Re-grade District.

The total area affected comprises 234 acres. The figures indicate the elevation above sea level. In the engineer's plans the maximum cut would be 108 feet—at Second street and Bunker Hill avenue. The irregular lines denote the contour. They are closest together where the grade is steepest. The illustration shows the project in its entirety and is designated in the engineers' report as No. 5.

Blanchard Hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Bunker Hill Razing and Re-grading Association and the Streets and Boulevards Committee of the City Council.

Invitations have been extended to the Mayor and City Council, the executive committees of all civic bodies, the City Engineer and his assistants, representatives of the clearing-house banks and associated savings banks, railroad officials and leading real estate men. William Flinn of Flinn & Booth, contractors for Pittsburgh's hump-razing project, who is visiting on this Coast, has been asked to attend and make a brief talk on the various phases of the enterprise there. Mayor White of Seattle will explain how the Seattle job was financed and some of the results.

The meeting will be opened by Dr. W. A. Lamb, president of the regrading association. He will be followed by W. E. Barrett and H. M. Dougherty, who will continue their report begun last Monday night. It is believed that nearly two hours will be required to cover all phases of the report fully, as an opportunity will be given to ask questions as the report is presented.

The report will be presented in five sections, as at first outlined. The first provides for cutting down that section of Bunker Hill south of Temple street and contemplates bridging Temple street. The second project deals only with the Normal School site. The third project includes all of Bunker Hill to Sunset boulevard. The fourth project deals with the Ft. Hill district, and the fifth is a combination of all the others.

OPTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS.

To facilitate the rendering of the report and to make every point clear, sixty-eight drawings will be shown on a large screen. These will be made from the engineer's drawings made from scale. It is also proposed to show photographic reproductions of several portions of the hill as it now is.

$10,000. The men who have contributed to it believed from the outset that the project was too important to be dismissed without a hearing, and they have favored a full investigation. Tonight's meeting will present the entire matter in such a form that those who were hitherto undecided will have something tangible upon which to form an opinion. It is not expected that there will be time at this meeting for argument or debate, but the engineers will welcome any question on any feature of their report.

The architects' report will be supplementary to that of the engineer's. It will show how many buildings are on the regrade area, how much each one weighs, and how much it is worth, and will recommend what should be done with each one. Briefly, the report states that there are 996 buildings, valued at about $2,500,000, and that seventy-three of the largest and most valuable can be saved by lowering, moving or rebuilding.

The traffic question will be handled on the basis of present congestion and relief offered by the proposed regrade. The speaker has not yet been designated, but it is intended to have someone familiar with the conditions present figures to show the amount of traffic handled in the congested area and the additional street frontage available for car lines.

The financial side of the question will be outlined so far as it has been determined by bankers and business men. An assessment district will probably be suggested as one of the possible solutions. Under this plan assessments would be levied in three districts. The first would comprise the hill section, and while the assessment on each lot within its limits would be greater than elsewhere, the total assessment for the district would be less than one-half the total amount needed.

The second assessment area would comprise the area next to the regrade and would be larger than the first. The third area would be largest of all, but the assessment per foot would be very small by comparison.

STAGS IN BUCK AND WING.

Scientific Metamorphosis of Jokes and Songs Into Real Estate Is Contemplated.

The Stag Minstrel Club, recently organized, contains sixteen of the famous Olympic Minstrels who have decided to turn their talents into money and their money into Los Angeles real estate. They will give a series of blackfaced entertainments during the rest of the winter season, the first show being scheduled for Thursday evening at the Gamut Club.

The members have organized as a stock company and will put their earnings into a general fund. After a site is purchased a clubhouse will be built on part of the property—within a year and a half it is hoped.

The show that will mark the opening of the Stag Minstrel season will be much on the same order as the Olympic Minstrel show given last spring. The first part of the programme will be the blackfaced comedy circle with Wesley Ruggles on one end and Charlie Reynolds on the other with Percy Halbriter holding down the conversational job in the center.

The minstrel show was arranged by Ruggles and Reynolds and contains a lot of new jokes and the latest songs. There will be several interesting hits put over on the various football players of the South, as all the members of the club are former college and high school athletes or rooters.

Following the minstrel show there will be a series of vaudeville sketches. Wesley Ruggles and Charlie Reynolds have a good one in ragtime and comic dancing. Dick Alter and Al Pench, with little Ada Goldberg, the character singer, will have an interesting act. Following these numbers there will be several skits.

persons, take on the appearance of an animated comic supplement.

T. H. O'Brien of No. 947 South Figueroa street, master plumber, has a centrifugal-spray cuspidor which he proposes to place at the foot of each lamp-post on the main downtown thoroughfares. He asserts that it will be brought officially to the attention of the City Council in the near future, with the expectation that a wholesale order will be placed.

Possibly a man under the influence of the cup that is said to cheer, in addition to doing other and more unaccountable things to the drinker, would not be startled at the whirligig effect under his eyes when he lurched against the post in the stereotyped manner, but what might be the effect on the mind of the respectable citizen who had partaken of nothing stronger than mere water?

He glances casually down; for the first time, upon the dizzily-whirling water in the patent cuspidor, a stunned expression stamping itself on his wondering features as, weak-kneed, he leans against the post and gazes in fear and fascination at the extraordinary phenomenon.

It occurs to him that he must be losing his mind, and, in terror at the prospect, he throws his trembling arms around the iron support. At this critical juncture, the pastor of his church, the gossip of his neighborhood, business associates, or feminine relatives will, of course, happen along. The probable results are too awful to contemplate.

O'Brien proposes to install the new cuspidor on every ornamental lamp-post between Los Angeles and Hill streets and the Plaza and Tenth. He says it will be shaped like a half-moon, so as to fit readily around the post, and will be twelve inches across at the widest point. The constant play of water, similar to that in the dentist's cuspidor, would flush to the sewer. The cost of equipping each post in this fashion would be about $40, he asserts.

Expectoration clubs, to promote good marksmanship, may follow the introduction of the alleged improvement, for not every man would be able, without practice, to hit the twelve-inch target from a distance of, say six feet, and a miss might prove disastrous; particularly in view of an ordinance proposed by O'Brien, prohibiting spitting either on the sidewalks or in the streets.

MINISTERS TO MEET.

Influential Churchmen to Listen to Dr. Sheldon and Others Talk About Three Important Topics.

Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, author and pastor, is to conduct this morning at 10 o'clock a large conference of ministers and Christian lay workers at the Y.M.C.A. auditorium. The general topic under discussion will be "Christianity at Work in Old and New Ways," to be taken up under three divisions: "The Minister's Use of the Young Life in His Church," "The Need of a Daily Newspaper that Will be a Channel of Communication Between the Pulpit and the People," and "The Federation of Church Brotherhood for Service."

The debates on the topics will be in charge, respectively, of Dr. William Horace Day, pastor of the First Congregational Church; Rev. Matt S. Hughes, pastor First Methodist Church of Pasadena, and Rev. J. W. Brougher, pastor of Temple Baptist Church.

Luncheon will follow the forenoon session, and the discussion will be continued in the afternoon.

The Y.M.C.A. Brotherhood will meet tomorrow night. Following the dinner at 6:30 the members will hear Byron's Troubadours, which are to appear in the Auditorium both tonight and tomorrow night.

The proceeds of these concerts go to the association's $6000 fund which it is to send to Shanghai, China, for the maintenance of three secretaries, thus fulfilling its motto of working twenty-four hours a day, twelve hours in Los Angeles and twelve in the Far East.

BLAME LAID ON J. BARLEYCORN.

POLICE COMMISSION ASKED TO PUNISH OFFENDERS.

Ordinance Is Proposed to Prevent Liquor Men Giving or Selling Intoxicants to Officers on Duty. Policemen Walker-Hackett Pistol Duel Stirs Up Agitation.

An ordinance seeking to make it a serious offense for a retail or wholesale liquor dealer to sell or give intoxicants to a member of the police department while he may be on duty or wearing a uniform, will be one of the results of the revolver duel at First and Hill streets early Sunday morning between Sergt. William Hackett and Patrolman F. E. Walker, if the proposed plans of the Chief are concurred in by the Police Commission and the City Council.

An infraction of the proposed ordinance will mean a revocation of the liquor license of the offending individual or company if the violation can be proven to the commission.

Walker is to be taken before the commission at its next meeting with a view to forcing him to tell where he got the liquor that he drank before his suspension and the half-pint bottle that was found upon his person at the Receiving Hospital when the Chief stripped him of his badge.

If Walker gives the Chief and the members of the commission the information desired, and it shows that the liquor was obtained from a saloon or a wholesale establishment, steps may be taken to punish the parties who gave it or sold it to Walker.

Whether Walker will be punished for shooting at Sergt. Hackett has not been decided. The latter said yesterday that he holds no animosity against the former patrolman, and personally does not care to swear to a complaint, adding:

"I will be guided entirely by what the Chief says."

The Chief said later that he would recommend that Sergt. Hackett prosecute Walker. He could be tried on a complaint charging him with an assault with a deadly weapon with an intent to commit murder. The penalty is a penitentiary sentence.

Walker spent yesterday and last night chained to a cot in one of the Receiving Hospital wards. He was visited by his wife, father and a number of friends. Until final disposition has been made relative to prosecution, the former patrolman will be held as a prisoner.

If the recommendation of the Chief that Walker be prosecuted is followed, he will be arraigned in the Police Court as soon as his physical condition will permit. After arraignment he can regain his liberty on bail. If it is decided today not to prosecute, Walker will be free to return home.

Walker yesterday refused to discuss the shooting or its cause except to say that he had been drinking, and that later he might make a statement relative to his remark at the time of the shooting that the sergeant had tried to "get him," and that he was then going to retaliate.

Sergt. Hackett asserted yesterday that he had never had any trouble with Walker and that he shot in self-defense.

"I was acting under instructions from the Chief when I went down to Seventh street and Central avenue to get Walker," said the sergeant yesterday. "I didn't even suspend him from duty. The Chief did that after I brought Walker to the Receiving Hospital.

"After Walker had been suspended, the Chief told me to take him around the corner to headquarters. When we got outside the hospital Walker drew his gun, placed it against my stomach, saying that as I had tried to 'get' him, he was going to 'get' me. I knocked his gun to one side, and retreated until I could pull my revolver. Then the shooting took place. I'm mighty sorry for it all, but in the circumstances I don't see how I can be blamed for doing as I did."

Walker also expressed regret yesterday at his actions, declaring that it would not have happened had he not been drinking.

Walker is 30 years old and joined the police force some years ago. He resigned to become a member of the fire department, and then returned to the police department on March 31, 1911. He lives at No. [illegible] Forty-eighth street.

Sergt. Hackett, who is 48 years of age and lives at No. 707 West Twenty-first street, joined the force on April 1, 1905, and was elevated to the position of rank on July 1 of last year. He is a crack rifle and revolver shot. He formerly was in the service of the government in the Philippines, and was at Rock Island, Ill., when he was accidentally and almost fatally shot through the body by the discharge of a rifle. He was a member of the Southern California team that won a national rifle contest from the flagship cruiser Tennessee of the Pacific fleet on the Pacific coast range a few years ago.

GIBRALTAR Sells the Land

A great record in the selling of Orchard Home Acres was made by the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Company on Saturday and Sunday. Thousands on these days attended the opening of the 1897-acre tract of rich fruit land at Bloomington. Besides the crowds from near-by cities of the noted citrus belt, where the land lies, two special excursion trains over the Southern Pacific were filled with people from Los Angeles interested in the fertile Gibraltar acres. Sunday's train hauled ten coaches across the tract to the Bloomington Station, close at hand, while seven cars full were landed Saturday. Those who did not register for tickets in time should call for particulars of the next excursion. Every acre sold Saturday and Sunday increases the value of the 5, 10 and 20-acre tracts yet unsold.

Gibraltar 8 per cent. preferred stock is unlimited in sharing greater profits. You may buy the land or you may buy the stock and exchange either for the other. Stock is now selling at 14c on 20 monthly payments. Shares will advance December 16th.

IN THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY

DR. BURDETTE.
FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.
PENSIONS ASKING FOR PENSION LIKE A PIE COUNTER PETITIONER.

Dr. ROBERT J. BURDETTE, pastor emeritus of Temple Baptist Church, preached at the evening service of the First Methodist Church, in the absence of Dr. Locke, yesterday. His topic was "Pensions for Preachers," taking for his text, Matthew 25: 21—"Well done, good and faithful servant."

"What was a pension. The five talents which the Lord originally intrusted to the servant, soon went the way of all other wealth. And the pensions which the hired man made out of it by shrewd and careful management, that went after the principal by and by, just as all money goes. Squandered here and there; lost in unprofitable ventures; sunk at sea; burned in war; squandered by profligate heirs; wasted in riotous living in the days of the men who were rich when your grandfather was alive. Well; that is just where the accumulated wealth of the good servant went.

"And the Lord knew that the gold would be taken about the world like the dust from which it was digged. So he gave the man a pension. Something that would last when his money was gone. He said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy lord.' That was nearly 2000 years ago. It is good today. It will be good a million years from tomorrow.

"It wasn't because the man had earned 100 per cent. on the capital intrusted to him that the pension was given him. It was because he was 'good and faithful servant.' Add the increase of wages, no reward of honor, no thousand or million dollars can reward righteousness and truth. That—and that alone, calls forth the commendation of the Infinite.

"Now, when we have nothing else to worry ourselves about, we suddenly wake up and re-open the discussion of the foolish question, 'What shall be done with our ex-Presidents?' A more pertinent question might be 'What will some of our ex-Presidents do with us?' And perhaps a final and conclusive reply to the question would be, 'What we have done to one of them.'

"If a man is willing to accept a pension for great duties well done, he is not fit to be President of this great country.

"A President asking for a pension, is simply a petitioner standing in line with the political pie counter. Poverty cannot assail his ex-Presidential dignity. But standing between two offices seeking clamoring for postoffices, holding out his hand for his pension, would destroy it, utterly and forever. 'If four or eight years residence in Washington so degenerates a man that he cannot thereafter earn an honest living at honest work, he had better keep away from the national capital altogether.

"The Presidency is too big an office to be pensioned. Pension the soldiers, pension the policemen, pension the firemen. I believe in that. Men who do the best, the formative and defining years of their lives to a service that does not fit them for any other occupation, deserve good pensions. But the man who is chosen by the American people out of all our citizens, as the one man most worthy of the highest honor we can bestow, is forever rewarded far above all sums of dollars.

"Let Wall street supply the country with its rich men. It is amply qualified to do that. But let the people select our Presidents. And they have not yet chosen a rich man, nor has a Wall street candidate. Either of these things would disqualify a good man. But they would make him an object of dark suspicion. A man may be damned by his friends, when his enemies could exalt him."

"The President is a hired man, who has done so well in the wise and honorable management of his business, that the people have promoted him to give it up temporarily, and accept a salary to take charge of their government for a term of four years. When he gets his first check and pay envelope that has the contract. But if he has done as well as they had anticipated, they may hire him again—without increase of pay. They might, some day, if he was an exceptionally good man, want him on the job a third time.

"The third-term bugaboo has never kept me awake nights. Gladly would I have voted for Grant for a third term. There are some men for whom I would not—and do not—vote for a first term. But I would have voted for Abraham Lincoln for seven terms, or so long as he had lived and remained sane as he had been nominated. Well, that have made him a king?

"Well, I had rather live all my days under a king such as Abraham Lincoln, than one term under such a President as James Buchanan. This country is too big and too great to be scared by the Jack-in-the-box of crowns and scepter.

"What should we do anything for ex-Presidents? Washington went home to Mt. Vernon and went to work. John Adams went back to his farm and went to work, living the life of a good citizen. Elected to the Constitutional Convention by his fellow citizens he did good work in the several committees. Jefferson went back to Monticello and devoted himself, after forty years of public service, to the establishment of the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. Congress did vote a purse of $10,000 to Jefferson, because his friends and relatives lived on him in the years that they ate him out of house, home and income.

"The whole suggestion of pensioning Presidents is unrepublican, undemocratic, un-American. On the wall of the one room in the tumble-down cabin in which Peter the Great, of all the Russias, lived while learning ship-building in Holland, is engraved the motto: 'No place too small for a great man.'

"There are instances in which I believe that our Presidents should be pensioned, and that always with the pension our perpetual Presidency. I believe we should pension who still stand at the head of the people's government. I believe in the pensioning of Washington's memory, the greatness, of the immortal service of George Washington. I believe in paying the tribute to Abraham Lincoln. I believe in the pensioning of our children to love and to honor their names. Money cannot buy the devotion for these Presidents forever. Gold cannot buy the reverence for their memories forever. Their pensions cannot be paid out of all the revenues of the land. Their pension is the willing offering of a mighty people—a people so rich they have millions of money for everything else. But this tribute is the unminted love, the uncoined reverence, the unmined treasure of warm hearts, throbbing with patriotism, burning with loyalty. Give to us such Presidents, and we will pension them with an adoration that will keep their memories green while the sun endures, for the generations of the nation will echo 'Amen' to God's 'Well done, good and faithful servant.'"

REV. C. O. JOHNSON.
SOUTH PARK BAPTIST CHURCH.
IF DANCING BE EVIL IT HAS NO PART IN OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Following the same train of thought as that laid down by Dean MacCormack, Rev. C. O. Johnson at the South Park Baptist Church last evening deprecated both the elimination of Bible reading from the public schools and the admission of dancing to them. His text is from Proverbs xxii:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

"Among the important questions that confront the American people today the question of what to do with our own offspring holds a very prominent place," said Mr. Johnson. "We have become expert in growing fine horses, hogs, cattle, sheep and all kinds of grain and other products but the American boy and the American girl present problems that must be answered now for the good of this nation in the years to come. The question of Luke 1:66, stares us in the face: 'What manner of child shall this be?'

"The recent opening of the public schools for dancing has brought forth a storm of protests from the people of this city, who really have the best interests of it at heart, and has made us ask ourselves the question, 'What are we building school buildings at a great cost for?' 'Why are we sending our children to them?' 'Are the things taught them there fitting them for better citizenship?' A school is a place where a child is supposed to be taught those things that will make it a more useful factor for good in active life, and if our schools are to become places where our children are educated in the schools of evil and vice then I place my protest against the whole system. You cannot make an evil good by putting it in a church any more than you can make a hog a sheep by wrapping it in a sheep-skin. If dancing is an evil, and its history has led us to believe that it is nothing else, then it has no more place in our public schools than a bar where the children shall be taught the habit of drink.

"It by no means signifies a step in advance when we have taken from our schools that old foundation pillar of it all, the Bible, and then have put in dancing. To a nation that owes as much to the Word of God as this nation does, it is of vast consequence that it be read at least once a day to our children that they may know the one great source of our greatness and be saved from the harmful materialism of this age. A man who does not know the word of God and its place in the lives of us all, is unqualified to teach in any schill, it matters not what may be his intellectual qualifications.

"Without knowledge of that which has saved us from heathendom, the Holy Bible, our children will drift back toward heathenism and our nation will lose her pride and glory. Absurd! sending the gospel to enlighten the children of the heathen and withholding it from our own."

DR. EDWARD CAMPBELL.
FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
JOSHUA POINTS THE WAY TO SUCCESS BY CARRYING OUT THE WILL OF GOD.

"The Retrospect of Joshua" was the theme of a sermon yesterday by Dr. Edward Campbell at the First Presbyterian Church.

"History presents to us no more interesting character," said Dr. Campbell in part, "than that of Joshua, the successor of Moses. Every advance step taken by Joshua reveals to our view the inspiring vision of a man whose way was marked by success, and whose life was an inspiration because he was courageous to carry out the will of God no matter how great the opposition.

"After his service as a leader for many years he stands before the people to speak the closing and farewell words that have become the inspiration of many who stand in the place of leadership and authority.

"First, the retrospect which he takes at this time was given in order that there might come to the people a more vivid realization of the presence and power of God in the daily occurrences of life, and in this way he endeavors to prepare them to exercise a more earnest and devoted service in their activities toward Jehovah.

"He called the people to assemble also as leaders, officers and judges that he might impress upon their minds the importance of considering each other in their co-operation relations as parts of the commonwealth. In calling them and convening this assembly that now stood before him there was given the last opportunity to him as their leader to inspire anew that devotion and obedience which carried on to success through many years the great work which he had received from the hands of the man whom God chose to lead his people from the oppression in Egypt and from the slavery of a nation whose leader knew no such thing as compassion."

DEAN MAC CORMACK.
ST. PAUL'S PRO-CATHEDRAL.
GIVE THE BIBLE A CHANCE IN THE EDUCATION OF OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

The Bible in the public schools was the subject of an earnest appeal for the reading of Holy Writ in the schools made by Dean MacCormack in St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral yesterday. Dean MacCormack found his text in Psalms 119:105, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path," and he spoke in part as follows:

"One of the questions always present in the minds of very many of our people is the reading of the Bible in the public schools. Various courses, viz., the press, the platform, the pulpit—a trinity of irresistible forces seem to have conspired to keep this great and important question uppermost in the mind of our people.

"I am tempted to think that the opposition to the reading of the Bible in the public schools is due to a misunderstanding of what is involved. There is to be no preachment attached to the exercise. All that is asked is that this one book may be read without comment or interpretation.

"Personally I should be quite satisfied if a book of selections was used for that is practically all that we ever do. Dr. Molton in his modern Readers' Bible has quite clearly demonstrated that the scriptures abound in selections admirably suited for recitation in the public schools of our day.

"There are three great reasons which weigh with me in the conviction that the Bible should form part of the education of the young:

"First of all it has a decided literary value. It contains some of the choice poetry and prose of the world; nowhere in the productions of the great minds of the earth will you find such superb masterpieces, such flights of genius and imagination as abound in this sacred literature of the church.

"In the second place it has a decided ethical value. For example, it is impossible to exaggerate the influence of such a monogram or the sermon on the Mount. It touches human life and conduct in every particular. It lays the foundation for all progress and advancement along the lines of true culture.

"And then last of all it has a decided moral value. Most educators are agreed that the end of intellectual endeavor is to produce character. If they fail to accomplish that result their system, whatever it may be, is a failure.

"There is a very grave suspicion in the minds of many at this present time that in matters educational we are failing to produce the thing that view of the appalling wave of lawlessview of the appaling wave of lawlessness that is passing over us it is high time to ask what is the reason for it all.

"There are those who say it is due to the wholesale inauguration which has been flooding this continent with the scum and offscouring of Europe. But the majority of these men who are criminals are not immigrants. They were born on this side of the water and they were educated in our public schools, out of which has been banished every word and thought of Him who has said, 'I am the light of the world.'

"I plead with the people of this State to give the Bible a chance in the education of our young people, that it may prove now as in the past that it is indeed a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path."

DR. C. M. CARTER.
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.
LOS ANGELES' GREAT NEED IS MORE STATESMANSHIP AND FEWER PERSONALITIES.

"Is Los Angeles Blind or Asleep?" was the topic of the sermon by Dr. C. M. Carter at the First Baptist Church last evening. His text was Rev. 22:1, 2, "And He shewed me a river of the water of life, bright as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lomb, and in the midst of the street thereof. And on this side of the river and on that was the tree of life."

Dr. Carter said in part that the government of heaven evidently believed in parks. The word Paradise means park. And the New Jerusalem, where the redeemed expect to go after death, is a beautiful city evidently laid out for beauty and the comfort of its inhabitants. It certainly was built with a plan.

"No city in the history of the world has ever had the opportunity of Los Angeles to be built on an intelligent plan. Most cities have developed slowly and more or less without self-consciousness. Like Topsy, they simply 'growed.' But Los Angeles knows its future, and before it has one-third of a million people, has set the date when it will be a city of a million. Is Los Angeles acting like a wide-awake city? Is it building to a plan, or is it just growing, Topsy-like?

"In the first place, it seems to me that Los Angeles needs more statesmanship and less personalities in its government. We hear too much of the influence of certain individuals in our city government. There are certain of our esteemed gentlemen who seem to feel that they are the city itself, and in the sanctums of some of our city papers there seems to rest the feeling of entire responsibility for the government of Los Angeles.

"It is needless to speak of the imperative demand for the immediate development of our harbor. It has been called to our attention before by our wide-awake newspapers over and over. Another matter to which our people need to awaken, and that is the preparation for and care of the incoming tides of people. We know the people are coming, but what are we doing to prepare for them? The real estate men are preparing to welcome these people with open arms to costly lots, but what is the statesmanship of our city preparing for them? Simply to open our public school buildings to them as a place in which their children may dance is not sufficient. Something broader and more sensible than this folly is necessary. If there ever was need for a city to have statesmen at the head of her government in all the history of the world that city is Los Angeles and that time is today. Every man and woman who can pray and vote in the city of Los Angeles should offer the united prayer, 'O, Lord, send us wise, unselfish and far-sighted statesmen to rule over us.'

"Facing the churches today are two contingencies; one, a little more sleep, a little more slumber, a little more folding of the hands to sleep, a stupid waiting for something they know not what, and then—a flood of alien people who will make Los Angeles a foreign city on American soil. There will be a Continental Sunday in a more pronounced degree. Open saloons and beer-gardens, all manner of modern evils of modern cities, with here and there a church lifting up a feeble voice as of 'one crying in the wilderness.'

"The other contingency is that the church awaken to its possibilities and responsibilities, that it be ready for these people when they come, that it give to them the gospel, that it Christianize them, that it gather them into its fold, that it permeate the whole political, social, intellectual and moral atmosphere of the community with the spirit of Christ; that it make Los Angeles a city greatly to be desired of all the nations of the earth not only because of its delightful climate but because of its spiritual atmosphere; not only because of its flowers but because of its Christian graces; not only because of its glorious sunlight but because the Son of Righteousness has arisen with 'healing in His wings.'"

BOYLE HEIGHTS M. E. CHURCH.
SIN ALONE IS WRONG WITH THE WORLD; RELIGION IS ITS CURE.

In discussing some "Reasons for Religion," in a sermon at the Boyle Heights M. E. Church yesterday, the pastor, Rev. W. E. Tilroe, said in part:

"To speak of reasons for religion is really to speak of some reasons for religion. There is one subject that exhausts its handling. In all the planet religion has right of way. As ancient all roads ran to Rome, so every path on earth brings men toward God. The very by-ways of evil lead to such depths of sorrow that out of them men see the stars. The heavens have a deal of great business on hand, but their first affair is their tale of the great Creator. 'Day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night showeth knowledge.' Man, the first citizen of the planet, and whose right it is to rule and have dominion therein, is only an image of his Maker. The perpetuity of things is wrapped up in their goodness. Decay and death are woven in with all irreligion. That all history is the biography of great men is not so true as that all history is the story of religion. Reasons for religion, since men are mortal, must therefore be some reasons for religion.

"Another reason for religion is its correction of evil. Andrew and John heard the Baptist speak of Jesus as the Lamb of God, the sacrifice for sin, and they followed the gleam. There is nothing really wrong with the world but sin. Immaturity is cured by growth; ignorance is displaced by knowledge; sorrow and suffering are indispensable teachers of health and are not immortal at the worst. The very grave is an open door to a life eternal. There is nothing really wrong with the world, or unendurable, but sin. If religion is the cure of sin the only better place than earth is heaven. And religion does cure sin. Jesus is the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world. Here is reason enough for religion if there were no other. Surely it is well to follow Jesus."

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH.
HUMAN NATURE SO CONSTITUTED THAT NO ONE WANTS TO KEEP A GOOD THING SECRET.

Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher preached at Temple Auditorium last night on the subject, "Keeping a Secret." He asked the question: "Can a man or woman keep a secret better?" He took for his text the following words uttered by Jesus Christ and recorded by Luke: "There is nothing covered up that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known. Wherefore whatsoever ye have said in the darkness shall be heard in the light; and what ye have spoken in the ear in the inner chambers shall be proclaimed upon the housetops." Among other things he said:

"Most persons have an idea that they can keep a secret. Most men think they are greater adepts in that line than women. I doubt if either a man or a woman can keep anything absolutely secret. There are very few experiences in life that concern simply one person only. The only possibility of a thing being absolutely secret in this life is for only one person to know it. Personally, I think some men are more secretive than some women. On the other hand there are some women more secretive than some men.

"As a matter of fact, human nature is so constituted that nobody wants to keep a good thing secret. Jesus Christ recognized this fact when He declared that His disciples must confess Him publicly. One of the proofs that they had His spirit would be their desire to confess Him as Savior before the world. The only thing that people want to keep absolutely secret is sin. In the business world there are certain legitimate transactions that must be held confidentially. Lawyers, doctors and preachers are compelled to listen to the trials and troubles, sorrows and sins of those they wish to help. These men ought to know how to keep a secret. There are not many men in the professions just mentioned who ever betray the confidence imposed in them, but I have been told many things that were supposed to be absolutely secret, to find out a week later that the same things had been told to half a dozen others.

"It is natural to want someone to help you bear your burdens. It is natural to seek the sympathy of your friends. In keeping a secret most people are like the man whose wife died and he put on the tombstone: 'My grief is greater than I can bear.' In six months he was married again. A friend told the man he ought to change the inscription on his first wife's tombstone so as to make it read: 'My grief is greater than I can bear alone.' Some of the ways secrets are made known are:

"I. The devil and his angels know many of the secrets of men's lives.

"II. The spirits of the departed dead know the secrets of our lives.

"III. Our friends know most of our secrets now and will know many more if not all on the Judgment Day.

"IV. God and His angels know."

REV. E. S. HODGIN.
FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH.
WATER CLEANSES MATERIAL THINGS; RELIGION PURIFIES THE MORAL AND SPIRITUAL WORLD.

In his sermon last night on "The Place of Baptism in the Religious Life," Rev. E. Stanton Hodgin of the First Unitarian Church said in part:

"Baptism has been interpreted as a mystical sacrament through which the Holy Spirit enters human life, cleansing it of its weight of inherited and accumulated sin and making one in reality a child of God. There are many things in the experiences of life that suggest the sacrament of baptism. We look out into the physical world and see how water is the universal solvent; it is used everywhere to cleanse and purify and to carry off the waste products of nature. Is it any wonder that man should have associated this cleansing and purifying power of water in the natural world with the cleansing and purifying power of religion in the moral and spiritual world?

"What is needed is an enlargement of the sacramental idea of baptism. Instead of thinking of the Holy Spirit as a particular and exclusive expression of divine power that comes only under certain conditions and on certain occasions, let us think of the Holy Spirit as the entire spirit of life that manifests itself continuously and that will enter our lives and course through them, renewing them whenever we by right act and attitude and thought and feeling make ourselves receptive to it and give it an opportunity. Let us make all our physical, mental, moral and spiritual acts and attitudes sacramental in character, make them holy by treating them as something divine and worthy of highest consideration.

"The search for a sacramental religion has been similar to the search for the fountain of youth. It was thought that the Holy Spirit was a sort of secret fountain whose waters would flow only in response to some secret and mystical formula. All of these sacramental religious ceremonies were attempts to find the formula that would set that mysterious fountain to flowing through our being with regenerative power.

"We are discovering that the Holy Spirit is the universal spirit of life and is free to all. All life is holy; all life is eternal; all life is the immortal life; all normal life processes are regenerative. Every act and attitude and feeling and impulse that enhances life, that contributes to the more abundant life, enriching and deepening it, is a sacramental act, is of the spirit and should be regarded as such."

REV. W. LEON TUCKER.
CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH.
THE PLACE OF THE JEW IN PROGRESS AND DEVELOPMENT IS PERTINENT.

At Calvary Baptist Church, the pastor, W. Leon Tucker, spoke yesterday morning on "The First Two Miracles of Matthew." The speaker said in part:

"The divisions of Matthew are most remarkable. The book opens with the presentation of Messiah then his proclamation followed by a period of power. Then comes the period of postponement in which we find the parables and the prophecies. The book concludes with the portion which portrays his passion.

"It is the first two miracles of Matthew that indicates much of the contents of the book. The first miracle is the healing of a leper who was a son of Abraham. Leprosy well sets forth Israel's national disorder. It is marvelous how all the priests of Israel were deeply taught in the cause and character, the conduct and the cure of leprosy. Five chapters in Leviticus are devoted to the details of this disease. At the opening of Isaiah we see a picture of the leprous nation. The prophet declares 'that from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot there is no soundness in them.' Christ came to His people Israel. The first miracle shadowed them. Christ came to His people Israel. The first miracle shadowed forth his ministry to that nation.

"The second miracle was the deliverance of the Gentile. So it is ever, the Jew first and also the Greek. The place of the Jew in the progress and programme of development is pertinent. They are the most distinguished people on the earth. In fact, they are so distinguished that they cannot be extinguished. Their calling was for world blessing and there is no divine blessing of nations apart from them. We may hiss them and hate them, spit on them and spurn them, curse them and condemn them, but they remain the same timeless people with a great future. In the day when Israel is healed they shall then proclaim His healing power among the nations. The Bible is a Hebrew book. Every prophet was a Jew, every patriarch and poet and also the apostles who were with Jesus Christ, the son of Abraham, who was also a Jew.

"He only knows political science who has acquainted himself with the prophets of Israel and understands their message. The man who attempts to build up a system of political science apart from these prophets is blind and cannot see afar off. The science of successful earthly government is the subject of prophetic scriptures and will be realised only in their fulfillment. Worldly wiseacres will do well to refer to them."

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.
"BUSINESS SHOULD BE THE SERVANT OF CHARACTER AND MORALITY," SAYS DIVINE, SPEAKING OF CHICAGO.

"Chicago, Its Business and Its Morality," was discussed by Rev. William Horace Day at the First Congregational Church last night.

"Business was meant to be the servant of character and morality. It is often its foe, and money is worshipped instead of right," he said. "Great wealth may contribute to the building of the kingdom and by its very greatness may serve greatly. He who visits Chicago realizes that money is not alone the engine of destruction, that there are other loves than the love of money dominating the hearts of citizens of Chicago.

"Education.—Esthetic Chicago has come to be a striking and splendid part of the city life. I think of the Art Institute, ministering to the esthetic life of the citizen. And then, how marvelously money has been piled up in the service of education—the Northwestern University, the University of Chicago, McCormick's Seminary, the Chicago Theological Seminary, the Lewis Institute and Armour Institute, and the whole host of schools and places of training which are supported out of public funds. Chicago is by no means laggard in its determination to provide out of its abundant treasury for the education of its people.

"Civilization.—A great park system, the development and larger service of transportation, the building and the varied activities of municipal government, indicate the advance which has been made in Chicago in the interests of a civilization.

"Religious Faith.—Men in Chicago as elsewhere, are beginning to realise that religious truth is essential if we are to have a permanent civilization. Neither esthetics nor civilization will save the soul of a man or of a city. There is just one thing that will create morality, transforming selfishness into service, and that is the creation of a clean heart, a heart in which the love of God and the compassion of the Christ shall be superior to the worship of Mammon.

"There are three points in which the battle between the love of money and the love of God have threatened the life of Chicago, and threaten our own:

"The love of God or the love of money in the treatment of the alien. —The lure of cheap labor has laid its hand with especial power upon all American life. A large proportion of the injustices of organized industry have come in the trail of this lure, because men have sought first for labor that was cheap and have been utterly without regard for the condition of the men who worked.

"The treatment of the vices.—Chicago has been one of the worst examples of a city that tolerated vice and promoted segregation of it at the discretion of its police force. There is nothing in all governmental life that is so abjectly pernicious as that alliance.

"Social paganism.—Social paganism is more easily created when money has been made suddenly, where it has come as though falling from heaven or tumbling up from a pit sometimes, as it has in Chicago."

A Woman's Shop Where Fashion Reigns Supreme

Last Saturday was a night and day of great importance to the ladies of Los Angeles and Pasadena, due to the opening of the French shop of I. Magnin & Co., of San Francisco, New York and Paris.

This shop is located in the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, the main entrance being in the lobby.

Come for a short trip to this dainty Louis XIV drawing room; for it can well be said it is more of a palatial salon than a shop.

The magnificence and display of taste, even to minute details — lines of beauty everywhere — the soothing blend of soft lavender carpet with dainty two-toned French gray wood work, ornamented with lattice and French caning—with flower boxes and drapes in harmonious tints—make this shop one of the show places of Southern California.

It is enchanting; it is more than magnificent. In the olden days proud would be the king whose drawing room was half so elegant, half so comfortable—as it contains none of those features which mark commercialism in any respect.

Nothing has been left undone that science, study, experience and money lavishly expended could produce to bring about ideal surroundings to supply the wants and needs of its patrons.

Travel through the fashion centers of the world, and you will still come home and say that a more handsome shop could not be found anywhere.

Words fall flat in the meager attempt to describe what you may see in the Magnin shop at the Hotel Maryland.

In sending out the invitations to the opening and fashion show, an endeavor had been made to reach every family in Los Angeles, Pasadena and vicinity; but it is not assumed that any mailing list, however carefully compiled, could be absolutely complete. If some have failed to receive invitations, they are asked to accept this one through the press and feel a cordial welcome the same as if the invitation had been received at their homes.

The reception and fashion show will continue Monday and Tuesday afternoons from two to five, and evenings from eight to ten.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

AUTO THIEVES CIRCUMVENTED.

Pasadena Man Makes Daring Dash After Miscreants.

Twenty-One Speeders Caught by Vigilant Police.

Bold Attempt Made to Rob Hospital Nurses.

PASADENA, Dec. 9.—Two men who last night attempted to steal an automobile that had been left standing in front of the First Baptist Church, corner of Union street and North Marengo avenue, became the object of a lightning-fast pursuit. They succeeded in escaping the clutches of the police only because the whirlwind of which they were the center was so furious nobody knew exactly what was happening until it was all over.

Edward Ahlswede of No. 521 South Madison avenue and his son, A. C. Ahlswede, who lives at the corner of Stratford and Mission streets, were attending services and their cars were at the curb in front of the church. They came from the building simultaneously and emerged just in time to see the two thieves vanishing south on Marengo avenue with the younger man's machine. Quick as a flash he leaped into his father's car and went after them while the father was hastening afoot to the Police Station.

While the father was telling the police of the occurrence the son had caught up with the thieves in his own car on Arcadia street, just off South Marengo avenue. He raced up beside it and, stepping from his father's car onto the running board of his own, dealt so stiff a blow to one of the robbers that he was bowled clear out of the car onto the ground. The other robber leaped out, but in doing so brushed Ahlswede onto the ground.

For an instant the three were all struggling on the ground together and the cars slowly moved away with no one at the wheels. Ahlswede finally got to his feet and got the automobiles under control. In the excitement the two robbers escaped.

ANOTHER SIMILAR.

Although he was unconscious at the time of the full meaning of the chase, Motorcycle Patrolman Cook early yesterday morning pursued at breakneck speed three men who are believed by the police to have stolen the automobile of Dr. Charles W. Fish of Los Angeles. The car was recovered but the men escaped.

Patrolman Cook, with Patrolmen Crook, Nicoll and Collins, had spent the evening catching automobile speeders with a trap on South Fair Oaks avenue between Pico and Bellefontaine streets. The trap consists of a telephone a quarter of a mile long with officers stationed with stopwatches at each end and in the middle. When the autoist is discovered to be exceeding the speed limit the last man steps out, waves a red lantern and commands him to stop.

The three men in Dr. Fish's car, instead of stopping, put on all possible speed and endeavored to get away from the policeman. Patrolman Cook leaped on his motorcycle and after a chase of several blocks was nearing the car when it was swerved suddenly from the road, brought to a stop and the occupants hurriedly got out and ran for cover in the darkness under the trees by the side of the road.

Realizing that they had evidently stolen the machine, Cook attempted to follow the men afoot, but they escaped.

Dr. Fish sent for the car yesterday. It was stolen last Saturday while he was eating his lunch. He had left it standing at the corner of Fifth and Broadway.

Twenty-one speeders fell into the toils of the law last Saturday night as the result of an evening's work with the trap. Many were Los Angeles autoists who were on their way to a ball at the Hotel Maryland, and several who were not arrested on their way there, and who had talked while there with others who had been arrested, were arrested on their way home. One man told the officers that it was very foolish of him to get caught as he knew that they were stationed there but that he had forgotten all about it. The names of the offenders were taken and they were released upon promise to appear in the Police Court. They are:

Andrew Holloway of No. 16 South Raymond avenue, J. H. Morgan, No. 128 North Mentor avenue; J. H. Ellis, Altadena; M. Metzlar, Los Angeles; V. H. Reed, J. S. Kuns, No. 229 North Hancock street, Los Angeles; E. Kohler, A. H. McEuen, No. 554 East Adams street, Los Angeles; H. F. Kingsley, No. 850 North Orange Grove avenue; F. Maison, No. 1944 South Figueroa street, Los Angeles; B. F. Robinson, No. 38 East Union street; Dr. Ralph Newcomb, No. 44 South Marengo avenue; Stanley Smith, No. 742 South Olive street, Los Angeles; S. Pierson, driver for J. E. Clifford, Pasadena; H. Holmes, H. D. Allen, No. 3037 Folsom street, Los Angeles; P. H. Bettinger, No. 97 North Orange Grove avenue; Frank Cass, No. 601 South Fair Oaks avenue, South Pasadena; Frank Mair, Paul Dill, No. 156 North Broadway; G. H. Woodruf, Los Angeles.

BURGLAR GETS AWAY.

An unsuccessful atttempt was made late last Saturday night to rob the nurses' home at the Pasadena Hospital. The burglar entered through a door that had not been locked, but was seen as soon as he came inside the building by one of the nurses, who screamed and aroused all of the other occupants.

The burglar fled precipitately. The police were notified and after picking up several clews they and the South Pasadena police finally located the man at the corner of Fremont avenue and Mission street, in South Pasadena. He was evidently headed for Los Angeles, as he had made inquiries both as to how to reach Los Angeles by electric car, and how to get onto the road. He dodged the police by running behind a building and succeeded in escaping.

FINDS DIAMOND BROOCH.

"Well, I've been told a lot about Southern California, but I never knew that diamond sunbursts grew on smilax," said Charles Day, automobile clerk at the Hotel Maryland, yesterday.

Day recently arrived in the city from the East. While walking through the arcade leading to the hotel entrance last Saturday night he noticed something sparkling in the smilax with which the iron posts were decorated. He turned back a second time, and a third, before he finally reached for it.

The object proved to be a jewel belonging to Mrs. W. A. Breckenridge of Los Angeles and valued at $1000. She was a very much delighted woman when he sought her out and returned it to her.

CITY BRIEFS.

W. L. Ong of No. 377 North Michigan avenue, and Sam Hayt, two Pasadena boys, yesterday succeeded in catching a runaway horse on Huntington drive near California street. They followed the animal, which belongs to a Japanese, on bicycles along a long and tortuous route through the city. The horse left a trail of broken buggy and harness behind him.

Two four-room wings will probably soon be added to the Longfellow school. Announcement to this effect was made by W. W. Ogier, president of the Board of Education, at a recent meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association of that school.

Red Cross stamps are being sold in this city for the benefit of the national and State societies for the study and prevention of tuberculosis.

Postmaster Wood has received definite word that work will be begun on the new $200,000 postoffice this spring.

SPENDS MONEY IN STREETS.

Covina Has Already Used One Hundred and Sixty Thousand Dollars for Improvement of Highways.

COVINA, Dec. 8.—In round numbers the city of Covina has spent on its streets in the past two years $160,000. This is the work done in asphalt and oil macadam within the city mile-square, which has been paid for by the property holders abutting on the various streets. The figures do not include the cost of the center of Badillo street, which expense was borne by the Pacific Electric Railroad, and, as the work was done by the railroad, no figures are available as to the cost of this strip.

To lay down the mile of Center street cost the property holders $14,000. This was an oil macadam improvement. Citrus avenue for the mile cost $38,000, both asphalt and macadam. San Bernardino road (not quite completed) cost $29,000; Cottage drive, College street, Orange street and Navilla place together about $30,000; Badillo street, $27,000. The next street to be improved for the mile is Puente street, which was advertised last week.

Besides the work done within the city, the county has connected Covina with the middle-valley route of the good roads system, joining on to the city work on San Bernardino road. Three miles of concrete and oil macadam are now being laid by the county on Citrus avenue, to connect the city work with the county road, making a straight boulevard north to the Foothill boulevard, which follows the Sierra Madre hills. On the south of Covina, still another county boulevard follows the contour of the San Jose hills.

RATES ARE ESTABLISHED.

Railroad Commission Renders Decision in Which the Corporation Secures Some Concessions.

The Railroad Commission rendered a decision Saturday establishing rates for the Hawthorne Electric and Water Company. The Hawthorne Electric and Water Company operates in Los Angeles county. It had been serving water for a number of years under a flat rate of $1. As provided for in the order of the commission, it is empowered to charge as a minimum on 750 cubic feet, $1.25; for the next 750 cubic feet, 12½ cents; for over 1500 cubic feet, 10 cents; with a flat unmetered rate of $1.50.

The commission further orders that meters be placed at the request of consumers or the option of the company and that such meters be placed at the expense of the company and that all service connections be made at the expense of the company.

In its application, the Hawthorne Electric and Water Company claimed a large value for its wells, in addition to the lands and pumping machinery, asserting an independent value for the water development. The company stated further that it believed it could not charge rates based upon its own valuations. On this point the commission says:

"We do not believe it necessary in determining this matter to go extensively into the question of physical values presented by the applicant which are by admission greater than the patrons of this system can be required to yield a return upon. In fact, were we to fix rates as asked by applicant, there is grave question whether anything like the present quantity of water would be consumed, and it might easily be that the consumption of water would be so largely reduced as to result in a serious loss of revenue to applicant."

LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, Dec. 8.—Lindsay will have an exhibit this year at the National Orange Show at San Bernardino, if the plans of leading growers and packers of this district are carried out. Last year Lindsay fruit took a fine lot of first awards, although the exhibit was a limited one. It was reported here today that other of the Central California orange towns are considering an exhibit and it is possible that a movement will be started for a combined showing, but one in which each Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade will preserve its individuality.

UNION DEMANDS REAL CAUSE.

Laborites Force Cessation of Work at Venice.

Contractor Firm in Resisting the Unfair Request.

Realty Men Pledged to Abolish Unsightly Signs.

VENICE, Dec. 8.—It leaked out today that trouble with union laborites on the big Maier pier was one of the reasons, if not the main cause, of the cessation of work on the structure. The walking delegates of the Cement Workers' Union called on Eddie Maier and told him that the working day on the pier must be cut from nine to eight hours. As a result the men are working no hours per day. Contractor Stutzer declares that his figures on the big job call for a nine-hour day, and that he will not give in to the dictating unionites, and will let the equipment and piles rot before he will submit to the demands.

The brewer has borne patiently with the labor union bosses; he has yielded to them many times because of the nature of the business into which he has invested large sums of money. But he has refused to interfere in any way in the conduct of Stutzer's business. He told the bosses to go to Stutzer as the building of the pier was out of his hands.

It was three weeks ago, when the work of making and jettying the piles on the big pier was going along smoothly, that the walking delegate appeared, defying the brewer and contractor to build the pier without yielding to the demands of union labor. Maier and Stutzer were firm, and repeated threats, it is said, were made by the union bosses. The last visit of the delegate was a week ago, when it was decided to close down indefinitely and let the cement workers ponder in idleness over the evils of letting someone else speak for them.

WILL GIVE OPERETTA.

Wednesday evening the operetta, "Snow White," will be given by the pupils of the Venice grammar school under the direction of S. Elizabeth Parker, for the benefit of the school recreation fund. About 200 pupils will assist in the dances and acting. Beautiful costumes designed by Mrs. A. B. C. Dando are being prepared for the event. Assisting Mrs. Parker are Miss Helen Kent, teacher of dances; Miss Marie Clark, wardrobe mistress; Mrs. Cora S. Daniels, chairman of programme committee; Miss Anna E. Britton, publicity manager, and the first woman stage carpenter in Venice, or perhaps, any other Southern California city, Miss Catherine J. Lockett.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The following real estate brokers have bound themselves not to place any more "for sale" signs on vacant property in Venice, and to remove those now placed, for the good of the profession and the looks of the community: Lewis Realty Company, Sargent Realty and Loans, Walker Realty Company, Spencer-Kennelly Company, C. F. Holden Company, E. W. Hively Company, T. R. Taylor Company, Home Realty Company, Venice Home Builders, Fuller Realty Company, Bay Wrecking and Improvement Company, Sibley Realty Company, E. R. Stinson Company, A. A. Peterson Company and Allen & Irwin.

Students of the Santa Monica High School, upon invitation from Thornton Kinney, visited the aquarium yesterday to make a study of the new and strange marine animals recently added to that institution. The biological station was also inspected and the methods in vogue there explained by Mr. Kinney.

BAND CONCERTS RESTORED.

Santa Monica Engages an Italian Band and Will Again Assume Place as a Resort.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 8.—Through the courtesy of E. P. Benjamin, band concerts have been restored at North Beach, which was at one time the principal beach resort on the southern coast. Today the first of these was enjoyed, Donatelli's full band discoursing music from the shell in front of the Ocean Parlors. The little ones, also had occasion to rejoice at Mr. Benjamin's generosity, as he had gone to great expense in fitting up a playground with appliances just near the Ocean Parlors.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Although there is a woeful lack of interest in the coming election of officers of Co. E., N.G.C., the members of the company deny that it will be disbanded. W. H. Carter, who is being mentioned for the position of captain, vacated by Ellis E. Bashore, says he will accept, and he will have little opposition. Efforts will be made to interest the young men of the Santa Monica Bay district in the company by giving dances and entertainments.

The Santa Monica Bay Chapter, No. 97, Royal Arch Masons, have elected officers as follows: High Priest, O. A. Sanders; King, W. P. Griffit; Scribe, T. H. Hanna; Treasurer, W. E. Oliver; Secretary, William Green. Officers will be installed in the Marine-street temple, January 10.

SAN PEDRO.

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 8.—Roman Sepulveda has sold forty acres of land northwest of Point Firmin light station, for $1000 an acre, to Charles J. Colden of Kansas City, Mo. The new owner will subdivide the tract and place it on the market. Sepulveda will invest the proceeds of the sale in the erection of a new business block in the downtown business district.

The Bank of San Pedro and N. O. Anderson have sold a brick building on Beacon street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, to Vines & Schepps, proprietors of the Knickerbocker Coffee Company, for a consideration of $12,500. M. P. Stone of San Bernardino has purchased two lots on the northeast corner of Pacific avenue and Sixth streets, from A. J. Warner of Los Angeles, for $10,000, and also a lot near Mesa street, on Sixth street from Mrs. Sarah Urquhart for $3500.

No Quarter.

KLEPTOMANIA IS ABOLISHED.

Plain Stealing Henceforth; Arrest and Jail.

Big Stores Land Hard on the Fashionable Disease.

Neither Wealth Nor Standing to Protect Culprit.

Kleptomania is no more in Los Angeles. It has been officially abolished by those in whose hands rests the work of staying its ravages on the teeming holiday counters of the great downtown department stores and other retail establishments.

This does not mean that there will be no more stealing in the stores, but that such stealing will not henceforth hide under the convenient mask of a supposedly uncontrollable disease. It is to be classified as plain larceny and will be sternly prosecuted as such. The mere fact of high standing in the community and no apparent need for petty thefts existing will not excuse anyone, according to the ukase which has been issued with but few exceptions by the big Los Angeles stores.

Facing the largest holiday trade in their history and the ugly prospect of entertaining unawares a bigger influx of professional eastern shoplifters than ever before, the store managers say that this decision, harsh in comparison with past rules, has been forced upon them.

SWARM OF SLEUTHS.

In order that the rule shall not become a dead letter for lack of people to enforce it, the stores have arranged for the largest force of shop detectives ever employed here to work during the holiday season. Nick Harris, head of the detective agency of that name, which is in charge of much of the work for the retail establishments, said yesterday that not less than seventy-five additional detectives have been put to work on Broadway in the last two weeks. Thirty-three were employed in one day. By Christmas time the stores will be alive with them, and it will go hard with anyone caught trying to slip a piano into her muff or in any other way disregarding the meum et tuum of the eighth commandment.

Hitherto kleptomania has been a recognized, if not a respectable, ailment in Los Angeles shop lore. There are few of the large retail establishments which have not been frequently called upon to deal with the puzzling problem of the woman of comfortable and sometimes large means, not to mention of well-known and respected family of recognized social standing, who is apparently unable to resist the temptation to avoid payment for some small article "lifted" on the impulse of the moment from some unprotected counter and hastily concealed in some convenient place, usually her muff or sleeve.

In times past such detected thefts have been leniently dealt with, where it seemed apparent that it was a genuine case of kleptomania. Not infrequently, where the offender was well known, she has been allowed to depart with the spoil and the loss adjusted by means of a little bill quietly rendered by mail. In other instances she has been quietly asked to pay for the article taken before leaving the store. If there were indignant protest an equally quiet search followed. Arrests in such cases were remarkable for their fewness, chiefly on account of the desire to spare scandal and publicity to one who might be a good customer.

WITHOUT GLOVES.

The abuse of the temperamental ailment, together with the large increase in shoplifting at this season, is responsible for the edict that, from now on, there will be prosecutions of all offenders without fear or favor. It has been difficult in the past to differentiate between the real kleptomaniac and the glib, well-dressed stranger, whose skill in simulating overwhelming remorse and piteous fear when caught is as much a part of her stock-in-trade as her nimble fingers. The store managers believe that it will be better for a few to suffer for what they may be unable to help than for a horde of real criminals to escape the rigors of the law by donning the charitable cloak of an obscure and little-understood disease.

The proverb current among shop detectives: "There are never any shoplifters—they're all kleptomaniacs," will from now on read, "There are never any kleptomanics—they're all shoplifters."

SOUTH PASADENA NOTES.

SOUTH PASADENA, Dec. 8. — There was a meeting last evening in the Chamber of Commerce offices of the merchants of South Pasadena for the purpose of making arrangements for the "Buy at Home" week, which will commence tomorrow and circulars have been delivered to every house in South Pasadena calling attention to the fact that the local merchants are amply able to serve the needs of the citizens, and that much time and trouble can be saved by trading at home.

One of the most important recent real estate sales in this city is that of the purchase by A. A. Appel, of Appel's grocery, of forty-eight feet frontage on Fair Oaks avenue, on the west side of the street, between Mission and Hope streets. Murray Bayless was the seller. Mr. Appel will erect a building containing two store-rooms, one of which he will occupy with his large and growing grocery business. A foundation will be placed that will support two stories, and the structure will have a white tile front in keeping with the other business blocks on Fair Oaks avenue.

Members of the Executive Board of the San Gabriel Valley Inter-City Commission will meet with the Pasadena Board of Trade, a committee from the Woman's Civic League, and a committee from the Shakespeare Club, both of Pasadena, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Board of Trade rooms, for the purpose of discussing a plan to regulate billboards.

Dr. G. P. Waring of Alhambra, Dr. Elwood J. Thorne of Lamanda Park and John D. Reavis of South Pasadena, will advocate the presentation in the coming session of the Legislature of a bill to accomplish complete control in cities, counties and State of billboards.

With many helpful organizations, there is as yet no Y.W.C.A. in South Pasadena. Every few months there is an agitation for an association, but so far nothing has come of it. At present both Los Angeles and Pasadena would gladly take a hand in helping to start a sister association.

Foolishness.

ness we would all have enough to do without starting so many 'investigations.' They act like a lot of children. There are enough important matters to occupy attention.

"I am trying to select a citizens' committee for the investigation of the Civil Service Commission that will be fair and absolutely impartial. All I want is to get at the bottom of the whole affair, and if there is anything wrong, to find it. A large number of persons have written to me and called me up on the phone suggesting that they are available for places upon the committee, but I do not propose to accept any dictation as to whom I shall appoint. It is hard to get the right kind of men. I hope that I shall be able to announce the committee on Tuesday, but if I can't get just the kind of men I want I will throw up my hands and tell the Council that I decline the responsibility. I will have no dummies or men of straw upon the committee.

"Under the decision of the City Attorney the citizens' committee is without authority to accomplish much against the commission, which seems to be a power unto itself, but I think the weight of public opinion may have something to say. These people (the members of the commission) may be all right, and I want to get an absolutely unbiased report."

Councilman Topham is belligerent. He can't, for the life of him, see how a committee appointed by the Council can rise higher than its source. "If they send an officer for me," said Topham yesterday, "that officer must show me his authority. Otherwise I don't think I will attend the party. The agitation, it seems to me, is for the purpose of offsetting the coming investigation of the commission by a citizens' committee."

Councilman Lusk is a non-combatant. He says that he will obey the summons. He does not know what the commission's rights in this particular matter may be, but on the whole he thinks the civil service men are right in their stand on the Ost and O'Neill fracas, and believes that Frank O'Neill, the Mayor's appointee to the superintendency of fire alarms and police telegraph, should be compelled to take the civil service examination. Lusk took occasion to deprecate the movement looking towards another charter election. "This thing is being carried too far," he said, "and I think the public have fully demonstrated where they stand on the subject of commission form of government, and that they will not stand for another election so soon."

As to the power of the commission to call its parents before it to explain, Assistant City Attorney Robertson said yesterday that under the charter provisions any properly accredited board may subpoena witnesses before it, and while perhaps the Council, as a Council, is immune from the commission's curiosity to know what makes the wheels go round, the Councilmen as citizens must tuck their pride in a pocket and present themselves in the Exchange building.

DEATH ENDS TROUBLES.

After Separation from Husband Woman Dies in County Hospital. None Claim the Body.

Mrs. Thomas Foss, former wife of the managing editor of the Western Railway News, with offices in this city, died at the County Hospital yesterday afternoon. Two children, about 9 and 12 years old, respectively, are in the Peter Pan Home at Eagle Rock.

Mrs. Foss lived with her family at No. 1472 Winfred street until separated from her husband several months ago. Then she went to the Hotel Afton on South Spring street. She worked in a restaurant for a few days but her health failed and she was taken to the County Hospital where she died from cancer.

The woman was a native of Australia where her family is said to be of the best. She came to California about eleven years ago, and has resided in Los Angeles most of the time since. She was 38 years old.

Last evening the county authorities had received no instructions for the disposition of the body, and unless these are forthcoming it will be given the usual county burial. Mrs. Foss is said to have recently parted with some valuable jewelry in consideration of a trifling loan.

INGLEWOOD.

Moseley of Lawndale, vice-president, and Mrs. R. D. Aylsworth of Inglewood as secretary and treasurer. Meetings will be held the first Tuesday of each month. Committees were appointed to represent their individual communities as follows:

Hyde Park—F. W. Jex, L. Strohm and Frank Paramore.

The Day Before.

HEAVYWEIGHTS READY FOR GREAT BATTLE.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

THIS is the "day before." For fighters the "day before" is almost as joyous an occasion as is the "morning after" for the general run of humanity.

Jim Flynn and Luther McCarty yesterday wound up their heavy work for tomorrow night's battle in a whirlwind of activity. Each pronounced himself fit, and seemed relieved that the gruelling grind of the training period is ended.

Today and tomorrow, however, will be trying hours for both men. Their comparative inactivity will in a way be more wearing than hard work. It is probable that each man will go on the road today, and do some tugging and hauling in the gymnasium.

This will serve to relieve the tension to a certain extent. But tomorrow the men will have nothing to do except try and divert their minds from the impending struggle. Both claim to be trained to the minute, and on edge. This being the case, each will tomorrow be about as congenial as a bear with a sore foot.

VAUDEVILLE FOR FLYNN.

Tonight, Flynn will seek relaxation at the theater. Asked by Curley to pick out the amusement which he preferred, he chose vaudeville, and will attend the Orpheum. Curley suggested that he remain in Los Angeles for the night, thinking that the change might be a relief to him. The suggestion did not make a hit with the fireman. "Me for the camp and this cottage until it is over," growled Flynn.

Never has there been a more radical difference of opinion regarding the merits of two boxers before a local battle. The supporters of each man have their minds made up, and seem unable to see the other fellow at all.

One man will tell you that McCarty is a "cinch" to win, explain just why. The other fellow sitting next to him will then tell you why Flynn is the best bet in the world. And you find this attitude among those who are supposed to know—men who have followed the ring for years and who back their opinions with real money.

"McCarty is the best bet that I have seen in a long time," said a railroad man—one of the few of that calling who are not stringing with the fireman, and who has down a thousand dollars on McCarty at even money. "This fellow McCarty, nearly every one admits, is likely to hit any one whom he can hit. He has an awful kick in either hand, and I regard Flynn as one of the easiest men in the business to hit. McCarty may miss more times than he lands, but when he finally finds the mark it will be all over but the cashing in." That is the argument advanced by nearly all the McCarty adherents.

WHY FLYNN SHOULD WIN.

Now we will permit the Flynn people to take the floor in order that the question may be threshed out from every angle.

"It is a cinch for Flynn," confided George Brown, after yesterday's workout. "Jim has too much experience for McCarty. He will have the big fellow too busy protecting himself to do much fighting back. Flynn is not as easy to hit as some seem to imagine. He has a peculiar defense, and many of the blows which seem to reach him are partly broken by his gloves, or slide off his forehead."

"There has been a lot said about McCarty's right uppercut," said another Flynn admirer. "It seems to be his prize blow. Now I do not recall an important battle that has been won with a right uppercut. Flynn will be on the alert for this. McCarty may have something else up his sleeve, but I believe that he has shown all his samples in training. His defense appears crude, and Flynn will have little trouble reaching him. He will have the cowboy off his balance most of the time, and that will take all the sting out of Mac's blows. All this time, Flynn will be wearing him down."

A M'CARTY ARGUMENT.

This disquisition brought a rear from an eavesdropping McCarty admirer.

"Wear him down nothing," he broke in with an interrupting snort. "If there is any wearing down to be done, it will be accomplished by the heavier and younger man. The longer the fight goes, the brighter will be McCarty's chances. When it comes to roughing it, Flynn will meet more than his match. He will outpunch the fireman, and he will wear him down while doing it. If Flynn wins at all, it will be early in the fight."

With such excellent logic presented by each side, it is little wonder that even money has prevailed for a number of days. And indications are that these honest differences of opinion will mean a capacity house.

Thousands of fans made their final inspection of the fighters yesterday, and the bulk of the betting from now on will be on the basis of the conclusions reached on the showing of the men in their hour's workout.

FLYNN'S HITTING IMPROVES.

Both men boxed before capacity crowds. At Venice McCarty went three rounds with Bull Young, two with Bill Sloane, one with Bill McClain and three with Walter Monahan. At Doyles, Flynn showed before the largest crowd ever drawn there by a single boxer. More persons have been enticed into the enclosure by a double attraction, but yesterday's crowd was a record-breaker for a one-man performance.

Flynn went through the usual gymnasium regime, and wound up by boxing three rounds each with George Brown and Norman Stone. The fireman cut loose with more freedom than at any time during the present seige, and his sparring partners were clearly relieved when Abdul dragged Flynn away to the massage emporium.

Aside from the change in his physical conformation, Flynn's principal improvement seems to lie in his hitting. He has driven some of the weight from his legs to his shoulders, and seems to be somewhat faster on his feet. Where formerly his blows were nearly all swings and half-swings, he now drives his punches in with greater directness. Not only does he hit with greater force as a result of his changed style, but he has lessened the danger of injuring his wrist and forearm.

FOUGHT TWELVE YEARS.

Sometimes I think that Flynn has lost some of his fire. There is no trace of this change when he is in action. Then he is the same dashing, tearing athlete. It is in the moments of relaxation that I imagine there is just a trace of weariness in his face. It is not due to staleness, as that term is applied to one overtrained. Flynn has been fighting for twelve years, and during that time has fought over eighty battles, a majority of them with heavier men.

TEAM RUNNING IN NEW YORK GAMES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Team racing at twelve miles was inaugurated in indoor track athletics in this country at the Bradhurst Field Club games in the twenty-second regiment armory tonight. Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish Olympic runner, and Harry Smith of this city, ten-mile national champion, paired, established the first world's record in this event, 52 minutes 2 seconds.

Two other features of the game were the wonderful running of Howard Drew, the colored Olympic runner, representing the Springfield, Mass., High School, and the defeat of Ben Adams and Platt Adams, Olympic champion standing high jumpers. Drew twice equalled the world's record, 7 1-5 seconds, in the seventy-yard dash.

The strip of photographs at the top of the page are character studies of Jim Flynn. The pictures below are all of McCarty.

An Outshoot.

Surprises His Friends and Associate Managers.

Attack on Ewing's Interest in Two Clubs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. N. Walter's resignation as president of the champion Oakland club, together with his charge today of syndicate baseball against J. Cal Ewing, stockholder and director-general of the San Francisco club, has stirred up a rumpus in the Pacific Coast League.

Walter's action and subsequent sensational charges came like a shot from out of a clear sky to the Coast League magnates who were in town today. Ewing retaliates by declaring he will have something to say when the regular winter meeting of the Coast League is called in Sacramento tomorrow.

"I do not favor the new policy mapped out for the Oakland club and took this step to clear my hands of all the business," says Walter. "I have always been against syndicate baseball, and it is well known that J. Cal Ewing holds a big interest in the Oaks, and at the same time controls the stock of the San Francisco club with Frank Ish.

"I stand on my record in baseball to prove to everyone that I am sincere. I became interested in the Oakland club in 1903, and in 1909 was honored with the presidency. Since then I have done everything in my power to promote the best interests of the club, and am satisfied to look back and feel that I have handled them well.

"No, the securing of the new grounds for the Oaks at Park and San Pablo avenue had no material bearing on my resignation," continued Walter. "For the life of me, however, I do not see how they are going to finance it. The grounds will cost $150,000 and it is a big deal. Still it is a good thing for the welfare of the club and I voted favorably on it."

Senator Frank Leavitt, a prominent stockholder in the Oakland club, expressed surprise when he heard that President Walter had resigned. "I can only say positively that nothing has happened in the Oakland club that prompted President Walter to resign," said Senator Leavitt. "He has dictated the policy of the club, hired and fired managers, players, and the like, and in fact has run the club himself. I do not know of the trouble but I can say that it was something outside of the Oakland organization which caused President Walter to step out of office.

War to the Knife.

TEN MEN TO LAUNCH NEW MOTOR ASSOCIATION.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

TEN men were chosen last night by Chairman Frank A. Garbutt to formulate rules for the Western Automobile Association. Following the decisive action at the called meeting in the Los Angeles Athletic Club prominent business men were named and the second step in this big project was taken.

After studying the situation carefully Percy H. Greer, president of the Automobile Dealers' Association, was named. Then Ralph Hamlin, who won the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race, and a prominent automobile dealer, was selected. E. E. Hewlett was the next in order. Earle Y. Boothe was placed on the list. John S. Mitchell of the Hotel Hollenbeck, who was referee of the Los Angeles-Phoenix race, was also named.

Then the venire of fifty able men was shuffled again and W. E. Bush, formerly technical expert of the Automobile Association of America, was selected. The next man on the jury was William May Garland, who will represent the automobile owners. E. G. Kuster, formerly representative of the contest board of the A.A.A., was the next man chosen. Then came Leon T. Shettler, agent for the Apperson and a prominent motor racing enthusiast, and W. E. LeCause, manager of the local retail branch of the Studebaker Corporation.

This strong committee is to be called together at once. Earle Y. Boothe will be the secretary, it is believed, and Ralph Hamlin the treasurer. Money is to be raised at once and the campaign for members will be started. The Western Automobile Association will know where it stands possibly today when an answer is expected to the telegrams sent to Chairman William Schimpf of the contest board of the A.A.A.

NOT INSURRECTOS.

There is no desire on the part of the men who are back of this organization plan to break away from the A.A.A. unless such a plan is forced upon them. The offer to affiliate with

WHAT THE BIG CHIEFS SAY ABOUT ULTIMATUMS.

BY FRANK A. GARBUTT.
[Of Western Automobile Association.]

"OUR ultimatum is that we must govern ourselves. We are willing to listen to a proposition from the Automobile Association of America that will lead to an amicable agreement, but there is only one plan of action for us. We have not been hasty. We have waited for at least three years until patience has ceased to be a virtue. We have presented our case. We await their reply and, of course, if they refuse to treat with us we have the medicine in our own locker."

BY PERCY A. WALKER.
[Member Contest Board A.A.A.]

"You have been too hasty. Wait and give the Contest Board a chance to reply to your proposition. Then if you are not satisfied it is time to act. You will not have easy sailing in forming this new association. Every man at that meeting seemed to be against the ruling body. Why be so drastic before there is need for summary action? Have wired Chairman Schimpf and expect an answer tomorrow. I'm willing to treat with the men of your committee along certain lines and will be ready to consider any plan they have to offer."

The Finish.

BURMAN TURNS SPEEDY MILE.

Moross May Be Outlawed by A.A.A. as an Aftermath.

Sadder and Wiser Man Now that Fiasco Is Over.

Bob Burman in the "Blitzen Benz" drove a mile at Ascot Park yesterday afternoon in 48 2-5s. This was not as fast as the mile turned by the great driver Saturday, but the wind had much to do with Burman's speed. In the first trial Burman lost his goggles and was forced to slow down on the lower turn. Even with such a handicap he swung around the circuit in 49 1-5s.

The meet yesterday was a repetition of the Saturday affair as far as the crowd is concerned. Only a handful of spectators occupied the grand stand. The band had a prominent place. There was plenty of parking space. The automobile public did not turn out for the Burman meet. The answer is easy. The sports of Los Angeles are not in harmony with the campaign conducted by the Burman management.

The string of cars carried around by E. A. Moross is as good as can be found anywhere in the world. The drivers are also all right. Joe Horan showed speed yesterday and Tony Janetsky the day before showed too much class by defeating Burman. The card was a good one but the sentiment was not there.

Barney Oldfield would have filled that grand stand. There has never been a meet at Ascot Park in which Oldfield has not driven with at least 4000 spectators cheering him to the echo. Burman drove faster miles than have ever before been turned on the track, but the crowd was not with him. Even the few scattering spectators were not particularly thrilled. It looked as if racing is dead, but it is not.

FAST LITTLE STUTZ.

Earl Cooper was the surprise of the handicap five-mile race yesterday with the Stutz. Cooper was given only seven seconds start of Burman in the Prince Henry Benz, and was sent away on equal terms with Joe Horan in the other Benz. It was a race every second of the 4m 36 1-5s of milling. Cooper refused to be beaten. At the start Horan took the lead.

The onlookers showed enthusiasm when Horan failed to distance Cooper. On the upper turn the Stutz began to pick up. In the second mile the Benz showed faster on the straightaways. On each circuit the Stutz began to cut down the lead until the last mile came with the crowd on its feet. It was here that Cooper showed some rare head work.

Cutting in close to the pole with his short wheel-base Stutz racer Cooper took the lead on entering the second turn, and came into the stretch several lengths ahead of the second car. Burman, with the Prince Henry Benz, then began chopping down the advantage of the Stutz and made a desperate effort to catch the flying car.

There was a cloud of dust as Burman came into the stretch close behind the Stutz and many thought that Bob would overtake Cooper. Try as he would Burman could not overcome the lead that Cooper had piled up and the Stutz shot across the line winning by half a length. Then it was that the crowd went wild.

Walter Brown, the Stutz agent, had been watching Cooper every second. He saw the local lad making a sensational race and he became just as wild as the most excited spectator. With his watch in hand Brown danced a Navajo ragtime two-step as he saw the blue car come down the track to victory that showed the machine has far more speed than even Brown had any idea was contained in that bunch of mechanism.

MOROSS OFF FEED.

Perhaps Moross was feeling sick at the "panning" he has received. He says it's ptomaine poisoning. At any rate Earnie was off his feed yesterday. He did not flourish that flag with his old-time swagger. His announcements were poor. He let the crowd decide for itself that the race was over, and prepared to retire. He admitted that he had a severe headache but was anxious to explain that it's not the result of the publicity he has obtained.

That Earnie Moross is a sadder and a wiser promoter goes without saying. He is willing to admit that he cannot even begin to run things in Los Angeles. He will even go so far as to admit that he cannot dictate to the Automobile Association of America. He may finish this meet with a disbarment that will keep him from waving the starting and finishing flags for some time.

MOROSS IN DANGER.

There is every reason to believe that Moross is to be disqualified, outlawed, or anything else you would like. P. J. Walker, a member of the Contest Board, admitted yesterday that the board is considering the charges against Moross. This meet has been a costly one to Burman's manager. It may see him down and out before the echoes of that mud-slinging contest are quieted.

Teddy Tetziaff was out to the track yesterday but kept at a respectful distance. The A.A.A. officials were watching him. Poor Teddy could not even appear on the track. He is an outlaw. He peered through the bars and saw Bob turn some fast miles. He was ready to go on, but was prevented. Teddy was to receive $750 for driving an exhibition mile. He can be seen today at Bullock's store telling all he knows about automobile accessories.

The Studebaker, with Frank B. Goode, was there again yesterday, and so was Bill La Casse and his smile. Goode tried to enter the handicap but was prevented from starting by Walker. Now there is a possibility that La Casse will be outlawed with Tetziaff. I don't know just what for but I think it's for laughing in Walker's face and saying "We should worry and get a wrinkle! We're going to form a new association."

Walter Hempel was out yesterday. Walter is the real promoter who makes everybody happy. With a wave of his hand Hempel turned to Moross and said: "Well, I could have told you so. You should know better than to try to pull that stuff in Barney's own town." The dismal nod of Moross's head told plainly that he agreed with the Baron. But it was too late.

The Focus.

BASEBALL BOSSES BUSY TRADING TRYING TRIPPERS

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Wednesday of this week is the day set for the meeting of the American League magnates and it has been officially announced their business will be of sufficient importance to necessitate extending the session over until Thursday. Heretofore these magnates frequently completed their annual deliberations in a single day. In order to extend the meeting into a two-day affair, it probably will be necessary to spend more than the usual time in the Pompeiian-room.

The younger organization has no election of a president, but the league's directors will of course have to meet and solemnly confirm the award of the league's championship, which has already been conceded by many to the Boston Red Sox.

The league proper apparently has no serious problems on its hands, unless it be the situation in New York, which may or may not be wholly satisfactory. The lease on the grounds occupied by the Yankees plant will expire before another playing season arrives, and as work has been delayed seriously on the new plant, the Yanks would be homeless next year but for the arrangement made to share the National League stadium.

The Farrell organization is leaderless, and may need the attention of the club owners in that respect, although there is a chance that Farrell will name his own manager at the conference of magnates. Frank Chance's name has been connected with the Yankee job more frequently than that of any other person, and that four-cornered deal which was reported under way some time ago, may be started. This deal involves the transfer of Chance to the Yanks, via Detroit. The Tigers will turn over Red Corriden to Cincinnati to complete their end of the deal, and the Cincinnati owner will release Red to the Cubs. This trade, if it is ever put over, will be the biggest and most important one in baseball history.

Row Raises.

LEAGUE MAGNATES MEET IN ANNUAL CONCLAVE.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] This will be a great week in baseball, New York and Chicago will divide the interests of the fans, as the National League meets here and the American League in the West. It is probable that the New York meeting will attract the greater share of the public interest, for it is impossible for the National magnates to get together without at least one red hot row, sometimes half a dozen.

In all probability the stormy session of the National League may be expected to wind up before the week is out, but some one has got to get very busy unless the row which began during the middle of last season with outbursts of Murphy and Fogel is satisfactorily patched up.

The election of a president is a matter that promises to cause a lot of bitter feeling in the National League. Rumors will not down that Joe O'Brien, the retiring secretary of the New York club, has been tipped off to keep his ear close to the ground with the expectation of stepping into the breach, and incidentally into Tom Lynch's shoes, in case of a deadlock.

Joe Lynch is going to meet with considerable opposition to his re-election as Murphy, Ebbetts and the Philadelphia factions are opposed to the policy of the present incumbent. Brown of Louisville is frequently mentioned as likely to be nominated in opposition to Lynch, but O'Brien will be waiting all the time. However, it looks as though Lynch will be returned in spite of all opposition.

The Brennahan matter must be taken up, and Roger must be satisfied before another club gets hold of his services. The Chance problem must be satisfactorily settled, order brought out of the dissension now existing over the status of Joe Tinker, and the sale of the Philadelphia National club satisfactorily carried through.

Not until the election has been settled, however, will there be much talk of trades and exchanges. So far as trades are concerned there appears to be but one in the National which is creating any interest, and that is the one in which Joe Tinker is expected to go to Cincinnati. There may be quite a number of deals in the American League, however. Detroit, Chicago and New York are three clubs that are willing to listen to reason. It is not likely, however, that any of the clubs which were prominent in the last year's race will figure in any of the trading.

Women Sweepstakes.

CUPS AT A DISCOUNT IN METROPOLITAN GOLF.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] Match play and golf ball sweepstakes may take the place of the usual cup events with the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association next season. A strong movement has been started in that direction.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers of Baltusrol, one of the best of the Metropolitan women players, said in speaking of the proposition: "Goodness, gracious me! I have won nearly two-score cups, and now it is a real worry to win another for they all involve so much care and attention.

"I know it will be hard to have women agree to golf ball sweepstakes rather than play for cups, because most of our players have not won a cup and they would like to get one at least, a perfectly legitimate and commendable ambition. Another thing that will operate against the sweepstakes is that some of our members may consider it too close an approach to betting, although, as it is we chip in for the prizes through the funds of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association just as we would chip in in the case of sweepstakes."

Another change some of the members of the W.M.G.A. would like to make is to match play in the tournaments, not a few having expressed themselves as tired of the sameness of the one-day-medal-play affairs. Mrs. Mira A. Patterson, president of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, is in favor of the match play.

Speaking of the proposed change today, Mrs. Patterson said: "While thinking well of the match play plan, still I must say that the one-day-medal-play tournaments have brought out more golfers than ever before and the association has never been so prosperous as it is now. It is only since we have had the one-day-medal-play events that our handicap list has been so large. I do not think that the ball sweepstakes would be popular. It might do for one or two events, but not for all."

INTERNATIONAL MATCH.
PLANS ARE IN THE AIR.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] At a time when most golfers are trying to decide whether they will put their clubs away for the winter or endeavor to break the long weary waiting for spring with a visit to one or other of the southern courses, international affairs again force themselves to the surface. Fortunately there is no bone of contention between the ruling bodies here and abroad, such as there was when the ban on the Schenectady putter and other matters occupied attention. There is a strong feeling that a match should be arranged between England and the United States.

Harold Hilton did poorly in his efforts to raise a team to come here. It, however, would take but two or three capable players from this country, with the addition of such men as F. Roosevelt Scovel and Douglas Grant, Americans resident in England, to make a formidable side. If next season there is a desire on the part of any cracks here to go after foreign honors it is probable they will go in sufficient numbers to make a team match possible.

Six-Day Cycles.

FIFTEEN TEAMS OFF ON FULL WEEK GRIND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Fifteen teams started at one minute after midnight this morning in the twentieth annual six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden.

The riders set out at an even and fairly speedy gait, and at the end of the first mile were bunched with Mariol Berthet of the Franco-Italian team, Berthet and Brocco, making the pace. The time for the mile was 2min. 31s.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—With an entry list of fifteen teams this year's international six-day bicycle race starting at midnight in Madison Square Garden, gave promise of being productive of faster and more interesting riding than any of its predecessors. The new track, which measures ten laps to the mile, was built for increased speed, with better banks at the turns and broader approaches to the two stretches, and judges and inspectors have instructions to see that intentional delays caused by so-called "accidents" shall be penalized.

Last year the riders demanded that the cash prizes be arranged on a percentage of the gate receipts, and the winners were dissatisfied with the result. This year the nine leading teams will receive cash prizes as follows:

First, $1600; second, $1000; third, $800; fourth, $700; fifth, $500; sixth, $400; seventh, $300; eighth, $200; ninth, $100. In addition, about $8000 in bonuses will be divided among the riders.

Many of the entrants are veterans at the game, but new blood will be infused into this contest, and the foreign element is strongly represented. The starters are:

American team—Frank Kramer, Jimmy Moran.

Australian-American team—Jackie Clarke, Fred Hill.

Australian team—Alf Greens, Ernie Pye.

German-American team—Walter Rutt, Joe Fogler.

New York-Melbourne team—Eddie Root, Paddy Hehir.

Irish team—Grassy Ryan, Lloyd Thomas.

French team—Oscar Egg, Andre Perchicot.

Dixie-New York team—Bobby Walthour, George Cameron.

Boston team—Pete Drobach, Elmer Collins.

New Zealand team—Jumbo Wells, Gordon Walker.

Providence-Jamaica team—Alvin Loftus, Clarence Carman.

France-Italian team—Marcel Berthet, Maurice Brocco.

POLO PLAYERS NEED SPURRING.

YANKEE RIDERS AND PONIES MUST MEET INVASION.

English Team Coming After Cup Is Twice as Strong as that Beaten by Americans in 1911—Work Cut Out for Local Experts, Who Are Not Busy.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] America will have a hard time winning the international polo trophy in the series of games with the English challengers next year. Our representatives will find that the men they will face next year are much superior in quality to those who opposed them in 1911.

The English players are 100 per cent. faster and much better players than those that made up the team in the former contest. The English ponies rate a 100 per cent. better than the mounts that the challengers rode in 1911.

Neither can American furnish the native players and the ponies to meet this advance in quality.

In those words, Foxhall Keene, one of the greatest polo players in the country, wrote of the five nine-point men, the highest handicap in polo in America.

The other four men are Harry Payne Whitney, Lawrence Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, and Devereaux Milburn. Keene was rather pessimistic in his views as to the result of the forthcoming matches. "We will have to work hard to fill the requirements with first-class material both in players and ponies for 1913," continued Mr. Keene. "There is plenty of time to do it, and get everything in shape if the players will only buckle down to work. It will mean plenty of hard training of a serious nature. Unless the polo ists of this country start in with this object in view we will meet certain defeat. We had no such men to face on the English team in 1911 as Walter Buckmaster, who will be on the team next year, as the captain.

"He is by long odds the greatest polo ist in England. He is a ten-point man in that country. In England the men are handicapped as high as ten points. The members of the American team that won and defended the cup in 1909-1911, and Mr. Keene, are rated as a ten-point men in England. But with a man like Buckmaster as an opponent and Capt. Leslie St. George Cheape, Capt. Hardress, Lloyd, and Capt. R. G. Ritzen as assistants, the American players will have as adversaries the greatest team they ever faced."

BEST OF HORSES SHIPPED ABROAD.

FIFTY YEARS OF BREEDING LOST WITH RACING.

Best American Thoroughbreds Sold to Europeans and Being Rapidly Shipped Out of This Country. Famous Strains Threatened With Extinction by Lack of Incentive.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] "There will not be a horse of any value left in this country, for the army or any other purpose, if the same conditions continue for the next two years that have prevailed in the last two years." Thus spoke Ed Tipton, of the the well-known firm of Fasig, Tipton & Co., a firm which has sold thousands of horses for distribution in all parts of the world.

"In a year or two all our breeding stock will have been sold or will be worthless and aged, and European countries will have acquired the American thoroughbreds and trotters that it took this country fifty years to develop. The millions of dollars that have been expended to perfect the thoroughbred and trotter and the latter type positively the best in the world, will avail nothing."

Quarters have been arranged on the Atlantic transport steamship Minnewaska for a good-sized consignment of American thoroughbreds which is expected here tonight from Kentucky, and which will be shipped to Europe tomorrow. This shipment makes another important list of high-class horses lost by this country through the decline of racing here.

Foremost in the lot is the great Peter Pan, 8 years old. He will occupy the same box aboard the Minnewaska in which Rocksand, the $150,000 stallion, went to Europe a few weeks ago. He has not been sold, as was reported, but his owner, James R. Keene, has had big offers from both England and France. Other horses of note in this shipment are Ort Wells, Ocean Bound, Mosquito, and the brood mares Musket, Court Dress, Pope Jane, Meggs Hill, Stepping Stone, and Early and Often.

the A.A.A. has already been made and all that remains is for the contest board to accept the offer. Then a governing body, that will handle race meets in the entire United States can be formed.

"We are not insurrectos," said Frank Garbutt, last night. "There is no need for us to withdraw from the A.A.A. unless we are forced out. All we ask is a chance to handle our own affairs. We want a court of last appeal closer to the scene of action. We can work with the men of the contest board. I believe them to be gentlemen of integrity and high standards.

"There is no need for drastic action until we hear definitely from the A.A.A. We have not threatened to do anything but try to govern ourselves and if we can do this under the jurisdiction and with the sanction of the Automobile Association of America, why so much the better. If not, then we shall be forced to organize along our own lines, conduct our own meets, issue our own sanctions and tender our regrets to those who fail to see the matter as it appears to us."

Percy J. Walker, representative of the Automobile Association of America, is here from San Francisco. He is a member of the contest board, and is vested with authority to act. He admitted that he has the power to reinstate Teddy Tetzlaff, but says he has no idea of doing so. He said that he is considering the matter of the protest against E. A. Moross.

FROM WALKER.

"Think you men here have been a little hasty in trying to form a new association," said Walker last night. "There is a solution to this matter, or tangle if you care to put it that way. You won't need a new association. You can work with the A.A.A. Those men are reasonable and are willing to listen to your protest. Give the contest board a chance to consider your proposition before you take drastic action.

"You want to be governed right here. That is fair enough, and I'm with you. If I had been given an opportunity I would have been glad to address that meeting. In fact I came down from San Francisco to attend the conference. I would rather see you take this up with an appeal, or if you like it better, a proposition, being offered to the A.A.A., where we can meet that body on middle ground.

"Motor racing must be governed. I don't think it wise to form an organization that might only influence racing in Los Angeles. You might get the people of San Francisco to work with you, but I doubt it. The men who take hold of this are arranging to do a great amount of work for nothing, and they will have many hard problems to solve. Don't think I'm trying to knock, but I would be far better pleased if you could decide to work with the A.A.A. and let the contest board adjust all your difficulties."

As far as I can see it Walker is fair and square. He seems to be prejudiced against Tetzlaff, but his interpretation of the rules causes him to take the stand he has taken. However, the friends of the Flat man here would not stand for a prolonged outlaw term for Teddy, as they believe it would work a hardship that is not in keeping with the slight offense of the great motor pilot. Of course if the new association is formed, Tetzlaff will be in good standing with that body and will have as his side partner no other than Barney Oldfield, the greatest drawing card in the motor racing arena.

JACK WHITE PARTS FROM MANAGER.

Jack White, the local featherweight, and his manager, Fred Gilmore, have split. No reasons were given by either, and from what could be learned they agreed to part company some time ago.

COUNTRY CLUB GOSSIP.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

It is dreadful to think it is still undecided. The middleweights actually tied in their challenge team match against the fats and leans. Came out absolutely even and forty-three matches were played. They had a joyous banquet in the evening, of course, but with such positive equality pervading everything no one could be very rude to anybody else and there was certainly a lack of stimulous.

Now, of course, they will fix a date to play it all over again—it must be better to be either fat or lean or middle size if one can only discover which.

Altogether it was one of the jolliest and most successful golf events that this season has so far seen—and such a thing as an even score will probably never be witnessed again. It will be remembered that the leans only defeated the fats by one point and whoever is responsible for the pairings should certainly be congratulated, too, as most of the matches were very close on both occasions.

Next Saturday night will be a great occasion at the Los Angeles Country Club. Christmas dinner, with a very special menu, and a very special entertainment is promised, and they tell me reservations are rushing in wildly—such a jolly chance to get two Christmases.

The San Gabriel Country Club.

The Thanksgiving tournament progresses apace at San Gabriel, and all the second-round matches and some of the third, have been disposed of. Ross Hickox defeated Weller in the first flight and A. J. Gutzler won from Conde Jones by default. R. R. Carter won from Pearce, Lee Stephens won from Geoffray Purcell, and Frank Dillon maintained the progress of his former triumphs by defeating H. N. H. Woodcock, the club's cock o' the walk, by no less than 7 up. Of course, Woodcock had to concede him 11 strokes but—he would even have defeated him by 1 up without the handicap. Thus are the mighty fallen.

In the second flight F. O. Wood won from J. B. Elliott—it is good to see Mr. Wood coming back to form again. F. B. Hogan (the father of an interesting young heiress) won from Bannister; Whalley defeated Drake, Judson Smith defeated Robert Tatum (another shining star dimmed;) Connell defeated Bury, Wade defeated Capt. Wharton, Bricker defeated Boyle, and Frank Ainsworth defeated Jim Parker. This latter catastrophy was a very sad affair. Poor Mr. Parker was a very, very long way from home and he is betting heavily that it will never, never occur again.

The Team Match.

The talking of Harry Cole, do you suppose that is what ruined Cole Jones? He was paired with Cole to play in the team match recently arranged between Captains Wade and Wharton, the latter having organized a challenge team to wipe the club team on their mats.

The club team justified their existence on this occasion winning by 4 points to 3—and one of these 3 was a default through said Captain Wade's regrettable absence. But in my private opinion is that Cole Jones feared the awful disgrace of losing badly to a man to whom he was used to concede four strokes. In some times, Jones could beat Cole on comparative ease, but just at present Cole is on his game and we all know hero was not taking any chances. In all events, he defaulted in both the team and tournament matches and we don't think it was any of the two.

The two captains played Cole and Woodcock defeated Wharton 2 up, after conceding him 11 strokes. It was a narrow shave, however, for Capt. Wharton had his man 1 down at the fourth hole. There were moments when the club troubled to see the reputation of its star man, but Saturday's performance, for SPARK-PLUG M'CLOSKY.

Strenuous Objections to the Idiots Who Stand Up and "Hoo-Hoo" to Their Friends at Boxing Matches. He Is Also Worried About Ad Wolgast.

AY," said Sparkplug McCloskey as he bustled into The Times office last night, "Do you know how I can buy a ticket for a seat next to a man that ain't got no ears?"

"I'm afraid I don't get you, Steve," said the boxing reporter.

"Of course you don't," said Sparkplug hotly. "You don't get me because you sit up there at the ringside with nothing in front of you but the ringside. If you hada set out with the animals you'd know what I mean all right."

Sparkplug took a pull at his cigar—the way he does when he is about to be eloquent.

A PESTIFEROUS IDIOT.

"Well," he said, "There is several kinds of idiots that I admire, but the worst of the diamond belt is the bozo who sits in front of you at the fights and gets genial with his neighbor.

"My favorite place for one of these shooting lunatics to hold reunions is the long-lost friends of his youth is a prize fight.

"Every time I go to a fight some one is in front of me gets one of these. I can tell when they are going to do it. I know the symptoms like a doctor knows measles. When I see one of these water-on-the-brain fools punch the feller next to him in the ribs and his face cracks in one of them smiles, I know what's doin next.

OH, SOME CRIBIS!

"I have in a minute the feller that keeps trying to signal to some one across the pavilion. When I was used to see them I imagined that something awful must have happened. This guy—they are all alike—would jump up on his seat and look around. He would punch everybody in the ribs and kick everybody in the shins and knock everybody out of within a mile. All the time he would be yelling and bawling like he would split his lungs.

"I'll bet the time you got ready to join in a riot call the other guy and the pavilion would look up.

HOO! HOO! CHARLEY.

"At first I used to almost hold my breath listening to what he was going to say.

"But all he done was to wave his hand and yell, 'Hoo, hoo, Charley, how are you?'

"They just feel genial," said the boxing reporter. "They want to impress their friends."

"They ought to all go out to Patagonia and pretend they are fog horns and pretend signals, and leave the other guys to see the fights without the noise-house."

"Jack Curley ought to sit next to Tom McCarey ought to sit next to Ad Wolgast."

"They can't be as crazy as that," said the boxing reporter.

"Oh, they would if they had to sit next to each other, but they wouldn't go to the fights."

SIMMONS'S CHALLENGE.

"What's your protege, Scissors Simmons, tonight?" asked one of the scribes.

"He's going to call the lad out in English. We don't like no Dago cuss words," said Sparkplug shortly.

The conversation continued in a confidential manner, but come up to have you read it in the paper. Scissors Simmons to meet Ad Wolgast."

"I don't intend to give us a fine build for nothing, do you?" asked the sporting editor.

"Well," said Sparkplug, "You know when Frankie Gage challenged Wolgast. I don't suppose you could do nothing for his joke, did you? I can afford to give his stuff away, I'm there, too. I get nothing on me for a reserved nature."

CHEAP ADVERTISING.

"You don't want us to print this—why?" asked the sporting editor.

"I don't know no cheaper way to get it," said Sparkplug coldly. "Other kids are doing it, why not me?"

"I see that Wolgast accepts the challenge," said Sparkplug. "I'll challenge him to a long-distance runner race, and I guess Gage and Wolgast would be in the first fifteen hundred he was to run. Simmons wouldn't be no where near safe. You notice that in his challenge—then he's safe," said the New Orleans train.

"Ad intends to retire; at least that is my idea of what I hear."

"Pleasant if swallering the A.A.A. don't give the new one indigestion," said Spark-plug. "But on the level, it looks to me like some of those A.A.A. guys would have to go to work."

NELSON GETS OFFER.

Battling Nelson has an offer to fight New York Knockout Brown in New York. He is in Philadelphia picking the easy ones.

"You will have to hand it to Tom Jones for a good game guy," mused Sparkplug. "He lost so much kale on that Ritchie fight that they tell me he scattered sparklin' diamonds all over Frisco. Most fellers would have went to the City Hall and asked the Mayor to have the 'never-again' sign carved into the corner-stone of the building fer them.

"But not Jones. Tom, he don't hardly wait fer the train to stop before he's hopped off and ducks head first into—"

BACKING FLYNN.

"Who are they taking?" asked one of the sporting writers with a sudden show of interest.

"Flynn," said Spark-plug. "Ad and Jones have got an idear that the fireman is too wise to the ring stuff fer the cowpuncher. I heard they was even sticking up a little money—just the price of a new automobile or some such trifle—that Flynn would knock McCarty clean out."

"They certainly ought to know," suggested the sporting editor.

"Yes, they'd OUGHT to," said Spark-plug outingly. "But did you ever know a fighter to pick a winner? If I see a fighter bet that a street car wouldn't jump the track and bite a dog, I'd feel safe in taking the other side. I guess any bank would lend you money on your note to go around coppering fighters' bets."

"It's too bad about Ad," said Spark-plug, "the little feller knows just as well as all of us that he ain't got many more big purses waiting for him. With that keen, quick brain of hisn, and a little pile of frog skins, he would be a regular feller in the business world after he quits."

INEVITABLE END.

"But maybe he won't lose," suggested some one.

"There's only one finish fer any one who starts bettin'. They tell me that Ad is a pretty comfortable winner over the bookmakers, but they allus get you. A feller who bets is like a feller who rides aeroplanes. He might sneak em over fer a while; but it is going to hurt just as much when he finally gets it as though he fell every day fer exercise."

As Spark-plug rose to go, the automobile editor came in.

"I see you guys have got the slide greased for the A.A.A.," said Spark-plug with a grin.

"It's too bad," he added, "how will Barney Oldfield and Bill Pickens be able to advertise if there ain't no A.A.A. to make them outlaws once in a while?"

"You're mistaken," said the automobile editor stiffly. "It is the intention of the automobile men to establish pleasant relations between the new Pacific Automobile Association and the A.A.A."

"Pleasant if swallering the A.A.A. don't give the new one indigestion," said Spark-plug. "But on the level, it looks to me like some of those A.A.A. guys would have to go to work."

NELSON GETS OFFER.

NEW BOWLING TOURNEY FOR NEW YEAR.

An open bowling tournament for the championship of Greater Los Angeles is to be started immediately after the holidays, with a list of entries and an entry fee which assures a first class contest. Nearly all the prominent players of the recent Southern California Bowling Association individual competition have indicated their intention of taking part, among the number being, Shay, Turner, arrow, Mackenzie, Lustig, Steele, Taylor, France, Smith and Meador.

The entry fee is $15, entries being received at any alley in the city. The contest will be a two-round affair, "home and home" alleys, thus giving all contestants a series under their choice of conditions. Scores and records will be kept by Alf E. Mackenzie, as secretary, and Bert Henry is to act in the capacity of treasurer.

ARMY AND NAVY TO LOSE FOOTBALL MAN.

San Diego Army and Navy Academy is to lose just one football player by graduation next spring. Herb Tiffany, who played half-back on the academy team this season, is to receive his diploma in June, and intends to enter either Michigan or the University of Illinois.

D. C. Wilson, coach at the Pacific Beach military school, is already making plans for the 1913 football season. With the large squad of veterans who will return and the promising new material which is to enter the school, Wilson should develop one of the best interscholastic elevens in the State.

This season, the Army and Navy Academy put a football team in the field for the first time. The team made a very creditable showing; and on offense in particular, showed great form.

HAYNES AUTO CO. OPENS BRANCH.

Hereafter the interests of the Haynes Automobile Company in Southern California are to be attended to by a factory branch, which occupies the rooms of the Brotherton agency at No. 1225 South Olive street, this city. Back at the factory headquarters, Kokomo, Ind., the remarkable growth in the automobile business in California made a deep impression and it was decided the best thing to do would be to have the factory represented directly at the hub of the automobile trade, Los Angeles.

HORTON HOPING.

George Horton, the Denver featherweight, is patiently waiting to hear from promoters anxious to sign him for a few matches. Horton has a few minor bouts in prospect, but wants to tackle the top-notchers. He came here with Unholz.

DOWN THE LINE WITH HARRY WILLIAMS

The possibility of defeat does not appear to have entered into the plans of Jim Flynn and Jack Curley.

"I tell you what we will do, Jim," said Curley yesterday. "Wednesday we will leave for some near-by resort, where you can rest and enjoy yourself for four or five days before beginning work for the Palzer fight on New Year's."

"Yes, that's just what I've thinkin' myself," replied the fireman.

Frank Moran Arrives.

Daily the local heavyweight situation is becoming more acute. Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavy, accompanied by Gregory Mitchell, his manager, yesterday breezed in from San Francisco, and headed direct for Flynn's camp at Doyles.

Moran has an explicit object in view in coming to Los Angeles at this time. He is desirous of mixing in McCarey's heavyweight tournament, and will challenge the winner tomorrow night. Failing to land at that time, he may decide to linger and try to grab the winner of the New Year's battle.

Moran is a strapping blonde, who tips the beam at 198 pounds in ring condition. He has been fighting for three years, and has engaged in thirty-eight battles. During that time he has met most of the heavyweights now before the public, including Palzer. His last fight was a four-round affair with Charley Miller in San Francisco, whom he claims to have beaten despite the verdict. While in San Francisco he also took the measure of Charley Horn.

Moran is something of a globe-trotter. During his rather-brief career he has had battles in five countries—the United States, England, France, Wales and Mexico. We shall learn more about him after Flynn and McCarty are off our hands.

Flynn Strong for Stone.

Flynn has developed a high regard for Norman Stone since they have been working together. Yesterday he announced that he would back Stone for $500 against any middleweight on the Coast.

"When I have cleaned up with McCarty and Palzer I will be able to use both Stone and Abdul on the theatrical tour, which I am to make," said Flynn, again failing to allow the opposition to enter into his calculations.

Al Goes Calling.

Palzer was a visitor at McCarty's camp yesterday, and today will pay his respects to Flynn at the Vernon conditioning center.

Two Matches for Dundee.

"Quite a change here from sunny California. When we landed here it was in the snow, but it didn't last long. Dundee meets Eddie Morgan at the Empire Athletic Club on December 17, and Johnny Lore one week later at the Forty-fourth-Street Club. I see where Joe Rivers has decided to come East. He will be a great card here, as his victory over Mandot is still the talk of the city. Johnnie is well, and wishes to be remembered to all his friends in Los Angeles."

Mistook Curley for McCarty.

Jack Curley, who is holding the managerial reins for Jim Flynn, experienced a new kind of fame the other day.

Jack, who is as big as a house, was standing in front of Al Greenewald's, the center of a group of conversationalists, including Tom McCarey and Billy Manning. Curley stood head and shoulders above his companions, and suddenly found himself the cynosure of attention of three passersby, who had halted when they caught sight of him.

"Sure thing," assured one of his companions, who wanted to appear wise. "That's Luther McCarty."

"Looks kind of fat and chubby, for a man in training," suggested the third man.

"Oh, that's the way with McCarty," promptly explained the gent, who was determined to impress his knowledge of fighters on his companions. "He always looks a bit that way, but he is as solid as a slab of marble. Every ounce bone and muscle."

Curley made the most of the opportunity. Determined to bask in the limelight while the basking was good, he threw out his chest, tried to draw in his ample bay window and looked as fierce as his broad, open, smiling countenance would permit.

"I may look like McCarty," said Jack, after his admirers had departed, "but I hope that I can fight better than he can."

All of which goes to show that Curley is not overlooking any tricks as a "goat" herder.

Return Match But Just.

For a former champion, Ad Wolgast's position is almost without parallel. Three weeks ago he was the lightweight champion of the world. Since that time he has not been whipped, and yet he is compelled to use the prefix "ex" when employing the word "champion." In reality, Wolgast is a much king of the lightweights as before he met Ritchie, but technically he is not the champion.

Championships should not be permanently transferred on technicalities. Wolgast lost the title on a foul, which inflicted no damage on his opponent. There is no evidence to the effect that the foul was intentional. It was certainly a soft slide into the championship for Ritchie, if we overlook the things that Wolgast did to his youthful countenance prior to the sixteenth round. Ritchie has not demonstrated that he is the best lightweight in the world. His fight with Wolgast was really his first important battle. This was due, of course, to lack of opportunity, as Wolgast was the only top-notcher willing to give him a chance. In this phase of the situation, I rejoice with Ritchie over his good fortune. Ritchie, however, should give Wolgast the first chance at the title. Had he whipped Wolgast this demand could not be made upon him. Under the circumstances he should defend his somewhat tarnished title against the former champion within six months at the longest.

McCluskey Also a "Hope."

At the present rate of increase Los Angeles will soon have heavyweight "hopes" to sell by the pound, the same as oranges, lemons and persimmons, all of these words being used in a purely horticultural sense.

Al McCluskey, who accompanied Palzer and O'Rourke to the Coast in the guise of sparring partner, is in reality a "hope." McCluskey weighs 180 pounds, and has beaten a number of good men. He is carried by Palzer, partly because he is the only man who is willing to take the whalings which Al insists on lavishing on his sparring partners. O'Rourke is willing to send McCluskey against any heavyweight in the world, except Palzer. "Wouldn't do to have any fighting in the family, you know," explained the veteran manager.

Gage to New Orleans.

Frankie Gage and his manager, Charley O'Connor, have departed for New Orleans. O'Connor says that he has arranged a match there with Young Joe Thomas, with the promise of Mandot to meet the winner of the battle.

"There goes my last hope of a match," moaned Nick Albanese, as he cast a despairing glance on the disappearing backs of Gage and O'Connor. For ten days Albanese has been hurling defies at Gage on behalf of Sammy Trott. This seemed to be the logical match for Gage, but O'Connor couldn't see it that way.

Question Answered.

This from a Phoenix seeker after information:

"Please state in The Times who was George Dixon's opponent in New Orleans on September 12, 1892. Did Dixon and Spider Kelly ever fight in New Orleans?—J.P.L., Phoenix, Ariz."

Dixon's opponent in that memorable fistic tournament was Jack Skelly. Dixon won, subjugating his opponent, I believe, as early as the fifth round. Skelly is now in business in Yonkers, N. Y., and is well supplied with this world's goods. In the same tournament, Jack McAuliffe beat Billy Meyer, turning the trick in about fifteen rounds. In the ultima thule of this fightfest Jim Corbett danced fat old John L. out of the heavyweight championship. Dixon did not meet Spider Kelly in New Orleans. His fight with Skelly in the Crescent City was the only one in which the "Little Chocolate" engaged south of the Mason & Dixon dead line. For further information along this line write to Billy McCarney, who is a walking, talking encyclopedia of ancient Queensberry history.

M'GOORTY MATCHED.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch to The Times by Wireless Line.] It was announced tonight that Billy McKinnon, the Boston middleweight, who not so long ago gave Eddie McGoorty one of the hardest battles that the Wisconsin boxer had while in the East, has been matched to fight McGoorty on January 13 at Kenosha, Wis.

As Joshua Whitcomb in "The Old Homestead," which is playing at the Majestic this week, and as he really looks.

Joshua Whitcomb.

RHEUMATISM BROUGHT GREAT PLAY INTO BEING.

Denman Thompson, Erstwhile Irish Comedian, Simply Had to Create Character that Didn't Dance—Merely Sketch Becomes Greatest American Drama.

"Joshua Whitcomb, in 'The Old Homestead,' is a 'dramatic evergreen' and will continue to be so as long as the name of Denman Thompson lives," said a Boston critic, after the rural Yankee had been coming and going for nine successive seasons, "always warmly welcomed, and as freshening to the spirit and body as the changing landscape of the early spring."

Until a certain Pittsburgh engagement, Denman Thompson had affected Irish comedy, with considerable success, and was convinced that therein lay his best hopes for enduring success. He traveled about from city to city doing an Irish piece, in which his clever dancing was a distinctive feature. He went to Pittsburgh in this role, and was stricken down in the midst of his engagement by a severe attack of rheumatism and obliged to give up playing for a time.

As he depended in a large measure for popular success upon his terpsichorean indulgences, this malady was a serious blow to his prospects. It looked as if he must abandon his profession or submit to a lowly place in the ranks. As salaries in those days were about one-third what they are now, he could not have saved much for a possible contingency like this, even if he was of frugal habits (which he was not,) and the outlook was far from promising of aught but pain and care.

FINDING OF JOSHUA.

It was clear that if he were to remain an active and honored figure of the stage, it would be by the work of his brains to the exclusion of his heels, and not a divisional affair as heretofore, in which both extremities partook of more or less credit.

It was under these circumstances, and while confined to his bed, racked with rheumatic pain, that he conceived the idea of playing a Yankee character of the quiet, homely kind—one that deperded for its effects more upon dialogue than dramatic business.

The result was "Joshua Whitcomb."

At first it was the merest sketch, not taking more than twenty or thirty minutes for its presentation, and only the vagest suggestion of the character in its present perfect development. It was produced in this embryonic form for the first time at Harry Martin's Varieties, Pittsburgh, in February, 1875, and remained two weeks with conspicuous success. There were two scenes—the street scene in which Uncle Joshua upon his first visit to Boston had a number of exciting and laughable adventures with low types of city life; and the birthday party, at which he made the liveliest sort of merriment by his rustic manners and homely talk.

At Rochester, in the spring of 1875, "Roundy," the bootblack, and "Tot," the crossing sweeper, were added to the sketch. They were familiar figures in the metropolis, wise beyond their years, roughened by the hard knocks of fate, but ingrained with qualities of nature that only needed a little ripening time and sun to develop into strong and lovable characters. They gave added zest to Uncle Joshua's city trip, and photographed a phase of lowly city life that intensified the simpler charms of the quiet country home and its rustic king.

From Rochester he went to the Coliseum at Chicago, managed by Hamblin Brothers. Here it was, and during this engagement in the summer of 1875, that Mr. Thompson met Mr. J. M. Hill, a Chicago merchant who afterward became his manager, and evinced a managerial talent that commanded the admiration and respect of the whole theatrical business.

He was a Yankee himself, remarkably energetic and shrewd, and rose to a pitch of enthusiasm over the homely merits of the piece, still an after-sketch, which led to his giving up his legitimate business in Chicago the following year and joining fortunes with Mr. Thompson. He continued in the relation of manager and partner with Mr. Thompson six years, during which time there was not a single marring incident, and there never existed a writing of any sort between them in business dealings.

MAKING THE PLAY.

This original sketch was as happily natural in its character, woof and humorous incidents as the four-act play into which it finally developed. The homely handiwork of the piece, seasoned with the true flavor of simple rustic life, and the real Jonathan of the farm, uncouth in dress and dialect, but honest, self-reliant and kind, touched the golden keys of memory and awoke a sweet response in every heart, full of tender recollections and soothing emotions.

A second and a third act were added at Chicago during the years of 1876 and 1877, and in the spring of the latter year it was presented in the dignified proportions of a three-act play at Haverly's, now Hooley's Theater.

In March, 1878, Emerson's Opera-house, afterward called the Standard Theater, was rented for Uncle Joshua's San Francisco debut. This was not the house for a good local effect with a new attraction, and one praised for its New England atmosphere, but prejudiced theaters were not available or the presiding genius were averse to the experiment. Acres of advertising space were covered with pictorial and descriptive paper. The newspapers were used as never before to exploit the homely virtues and quaint humor of the Swanzey farmer. There was an audacity in the cost and spread of these announcements which startled the gossips and inspired a good deal of idle comment on the folly of the enterprise and the probability of failure. The latter feeling grew apace in social centers before the production, and the critics went the first night more or less prepared for saddening results. The very extreme of managerial flourish no doubt occasioned these misgivings, at least on the part of the critical guild.

On the opening night the house was only half full. To the credit of the management be it said, there was no attempt at bolstering for a good first impression through a gratuitous audience. The faith and principle of the enterprise were not of that sort. They had that to offer which it was felt would commend itself for honest admiration, without any showman's tricks. And they were right.

The newspaper censors vied with each other in writing fine phrases of Uncle Joshua's peculiar charms and the rare beauty and entertainment of his play.

GETTING STARTED.

The second night the theater was almost filled. The third night it was comfortably so. The latter half of the week and during the rest of the engagement, running through an extended period of eight weeks, seats were held at a premium and hard to get at that. Uncle Joshua was the dramatic idol of the day. He brought with him a patch of the clear blue sky, green hills, childhood, and a life as full of wholesome flavor and vitality as the wild apples of a country orchard, which boys are bound to steal, and relish above all other sweets. There is hardly any person, whatever his environment of growth and city life, who has not a latent sweetness of nature, waiting to be unloosed by the right conditions of time and circumstance, into feeling as pure and tender as any emotion of first or second childhood.

The return from San Francisco to the East was a journey marked by the same demonstrations of affectionate welcome. It was then concluded to get into New York and present "Joshua Whitcomb" for a long period. The Lyceum Theater, now the Fourteenth street, was secured from the lessee, Mr. A. M. Palmer, for six months upon a liberal rental basis. In September, 1878, "Joshua Whitcomb" was introduced to a New York public at the Lyceum Theater. It was freely mentioned that the engagement was to be for six months. This playhouse had been a conspicuous failure up to this time. These facts were juicy items, for the theatrical wiseacres, impecunious and obtrusive, of which New York is a sort of hot-bed. Besides, "Hill," the manager, hadn't rubbed the dust of commerce from off his coat sleeve yet. A capital center like New York is not to be won so easily as Bankor, St. Joe and Ogden. Arrogant folly!

To be frank, these enemies of thought had a laughing time and merry talk for several weeks. They didn't calculate upon that touch of human nature which makes the world of kin, about which poets have sung and prophets have written.

The advertising methods of the management again attracted general notice. Newspaper space was bought up with the enterprise of a dry goods merchant. Bill posters chuckled and were happy. Yet back of it all there was something to sell, and customers soon found it out. It was wholesome amusement, delightful companionship, a gracious joy that stirred up the springs of one's spiritual nature.

New York soon followed the world and was happily exercised over "The Old Homestead," and the play has been held in affectionate regard everywhere, and succeeded financially as well beyond all precedent.

And now in its twenty-seventh year of continued success, "The Old Homestead" comes again to Los Angeles to spread the ultra good of all that is so delightful in stage studies.

Prince Floro at the Empress.

At this particular moment the Prince of Jungle Town is asking Sullivan and Considine for a raise, which is the best claim he makes to being a regular human being.

AT LOCAL THEATERS.

Yesterday afternoon "The Escape" entered upon its seventh and last week at the Burbank Theater, where for the past six weeks it has enjoyed a remarkable degree of popularity and succeeded in smashing all previous Burbank attendance records, even eclipsing the splendid record of "Peg O' My Heart," which at that time was unheard of in the history of Los Angeles theatricals.

This leaves but eight more performances of the Armstrong play, and it is safe to predict capacity audiences at each performance. "The Escape" could doubtless continue its present pace for some time to come were it not for the fact that play contracts now reposing in Oliver Morosco's safe make it quite necessary that several other recent successes be seen on the Burbank stage within a stipulated time or a considerable amount of royalty money be forfeited. Another very excellent reason for the withdrawal of the play is the fact that Miss Isetta Jewel, the new leading lady of the Burbank company, has been in Los Angeles for six weeks anxiously awaiting an opportunity to make her local debut in Armstrong's "A Romance of the Underworld." Miss Jewel's most strenuous work since arriving in the City of the Angels has been the signing of the weekly payroll.

Willie Ritchie, who recently annexed the lightweight championship, will be the bright particular star of the Sullivan and Considine bill at the Empress Theater Christmas week. Ritchie opened his engagement on the Sullivan and Considine time at the Empress Theater, San Francisco, last week, and will continue to collect 1500 Sullivan and Considine dollars weekly for fifteen weeks to come.

Mr. Ritchie will be followed closely by James J. Corbett, and trailing this famous star of the padded ring will be our old friend, Jimmy Britt, who for "some" reason has found vaudeville much to his liking. Corbett makes his first appearance on the stage since his recent illness, in Winnepeg tonight.

James Halleck Reid's play, "The Confession," which last season succeeded in scoring somewhat of a sensation on Broadway, and which at the time of its first production created considerable discussion, will be seen at the Majestic Theater next week.

EDDIE MURPHY IS READY FOR PACKY

BOTH BOYS ARE SETTLED DOWN TO TRAINING.

The Ambitious Murphy of Boston Wants to Go After Jack Britton, Who Beat Him — Thinks Himself as Clever as McFarland—Is Otherwise Sane.

[BY WIRELESS LINE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 8.—[Special Dispatch.] A match that looks good to fight followers, and which is expected to draw a big crowd of Chicago and Wisconsin fans, is the bout between Packy McFarland and Eddie Murphy, scheduled for December 16, at Kenosha, Wis.

When Murphy met Packey at South Bend some time ago, McFarland was credited with having the better of the milling, and Murphy was, naturally peeved over the result. Ever since it has been his ambition to beat McFarland again and incidentally to square matters up with Britton if the chance offered. For Britton, like McFarland, administered a check to Eddie, and, in fact won much more decisively than did the Chicagoan. When they collide the milling promises to be of the fast and furious order.

Murphy, who arrived in Chicago yesterday, settled down to hard training this morning at O'Connell's gymnasium. He looks fit as does McFarland, who also got down to hard training work today.

"If I can beat McFarland this time, I think I will redeem myself for the defeat Britton gave me," said Murphy today. "I think I am every bit as clever a boxer as the Chicago fighter, and I know I can punch harder. I will employ different ... in this fight than I did in ... previous meeting."

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Prospector Returns and Tells a Harrowing Tale.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 8.—That the Salt Lake road expects in the near future to close the gap in their line between Daggett and Riverside is evidenced by the fact that a crew of engineers is in charge of Arthur M. Hughes, division engineer, has left the city and established a camp on the Chandler ranch near the summit in the Cajon pass.

It is understood the crew will seek a low grade line through the Cajon to the main line of the Salt Lake road. It is possible a long tunnel will be built to reduce the grade if a suitable spot can be located. For some time it has been rumored that the Salt Lake has contemplated the filling of the gap, but the putting of surveyors in the field is the first real evidence of coming activities.

That the Santa Fe is going to rush a new low-grade line through the valley is evidenced by the announcement that the grading contractors, Gillespie-Fellows Company will move their first outfits to this city the coming week. The first shipment will include 100 head of grading stock and

A roaring gang has been at work on the proposed new line the past week and has gained sufficient headway to permit the graders to begin on their part of the work.

RULING IMPULSE.

A big black team which for several years has been driven on one of the Santa Fe wagons, but which has been replaced by an auto truck, thrilled the entire business district when it came tearing down the crowded business streets at full gallop until compelled to swing out it collided with a telephone pole, wrecking the wagon and injuring the horses. The driver, Jim Matthews, was also somewhat injured.

The team has been used in the street department since being taken out of the fire department. The fire whistle blew. The team pricked up their ears and then started at full gallop in an endeavor to follow the fire department which passed near.

BURIED ALIVE.

Literally buried alive and yet living to tell the tale, is the harrowing experience told by John McCarty, an Indiana prospector who arrived this morning from the desert to outfit for another attempt to reach his goal on the prospecting trip.

McCarty was cramped a few miles south of Bat station, southeast of Victorville. His blankets spread in a supposed sheltered spot, he awoke in the night to find the desert sand literally drifted entirely over him, and in a few minutes more he would have been suffocated.

Choked and blinded by the sand and the howling wind, McCarty sought a sheltered spot, only to find that his mule had broken loose in the storm and wandered away.

Half-crazed by the hardships McCarty wandered about the rest of the night and all the next day, there was but little abatement of the storm. He was unable to find water and was without food. It was almost night when, partially delirious, he stumbled into the cabin of one of the homesteaders, who the past week was mated out to James Chapman, 6 miles.

The kindly homesteader gave him food for thirty-six hours and then took him to Victorville and put him on the train for San Bernardino. He is still suffering from his frightful experience, but will be all right in a few days he says.

Three years ago McCarty was well known on the local desert, but for some time has been in the Montana mines. He recently returned here and this was his first trip out.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The people of the Del Rosa school district, north of this city, will at an election on the issuance of $20,000 bonds for the erection of a handsome modern school house of five rooms, to be built on the bungalow type with basement.

Plans are now in the making for the erection of the new Y.M.C.A. building which will be completed in the early part of January. It is expected that the festivities will cover an entire week and that a number of prominent speakers will participate.

The storekeepers of the county were called here yesterday afternoon and organized their county organization for the election of G. E. Burdick of this city as president, and W. R. Smith of San Bernardino as secretary. It is the aim of the aforesaid to form a strong organization with the view of better protecting the interests in every way.

The C. O. D. Collins jewelry store in Colton was burglarized Friday night and $100 worth of stock taken. Entrance is believed to have been the work of boys, owing to the class of goods being taken.

SMILEY MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Citizens of Redlands Gather and Pay Last Tribute to Man Called the City's Patron Saint.

REDLANDS, Dec. 8.—Redlands citizens paid their final respects to the memory of the late A. K. Smiley today when they united in a memorial service at the First Congregational Church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers and vines, the city as well as citizens being represented in the offerings.

The meeting was presided over by Mayor C. H. Clock and the programme included special music and addresses by President Blaisdell of Pomona College, John P. Fisk, Edgar Williams, J. J. Suess, Rev. J. H. Williams and Kirke H. Field.

It has been suggested that a suitable memorial for the Smiley brothers be erected, and a movement has been started for that purpose, though it is not definitely decided what shape the memorial will take. An arch with chimes, over the entrance to the Smiley Library Park has been talked of, and the suggestion meets with favor.

BUYS GROVE.

The W. T. LaRue grove, consisting of ten acres of navels and late varieties, which is located at the corner of Colton avenue and Alabama street, has been purchased by Thomas Stack, a late arrival from Springfield, Ill. With the place went 6000 boxes of fruit now on the trees. The sale price was near $20,000 cash. Mr. Stack has also purchased for his home, a handsome bungalow on Alvarado street.

LONG AUTO TOUR.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lesley Cook were in the city yesterday in their automobile en route to Los Angeles from Brentwood, N. Y. They report a delightful trip, having traveled over the proposed ocean-to-ocean highway trail. They left their eastern home September 26, coming by way of Chicago, Kansas City, Santa Fe, Phoenix and the Grand Canyon.

PLEASE SETTLE.

City Tax Collector C. N. Archer is busy preparing tax statements which he will send out to those who promise to become delinquent. By this means it is hoped that there will be a much smaller delinquent list than formerly.

OTHERS PLAYING THE GAME.

One Burglar Killed and Another Arrested at Santa Ana but Thievery Goes on Unchecked.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 8.—Though John D. Coleman, burglar, was killed, and Charles Roll, his pal, is in jail, Santa Ana is not yet free of the burglars who operate in the evenings, selecting houses for entrance by the fact that they are dark and probably no one at home. Last night a burglar opened a window at the back of William Cochems's home at the corner of Eighth and French streets, entered and stole a watch, chain and elk's tooth fob, altogether worth $150, belonging to Cochems, and a tie-pin and tie-clasp, worth $10, belonging to L. C. Stimson. The officers are satisfied that Coleman had another man beside Roll working with him, and they think it evident that the shooting of Coleman to death by Deputy Sheriff Law has not spoiled the free burglar's nerve.

FIGHT NOT ENDED.

The fight to disincorporate the new town of Stanton is not ended. Judge West recently rendered a decision in the action brought by W. J. Cole upholding the validity of the formation of the town. Today H. G. Ames of Anaheim, attorney for Cole, gave notice of appeal to the Appellate Court. Stanton was formed primarily to shut off Anaheim from establishing a sewer farm within what is now the city limits of the town. The plan was successful.

TO FIGHT PROPOSED LAW.

Tulare County Insurance Men Combine to Prevent the Adoption of a New State Regulation.

VISALIA, Dec. 8.—Tulare county insurance men are organizing against the adoption of a new State insurance law, which is being put forward by alleged political interests in San Francisco and which will result in putting an end to the board ratings of cities, as well as to the Fire Underwriters' Association. Text of the new law which has been received here forbids the organization of two or more insurance agents, or representatives, officials or stockholders, for the purpose of agreeing upon rates. The law provides for no organization which will take the place of the underwriters' board, which it abolishes.

Insurance men here favor the adoption of the Washington law, which puts the question of rates for cities and towns up to State authority, making it obligatory upon all companies to observe uniform policies and premiums.

A county organization to fight the new law is being proposed and will probably be formed at an early date.

UNHOLZ BUSY BOY.

Unholz has a busy programme mapped out. Tuesday night he will fight eight rounds with Jack Gorman in Omaha. Four nights later he will meet Jerry Murphy in Indianapolis for ten rounds. Later, probably on December 21, he will meet the welterweight, Dauber Yeager, and on New Year's Day he will fight Jack Abel at Chattanooga.

Notable Career.

ATH CLAIMS POLICE CHIEF AT RIVERSIDE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the best known peace officers in Southern California, Chief of Police P. M. Coburn, died this afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock after lying in a state of unconsciousness several days.

Coburn served two terms in the office of Sheriff of Riverside county, from 1894 to 1897. Mr. Coburn effected the capture of a number of desperadoes far and wide as "bad men," but the capture was in many cases thrilling features that resulted with features that made the administration of the office of Sheriff was perhaps the most notable in the history of the county, in point of economy and the character of work accomplished.

He had to his credit the apprehension and conviction of more criminals charged with capital offenses than any other officer who has held the position. Mr. Coburn was a pioneer, settling in Riverside in 1875. In January last he was appointed Chief of Police by Mayor Peters, and was compelled by illness to leave his office only a few days ago. He is survived by the widow and a daughter, Mrs. Chester A. Watkins of this city, and a sister, Mrs. John A. Vankirk.

Clarence E. Jarvis, President County Assessors' Association.

F. W. Hopkins, Los Angeles County Assessor.

Who Is To Pay?

poll tax the fee system takes a hand. According to the statement yesterday of Hopkins, assessors in fifty counties still receive 15 per cent. of the poll tax as a fee. This system has been abolished in Los Angeles and other large counties of the State. It is likely that the other assessors will be averse to losing this agreeable perquisite, unless assured that their salaries will be substantially raised as an offset.

The Chamber of Commerce will be host Thursday for the visiting delegates and their guests on an excursion around the Kite-Shaped Track through the orange country. Entertainment will be provided at Redlands by the Redlands Chamber of Commerce, and at Riverside lunch will be served. Other stops along the route will give excellent opportunity to see the country.

TAX CONFERENCE.

A general tax conference is carded for Friday morning. "Amendment No. 1" will be the theme of J. F. Sartori, president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, followed by T. M. Eby, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, who will talk on "Operative Property."

Under Amendment 1, recently incorporated into the State law, all funds for State purposes are levied from corporations, which are exempted from local taxation except in certain cases of district improvement rated as special levies. Corporations are also assessed for the special Panama-Pacific Exposition tax. Any raise in corporation taxes, to make whole a fund amounting to approximately $16,000,000 demanded for next year, will instigate a prolonged protest from those bodies. An attempt to distribute the levy evenly among the people, already murmuring in Los Angeles and many other counties, will bring forth objections fully as cogent.

In the afternoon officers for the coming year will be elected and the place of meeting in 1913 selected. Since it is customary to elevate the vice-president to the highest dignity in the gift of the association, it is likely that G. R. Cummings of Fresno, present holder of that office, will succeed Jarvis.

"Pending Legislation" will be the theme of Hon. N. W. Thompson of Los Angeles, followed by a general discussion. Among the most important laws to be submitted for that now being drafted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hammon at the request of the county grand jury, which will give the Assessor, Auditor and Tax Collector more time to do their work.

On Friday evening the assessors of the southern counties will entertain the members of the association and guests at a banquet at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Provision has been made by the Chamber of Commerce for the ladies of the party in an excursion by trolley, Wednesday afternoon, to the beaches and through much of the suburban territory about the city.

OFFICERS AND MEMBERS.

The officers of the association, besides Jarvis and Cummings, are: Thomas M. Robinson, secretary, and G. W. Murray, treasurer. The standing committees are:

THIS IS DIFFERENT.

Confirmed Speeder, Serving Second Long Sentence for It, Taken From Cells to Break all the Limits.

Earl Edgard, 20 years old, an auto expert, serving a sixty-day sentence for speeding, his second long sentence, was released from jail yesterday afternoon long enough to do some legitimate speeding as chauffeur of the big red police machine responding to a fast call at Ninth and Hill streets.

Officers who rode with Edgard declared that the car never before had made such speed as Edgard got out of it. Several times they called to him, as they held their hats upon their heads, and grasped for breath, to slow down some.

"They told me to get there as quickly as I could," called back Edgard without turning his head, "and I'm goin' to obey orders." With which he jumped the speedometer up to sixty miles an hour.

"I enjoyed that ride immensely," coolly remarked Edgard as the officers clambered out of the car. "I've been in hock almost two months now and was just dying for a little exercise. There wasn't any danger, if you know how to drive. I've driven faster than that through the streets and never got caught."

When the fast call was received at the Central Station the regular police chauffeurs were out with the other mcahines. As there was no time to be lost, Capt. Murray gave orders to get Edgard from the cells and give him the wheel.

About a year ago Edgard served 100 days for exceeding the speed limits, and on October 17, of this year, Officers Oakes and Moore of the University Station arrested him for driving too fast on Washington boulevard. For that offense Justice Williams gave him $60 or sixty days.

Earl Edgard,

Who was taken from the cells at police headquarters yesterday—he is serving the second installment of 160 days for speeding—to break the speed limit for the police department on a fast call.

A. L. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3d day of December, 1912.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issues. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper in Southern California.

A WIDE BERTH.

As near as we can make out, Mr. Wilson went to Bermuda for Mr. Bryan's health. We are glad that the world is large enough to accommodate both of these gentlemen at the same time, even if the United States is not.

RUSSIA'S LOSS.

The Grand Duke of Russia has formally renounced his right to the succession of the throne in order to accept the responsibilities of husband and father which have fallen upon him as the consequence of a morganatic marriage. This is too bad for Russia, for the Duke's conduct certainly suggests that he is a first-class gentleman.

A PLEASANT ENTERPRISE.

Now that it is no longer disputed that George Washington employed as much wisdom as courage in crossing the Delaware immediately prior to the battle of Trenton, somebody suggests the purchase of the property upon which the landing was made to convert it into a public park. The event is worthy of commemoration, and we do not blame the poor old East for taking advantage of every possibility to obtain a little breathing space.

WHOLE HOGGERS.

Somebody borrowed from the gambler's lingo the words "standpatters," and with them christened that portion of the Republican party which demanded the tariff as it is without any reductions. The opponents of the Balfour policy in England are known as the "whole hoggers." When great American and English statesmen resort to poker games and pigpens for phrases with which to christen policies, it would seem that our language needs to be enriched.

SPLIT INFINITIVES.

Grammar, like politics and certain card parties, is progressive. The present usage is to take a broad view of general effects, rather than to everlastingly quibble over minor details. To be conservatively progressive and yet to liberally preserve the best traditions is an object to be worthily pursued by modern thinkers. We no longer care to be continually bickering as to the right of infinitives to the split. The people who love most to split hairs are the ones who object most emphatically to the split infinitive. Yet if a hair is not too fine to be split, why is an infinitive?

TO DANCE OR NOT TO DANCE.

Whether children learn to dance in the public schools or not makes little difference. Where parents object to having their youngsters instructed in this fine art such children must certainly be excused. Dancing, however, is a great delight. It opens the gateway to many hours of pleasure and of graceful and healthy exercise. Children should learn to dance at the school age regardless of whether they learn during school hours. Anything that rests the mind and that increases the circulation of the blood is of great benefit to the pupil.

NOT SO SURE.

English journals generously attribute the quiet and courteous attitude of the American press in the recent discussion over the Panama Canal toll system to a better American feeling with regard to the mother country. They are quite free to say that twenty years ago such a debate would have stung all America into bitter and vituperative speech. Perhaps the English papers are right in their appraisement of the situation, but there is just a chance that what the American newspapers have voiced and what Congress has expressed in all of its speeches on this subject has simply been a quiet determination to safeguard the rights of American commerce without taking England or any other country into consideration.

POPULARIZING WAR.

The Hague should lodge a protest at Sophia. Czar Ferdinand is using unfair means by which to inspire his subjects with the zest of battle. A decree has gone forth that no debts are to be paid or collected for three months! Naturally it has had the effect of closing nearly all businesses, enabling men to go to battle and the women to do unlimited shopping on credit.

But it's a hard time for the poor bakers. Every bakery is working overtime making bread for the army—and the price of bread must positively not be raised a single cent, no matter what happens. The penalty for trying to turn an honest penny over the increased demand for bread is nothing short of three months' imprisonment and a heavy fine.

PRESSED VERTEBRAE.

Fashions are changing so rapidly that we would earnestly advise society dames, to whom the mode is the breath of life, to pause e'er they develop their next attack of appendicitis. There are persistent rumors that the knife is going out. Speaking to the Medical Association in San Francisco a very learned physician has declared that the newest and best method is that by which pressure is brought to bear upon the vertebrae so that the sigmoid flexure becomes straightened and the appendix ceases to "citis."

One cannot but feel a little sympathy for those unfortunate souls who were not kept properly posted. It is most disheartening to have spent one's time, money and temper on shedding an appendix, the complete possession of which will be a matter of essential eclat in the coming season.

NOT SO FAST!

There seems to be a frantic haste on the part of some of our clubs and civic organizations and citizens to get into the business of charter tinkering again.

Why?

What is the use?

The city will not gain anything from a frenzied charter. The rejection of the ring's charter by a vote of over two to one by the people was a protest against an attempt to rush them. The air is full of partisan excitement and bitterness and the time is not ripe for the deliberate construction and adoption of a sensible charter devoted to fundamental principles and not to faddist legislation.

We hope the Chamber of Commerce will not be inveigled into this charter imbroglio. The charter fight will be fought out on partisan lines and the chamber cannot afford to involve itself in a political dispute. No matter how fair and broad its views might be, or how cautious its action, one side or the other would accuse the chamber of "playing politics" should it take a hand in the charter warfare. The Chamber of Commerce can best serve the interests of the whole community by sticking to its honorable task of promoting the commercial and industrial development of Southern California, instead of bothering with politics.

And it were well to make haste slowly in this charter business. Let the air clear. Let things settle down. Then, with serenity and sanity, go about the work of framing a short, pointed charter that shall be a basis for municipal government, a grant of power, a civic constitution, and not a code of laws or a compendium of legislation on every subject under the sun.

THE TRUST PROBLEM.

Trusts are offspring of inventions, of the economic development of forces, of special conditions, and sometimes of special laws. Economy of production and distribution adds to the profits which are divided—somewhat unequally—between the capitalist, the worker, and the consumer. It was conjectured rather than estimated that the $36,000,000 distributed among the stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation by its last dividend represented also $36,000,000 more wages to the worker and $36,000,000 of savings to the purchasers of steel goods. In other words, $108,000,000 of value were either created or saved by the steel trust which could not have been created or saved by the systems which prevailed before the steel trust existed.

The public sentiment which demanded the immediate and unconditional destruction of trusts has undergone some modification since it has appeared that the result of the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company has been—so far as the public is concerned—an increase in the price of coal oil.

The most drastic in its methods of all the trusts—the union-labor trust—demands exemption from the anti-trust law, and the members of the labor unions have ceased to clamor against the capitalistic trusts. If a butcher in a city undertakes the slaughtering of cattle as well as the vending of meat the beef trust will not pursue the primitive methods of the labor trusts and send a committee to dynamite his shop and beat him to a pulp. They will place another butcher shop in the same block and undersell him into insolvency.

That it is desirable to prevent by law combinations to enhance the price to the consumer of the necessaries and comforts of life will be conceded by all. But the methods of procuring this desirable result present a difficult and serious problem to our lawmakers, administrative officers and courts.

We cannot ignore the fact that we are in the twentieth century, that the days of whale-oil lamps, stage coaches, cast-iron plows, spinning jennies, canal boats, negro slavery and infant damnation have passed; that we light cities and speed railroad trains and turn great wheels with electric forces torn from the waterfalls, and gas and oil wrested from the caverns of the earth. "In many branches of business combination in some form is an economic necessity. The business man," says an eastern paper, "is forced to put on his armor, for without it the battle of competition is too fierce for any sane man to enter. He may be killed without warning at any moment, and the blow may be delivered not only from around the corner, as in the old days, but from anywhere in the country, and indeed from almost anywhere in the world; the delivery of a cablegram from London or the ring of a telephone from Chicago may wipe one from the map of business in New York. Apart from this, but making in the same direction, is the fact that the gigantic scale on which certain business must be done under modern conditions makes a combination of forces and a union of capital absolutely unavoidable."

It was appreciated when the Sherman law was enacted that concentration of capital in the form of trusts could not be permitted to continue uncurbed and unregulated any more than a grizzly bear could be turned loose among a flock of sheep. The chief danger resulting from the organization of trusts appeared to be that monopolies in production and distribution were being established that would result in raising of prices to consumers, and that trusts would corruptly control the action of Legislatures and courts.

To obviate these dangers the Sherman law was passed. It declared to be illegal every act and every contract in restraint of trade. But the words "in restraint of trade" lacked definition in the statute and for seven years the Sherman act slept among unused and forgotten laws. "There was," says a commentator, "much speculation on the part of business men as to what the law really meant. Were the words 'restraint of trade' to be taken literally or in their narrower sense, according to the technical interpretation of the common law? How far could a company safely go with the expansion of its business in view of the fact that there was no indication of what might be construed into an 'attempt to monopolize?'"

In order to make the Sherman law effective it was necessary to make the words "restraint of trade" read "restraint of competition." But while the law might prevent restraint on competition it could not create or stimulate competition where corporations in the same line of business, without any agreement, declined to compete with each other. What could be done if all the grocers in town, without any agreement, added 1 cent a pound to the price of sugar, or all the plumbers in town, without any agreement, added 20 cents an hour to their wages? What was done when the segregated fragments of the Standard Oil Company added a few cents per gallon to the price of oil?

Again, "To what extent does the Sherman act affect the rights of patentees? A patent is a legalized monopoly, deliberately granted as such, in accordance with a well established and well understood policy." Cannot the patentee of a cash register refuse to sell it at all, and lease it only to baldheaded men or peroxide-blonde ladies, the lease to be void if the register is used by other than the lessee? If the patentee of cork-bottomed shoes refuses to sell to natives of Missouri will the operations of the Sherman act cause him to be sent to jail for the discrimination?

No serious attempts were made to enforce the Sherman act until Roosevelt's second administration, and those attempts were spectacular rather than earnest.

President Taft endeavored to enforce the law and succeeded in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust prosecutions. Yet, with the acumen and foresight of a trained jurist and statesman he foresaw the dangers of such prosecutions. In his message of January 7, 1190, he said.

"Such investigations and possible prosecutions of corporations whose prosperity or destruction affects the comfort not only of stockholders but of millions of wage-earners, employees and associated tradesmen must necessarily tend to disturb the confidence of the business community, to dry up the now flowing sources of capital from its places of hoarding and produce a halt in our present prosperity that will cause suffering and straitened circumstances among the innocent many for the faults of the guilty few."

The problem of how to deal with the trusts will soon be in the hands of President-elect Wilson and a Democratic Congress. No well-wisher for his country will desire to see this grave and perplexing question tossed like a shuttlecock between the battledores of contending parties. All will desire that the trust problem may be wisely and speedily solved on lines that will be just to capital, to labor, and to consumer.

THE TARIFF AND THE PHILIPPINES.

In view of the decision of the American people rendered at the polls last month President Taft, in his message to Congress, declines to make any recommendations concerning tariff legislation. The people have decided to abandon the protective tariff under which the nation has made giant strides in manufacturing industries and to revise the tariff, with revenue only for a basis. Free sugar would lessen the revenues, as would free anything, and will therefore probably not be adopted. Coffee and tea, now on the free list, should, under the "revenue only" doctrine, logically be subject to tariff duties. But to place them there would probably provoke such indignant remonstrances from 20,000,000 breakfast and tea tables as would make Democrats crawl under the beds of the land for protection.

The President in his message deals elaborately with the question of the government of the Philippines and argues against the Democratic proposition to enter upon a policy which in eight years would result in their independence. The core of the President's message on the Philippine question will be found in the following paragraph:

"Popular self-government ultimately must rest upon common habits of thought and upon a reasonably-developed public opinion. No such foundations for self-government, let alone independence, are now present in the Philippine Islands. Disregarding even their racial heterogeneity and the lack of ability to think as a nation, it is sufficient to point out that under liberal franchise privileges only about 3 per cent. of the Filipinos vote, and only 5 per cent. of the people are said to read the public press. To confer independence upon the Filipinos now is, therefore, to subject the great mass of their people to the dominance of an oligarchical and, probably, exploiting minority. Such a course will be as cruel to those people as it would be shameful to us."

No man is better equipped to offer sage advice with respect to the future government of the Philippines than President Taft. As Governor of the islands he acquired an intimate knowledge of conditions there, and it was largely owing to his wise administration that the turbulence which succeeded their acquisition was finally quieted.

There is one factor which will tend to lull to sleep the disposition of Democrats to "give up" the Philippines, and that will be the indisposition of Democrats who "wrought for Woodrow" to "give up" the Philippine offices. There are judgeships, and marshalships, and attorneyships, and recorderships, and inspectorships—a perfect fleet of ships—waiting to be manned by Democrats who are very hungry and very thirsty.

Shall this feast of fat things be swept away by an iconoclastic policy of "giving up" control of the banquet?, "Neigh, neigh, Pauline," as the teamster said to his mule.

TARIFF POSSIBILITIES.

The United States Senate will, as now appears, stand forty-eight Democrats to forty-eight Republicans on the fourth of March next, and on all strictly party questions Vice-President Marshall will have the casting vote.

But not all Democrats will accept the dictum of the Baltimore convention that the tariff is unconstitutional; and not all Democrats are strict constructionists. The cotton and sugar States will vote as a unit against a reduction of the tariff on cotton manufactures and against free sugar. Alabama and Georgia are manufacturers of cotton goods; Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas are heavy producers of sugar; and protection is not going to receive the blow from Democratic success that many predicted. It was wisely as well as wittily said that "political platforms are like railroad-car platforms, they are made to get in upon, not to stand upon."

The protection Democrats in the Senate will be able to dictate the terms of the new tariff, just as they dictated the terms of the Wilson-Gorman bill eighteen years ago. It will be to the interest of the cotton Democrats to prevent any great reduction in the tariff on either raw wools or woolen manufactures. There is competition between woolen and cotton in the manufacture of clothing, and a tariff that should reduce the duty on woolens would be a disadvantage to cotton, for then a larger percentage of wool would go into goods intended for clothing, curtailing the market for cotton thereby.

It is the understanding of the commercial public of these phases of the situation that has operated thus far to prevent the panic which otherwise might have resulted from the November election.

LOS ANGELES GENIUS.

[The Argonaut:] Los Angeles was always to the front in schemes for ameliorating the lot of the human race. There are more philanthropists to the square yard in Los Angeles than in any other village in America, and they not only work overtime, but they lie awake nights trying to think of things that we ought to be compelled to do or forbidden to do for the good of our immortal souls. Mr. Lissner lives in Los Angeles.

Just at the present time there is a Los Angeles genius who wishes it to be known that she has invented a device to support the plumes on women's hats. One would suppose that women's hats were big enough to support anything from a family to a mortgage, but that just shows our male ignorance. And now will this Los Angeles inventor have the goodness to set to work and invent something more? Can not she devise something to support the woman, hat, plumes, and all?

QUAKER MEDITATIONS.

Many a man has reached the heights by putting up a bluff.

The fact that talk is cheap is what makes it so expensive in the end.

A woman is apt to cultivate the latest wrinkle, unless it happens to come in her face.

Blobbs: I believe a cat is said to have nine lives. Slobbs: Which is ten times too many.

A man never fully appreciates his club till he gets married and has a home of his own.

Some girls go through a marriage ceremony as though they had been used to it all their lives.

Any theatrical manager will tell you that, while the deadhead is a thing of the passed, he is always present.

The Acme of Appetite! Is There Anything Hungrier Than a Starved Mule?

TWELVE KINDS OF CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS.

With Brief Advice to Salespeople.

BY HELEN VAIL WALLACE.

And behold the buyers went forth to buy Christmas gifts, and after this manner shopped they, individually and separately:

(1.) The "I-know-what-I-want-when-I-see-it-let-me-alone-till-I-find-it" concentrated type

Advice to Seller:

Or you'll spoil all that customer's joy.

(2.) The "I-want-what-I-want-when-I-want-it;" let-no-grass-grow-under-your-feet-meantime; will-take-nothing-else person. Impetuous, hasty, turn-over-the-earth-native. Often a man.

Advice to Seller: Hurry! Hurry!

(3.) The lugubrious "I-don't-know-what-I-want-Lord-help-me!" individual—likely as not another man—whose intentions are good, like the sun under a cloud at noonday; but with such tangled consciousness of uncertainty as to what to buy or for whom to buy it, and a "must-buy-something refrain haunting him into submerged wretchedness—when lo, the Christmas shopping spirit envelops him as he mingles with the other buyers, and he beams forth finally with reluctant astonishment at his own transfigured understanding. He sees clearly what to buy and for whom to buy it.

Advice to Seller: Speak gently; act quickly, while the spirit moves him.

(4.) The judicious, careful, exact, thrifty, understanding buyer, who selects with an eye to the suitability and usefulness of each gift.

Advice to Seller: Give this one no advice unless it is asked fervently, then agree with him. Besides he never takes advice; asks it only to confirm his suspicions that he is right, and it is a waste of good energy to think out anything for this one.

Advice to Seller: Help out by suggesting the most charming of the inexpensive things. She will bless you and come again

(6.) The generous-hearted, reckless one, who buys everything in sight for everyone he loves, till both purse and credit are exhausted, and goes away radiant.

Advice to Seller: Pray for him.

(7.) The hard-to-please, doubting-Thomas, pessimistic, "Let-me-alone-till-I-see-what-I-want — and-I-don't-believe-you-have-it-anyway" sort of chronically unhappy person, who most likely refuses to breathe deeply enough, to be nourished properly by this glorious atmosphere.

Advice to seller: Don't worry. Rest your mind and adjust your wares, meantime keeping a smiling heart in your bosom. You'll need it soon. She'll come back just as you get busy with the next customer, with the pained expression on her face accentuated, and demand attention as a previous arrival. Be very gentle, polite and "sorry," and wait on both of them with the greatest possible "Christmas-rush" dexterity, tact and diplomacy. This type provides excellent mental gymnastics for sellers. Welcome it cordially. It's a sure-enough brain developer and if indulged sufficiently is sure to lead to increase in your salary.

(8.) The "tell-me-what-I-want," undiscriminating, lazy buyer, without definite tastes or understanding of the taste of other people. Prefers to leave thinking on any topic to the judgment of specialists.

Advice to Seller: Advise her wisely. She will come and look you up frequently to save energy. The line-of-least-trouble person.

(9.) The "That's-just-what-you-want" person, helpless and hypnotized by the commercial atmosphere about her. The negative buyer who takes what she wants not, and wists in saner moments of her unwisdom of selection. The trustful, confused type. Rather likes to be suggested to—ever esteeming the opinion of another superior to her own.

Advice to Seller: Be absolutely careful and conscientious. Don't sell her "any old thing." She thinks splendidly when she is alone—and she'll think unsatisfactory "thinks" at you. And she won't buy of you again.

(10.) The discriminating, self-possessed, progressive woman with nothing fixed in mind, who goes forth to the best shops, asks tranquility to see the latest offerings for Christmas, selects with cheerful wisdom (or unwisdom) something up-to-date with price to fit her purse, orders them sent; goes on her peaceful way and thinks no more about it till Christmas. Christmas giving is not a paramount issue with this one, for the reason that she makes a business of radiating joy and leaving joy in her wake throughout the entire year. She yields to the Christmas spirit through sheer amiability.

(11.) The "I'm-just-looking" person, who has no intention of buying anything that day and is too conscientious to take time from others without return in purchases made.

Advice to Seller: See that he has the most courteous treatment, and then leave him wholly to his own devices. He'll come back to you and buy heaps of things that he looked at and mentally decided upon "that day."

(12.) The "I'm-just-looking" stranger in our midst—a tourist type, who cannot be burdened with purchases or purchasing. The artistic globe-trotter, who loves to nourish the mind with thoroughly Fletcherized and mentally digested memories of our Angelic Christmas and other displays.

Advice to Seller: Smile casually at this one. He'll carry the Los Angeles atmospheric spirit elsewhere, and with little unconscious hunches, send others to our town to buy on other Christmases.

And just for good measure, here's another:

(13.) The Hoodoo person, who thinks everything marked too high, no matter what the price. The chronic bargain-hunter. Be gentle, but very firm with this one. If need be, in emergency, "dig up" amiably something slightly damaged, take elaborate pains to have it marked down to a nickel or so, and send the thrifty soul away happy in the belief in her own capacity to buy, always, economically.

THE RIGHT TO WORK.

[Arizona Gazette:] The inherent right to work is God-given to every individual, and no church, no fraternal society, no body of men, organized or unorganized, has the right to interfere with this right. Whenever they do they violate the law of God and man and do violence to society. When wholesale murder is committed it becomes the duty of every right-thinking individual to raise his voice in protest against such crimes. The parties who provided the funds with which to purchase the explosives, and who paid the murderous gang who carried out the dynamiting plot, as exposed at Indianapolis, are no more guiltless than was the police of New York who connived at, and even caused, the murder of an unarmed gambler.

Pen Points: By the Staff

McCarty and Flynn appear to be doing the most of their fighting before entering the ring.

The statement that a Seattle boy of 13 years has a full beard has been recalled, we understand.

Ducks are reported to be flying southward. And a few lames ones are tarrying at Washington.

We have often noticed that the woman who breaks up a man's home is not half as good looking as his wife.

If the Democrats rip up the tariff as they expect to do we may have use for those half cent pieces that it has been proposed to coin.

Lizards in ladies' stockings are the latest fashionable fad. But they are only imitations—like some other things we often see in stockings.

With the approach of Christmas the most of us are putting the question of the cost of living behind us until the beginning of the new year.

Following the example set by the asparagus the political cooks will make small cuts of the pie, following the inauguration of President Wilson.

When the women of Los Angeles get matters in their own hands we shall expect to see tidies hanging on the hydrants, and cosy corners in every voting booth.

We know a man that spends $5 a day in the city bars, who kicks like a steer if his wife invests 5 cents in a box of matches that she might have purchased for 1 cent.

Turkey must agree to peace terms by January 7. That will be time enough unless the Sultan loses the power to sign his name to the terms proposed by the Balkan States.

The clever wife is saving on her grocery bills these days so that father will have money enough to buy that set of dishware for Christmas that she has picked out.

We should like to leave the warning of Dr. Wiley, "never give candy to a child," to the children themselves, or even to grown-ups. Sometimes a highbrow makes himself ridiculous.

When President Taft invites President-elect Wilson to the White House for a meal we hope the hired girl will be careful about the gravy bowl. If she should drop it on the guest of the evening it might look like spite.

An effort will be made during the present session of Congress to secure the recognition of the Chinese republic, provided, of course, that the Chinese republic is able to recognize itself by the time Congress acts.

In a message to Congress President Taft says: "The condition of the country with reference to business could hardly be better." What a glorious heritage to be bequeathed over to his successor in the exalted office he occupies!

A divorce was granted in the Los Angeles courts the other day in a case where the wife proved that for nearly twenty years she had been trying to reform her husband, but without effect. Some women are in such a hurry!

Have you noticed that the prophets who predicted side whiskers would be worn if Americans missed their guess? They are about as far off as the other men who feared the Presidential election would be thrown into the House.

It is now reported that American buyers have been outrageously swindled in the purchase of alleged rare books and pictures. Books and pictures may be all right over their head, but the dealer that can't skin them in ordinary affairs would be entitled to the pelt.

When the open-door policy is thrown at Washington it might be well to have an old cannon stove put in the President's office so that all of the boys could go over with their feet on the fender, tell the President how to run the country, and discuss the next baseball championship.

FRIENDS.

We go, because I'm big and strong.
He looks up and he sees me there,
And takes my hand and goes along.

And if it's dark, and he can see
Big black things where the shadows be,
He's not afraid when he's with me—
'Cause I'm his friend—that's all.

When he goes berrying with me
He takes his pail and goes so far
To get some big ones, he can't see
If I am there, the bushes are.

So thick and leafy where he went,
But pretty soon he hears me call
And knows I'm there, and he's content
'Cause I'm his friend—that's all.

He seems to think that I can do
Most every kind of thing there is,
And he knows I will help him through
Because I am a friend of his.

And he'll look up at me and say,
"My, but you're awful big and fat."
I hope I'll be like you some day,
'Cause I'm his friend—that's all.

And when he sees the airplanes
That's where he always wants a ride,
And if he has a chance to climb
He saves the biggest part for me.

He likes to go on trips with me,
And does not seem to feel so small
He gets more courage, don't you see,
'Cause I'm his friend—that's all.

The Oil Industry.

"BOOM DAYS" APPROACHING.

Producers' Outlook Growing Much Brighter.

Consumption Is Steadily Gaining on Output.

Operators May Draw Heavily on Surplus Soon.

In explaining the optimism of the fifteen oil-producer as to the future of the business, it is only necessary to analyze the production and consumption figures for the past six months.

Until of the present year, for instance, the output exceeded the consumption by 24,725 barrels a day. In October it was but slightly in excess of 12,000 barrels greater daily. Until the total production of the field was 7,501,672 barrels. The output has steadily increased each month until in October it reached 17,000 barrels, the largest in the history of the State.

In spite of this, the consumption has more than kept pace. The consumption for the month of April amounted to 6,406,913 barrels, but increased to 7,172,000 barrels in October.

Thus, while the output from April to October it increased 944,000 barrels, the deliveries during the same period increased 1,366,000 barrels, a gain for consumption over the output of 422,000 barrels.

If the same rate of increase the producing concerns will all be drawing stocks long before another six months has passed. Indeed, it is not improbable that by the first of the year this will be the case. The increase between in output for October may be credited to one well—the 7-11 and G. gusher in the Sunset-Midway district—and this well is not producing nothing and will never set figure in the November list.

The October consumption figures, it must also be conceded, were unusually large, due no doubt to some of the large consumers—the Salt Lake Railroad for example—"filling their bunkers," after permitting the fuel supply to run low, but the stock of the markets is assured, though it may be slow.

In other words, it is almost a certainty that with the present policy of retrenchment in new work in the fields the output must in the near future decline, while the increase in consumption is steady and constant. It may cause some surprise to know that some of the marketing concerns are actually drawing on stocks. For instance, the total stocks on hand were 43,387,622 barrels and on October 31 they were 46,368,068 barrels, showing an increase in six months of 2,980,446 barrels.

The Standard Oil Company placed 10 storage tanks from April 1 up to October 31 3,514,213 barrels, or 351,421 barrels more than the increase in the total storage as shown above. This indicates that the Associated Independent Agency was drawing on its stocks during that period or toward the latter part of the period. As a matter of fact, the Independent Agency did reduce its stocks during the month of October to the extent of 170,000 barrels.

The volume of business done by the Standard is increasing constantly. While the Standard is increasing its stocks the independents are reducing theirs, and it can easily be seen that the control of the business will pass when the independents' stocks are depleted. The Standard has approximately 21,000,000 barrels in storage and the independents' stocks are not exceeded 14,000,000 barrels. While the Agency members profess to see in this situation good warrant for a return to better times and better prices. The consolidation of the General Petroleum Company with the Independents will increase the latter's output to a considerable extent and may prevent drawing on stocks. If the Independents have not the financial surplus to guarantee returns, obviously they will be unable to figure on large fuel contracts. The purchase of control of the Standard by the General Petroleum will strengthen the position of the

ART CLUB OFFICERS.

At the regular monthly meeting of the California Art Club, the following officers were elected for the coming year: William Wendt, president; Hamilton, vice-president; Jack Austin, second vice-president; Guy F. Austin, secretary; Barton Kirkpatrick, recording secretary; and Alice R. Kilpatrick, treasurer. The board is composed of most of the prominent artists of Southern California. The meeting was called to elect its officers and settle up the affairs of the exhibition given by the club. The success regarded the attendance of the public on the part of the picture lovers as an encouraging sign and plans were discussed for future exhibitions on a much larger scale.

SWIFT JUSTICE.

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 8.—Swift justice was meted out to James Chapman in Judge Hall's court when he was arrested for illegal selling of liquor, brought into court and sentenced to spend 300 days in jail, within the space of half an afternoon.

Officer Masters arrested a man giving the name of Emeteria, while taking a long drink from a tall flask while in an alley leading into the main street business district. Emeteria was scared into thinking he had committed a capital offense and when where the liquor was found Emeteria and the officer ran to Chacons home in Garden Grove and found convincing evidence of the man's trade. The evidence was so conclusive as the prisoner quickly changed his anxiety to plead guilty.

KILLED.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 8.—Joe Webber, a 17-year-old lad, who claims California as his home, was killed by order of the Superior Court today for the murder of burglary. It is said that after Webber had been shot by R. R. Dyer, an old resident of the Lemon Cove district, Dyer, by stealing from Dyer and pawning a watch. Webber escaped and is said to have returned his crime to the officers. It is said to be wanted in a number of counties for the theft of a number of Webber's guns may be brought in the

WINDS DO MUCH DAMAGE.

Avalon Boatmen and Owners of Ocean Front Property Lose Thousands of Dollars—Piers Wrecked.

AVALON, Dec. 8.—Tearing down fences and sending its white foam across the streets the northeast storm which broke here Wednesday evening continues to do much damage. The bath-house owned by the Banning Company is a total loss. The J. E. Mathewson Boat Building Company is another heavy loser, its losses amounting to several thousand dollars. Tons of gravel and sand have been deposited on the Avalon waterfront.

For two days the steamer Hermosa had been unable to cross the channel and land its passengers at the wharf. Boatmen who have been residents of this place several years state that it is the worst storm they ever experienced in these waters. Three launches have been wrecked and many skiffs, glassbottom rowboats and other craft have been smashed to pieces. Forty-five piles under the bath-house have been broken off like so many matches. Both piers have suffered considerably from floating wreckage.

So ferocious was the wind last evening that it was necessary to sound the fire alarm to arouse persons to assist in reclaiming wreckage.

Long Beach.

GUN TRAINED ON OFFICERS.

LONG BEACH MAN CHARGED WITH TERRIBLE OFFENSE.

When Police Call to Make an Arrest They Are Confronted With Loaded Shotgun—Judge Bordwell's Decision on Water Front Lands Awaited With Interest.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 8.—The sharp eye and quick wit of Chief of Police Austin probably averted a tragedy last evening when in company with Constable Jack Adams of Los Angeles he went to the home of J. R. Kelly, for several years a city employee, to serve a warrant charging Kelly with incest, on complaint filed with the District Attorney by a married daughter, who charged her father with brutal treatment of a younger sister, whom she had taken away from the home while on a visit the day before.

The absence of his alleged victim had made Kelly suspicious and he evidently prepared for trouble. As the officers approached the house Chief Austin noticed a window partially raised and something projecting from the sill. He at once spoke to Adams and the two changed their course and walked around the house to the back door. Austin called Kelly to the door, and when he appeared he was at once seized by Adams and placed under arrest. Austin then investigated and found that the window had been raised two inches and protruding from it was the muzzle of a double-barrel shotgun, both barrels loaded and the triggers set, indicating that Kelly was on guard and had intended to resist arrest.

He was brought to town and later taken to the Los Angeles County Jail to await arraignment. His wife has been dead for five years and his little victim is but 13 years of age. Kelly's brutality is said to have been going on for two years.

AWAIT DECISION.

The last month of Judge Bordwell's service in the Superior Court makes it more than probable that within the next few days he will hand down a decision on the Strand case, which is of considerable importance involving as it does the tideland ownership of the water front between Pine and Chestnut avenues.

The Strand company and the bath-house company contend that accretions belong to abutting property, while the city contends that below ordinary high tide the accretions belong to the State. The question hinges on whether the high-tide line is stationary or varies. The question has been a vexatious one for several years and the present suit is expected to forever settle the dispute one way or the other and end the uncertainty regarding property titles on the beach.

The suit has been an expensive one for the city and of the $5000 appropriated to prosecute it, there remains but a balance of $4.05 and it is reported that some of the attorney fees are not yet settled. There are five attorneys employed besides the City Attorney and assistant.

NEW HEATING PLANT.

The headquarters of the fire department, which has never been heated since its erection save by stoves in the social quarters of the fire boys, is to be equipped with a steam plant as soon as the boys can make connections. An old boiler of a steam engine, found in the city yards, has been overhauled and will be placed back of the stables and pipes connecting run into the fire-building.

All of the work is being done in the machine shop by the firemen and the installation will be without cost to the city, save the expense of a few lengths of pipe. The fire engine of the department will also be connected with the boiler, thus keeping its boiler full of hot water for prompt service when needed. The machine shop has been a big money-saver to the city, as the firemen during their duty hours make all city hydrants, and repairs to engines and equipment.

CATHOLIC CELEBRATION.

Bishop Conaty of the Los Angeles diocese today officiated at a celebration of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception at St. Anthony's Church, taking part in the high mass at 10 o'clock at which time a class of children and adults were confirmed. The Catholic faith has made a great stride in this city the past year and has outgrown the present building, making imperative a new and larger structure.

An old debt of the church has just been wiped out and plans are now formulating for the new building, which it is said will be a model in every particular, and construction of which will begin with the new year. The plans also contemplate the inauguration of a parochial school.

Officers elected by the Fraternal Brotherhood are Dr. W. H. Newman, President; Mrs. J. C. Reynolds, Vice-President; Mrs. Thomas Fullager, Secretary; Mrs. G. A. Miller, Treasurer; Mrs. Harry Brown, Chaplain; Harry Lloyd, Master-at-Arms; George Miller and Charles Wilson, Trustees.

The Modern Woodmen of America have elected as officers: Dan Steen, V. C.; F. M. Parker, W. A.; Dr. C. E. Brown, Banker; J. L. Probst, Clerk; C. V. Dunkin, Escort; D. O. Rupel, Watchman; George Holton, Trustee; G. W. Hamlin, Sentry.

Looking Backwards.

MALE CHORUS MANY TIMES RECALLED.

People's Orchestra Gives Fine Programme—All Seats Reserved Hereafter Without Extra Cost. Local Composer's Triumph in Pre-Local Composer's Triumph in Presentation of New Overture.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

Twenty-seven years ago Denman Thompson first presented "The Old Homestead." From the size of the audience that welcomed its appearance at the Majestic last night, it will remain an attraction for another quarter of a century.

The successful play that is given today is a modified form of Denman Thompson's original; it is brought to date, so to speak, as was necessary after the retirement and death of its talented creator and manager.

The times have changed and the old New England homestead idea has changed with them.

When the unique Thompson scored the greatest triumph, the longest run of any play in New York up to that time, at the old Academy of Music, the message he brought to the busy metropolis was one that could touch many hearts and awaken untold sweet and sad memories of boyhood for many.

The president of the Stock Exchange, several of the leading divines, captains of industry, surgeons, barristers and professional men listened to Joshua Whitcomb's bucolic philosophy with many sighs, often with tears.

The busy men of that busy world were then boys raised on the farm, who had slowly graduated from the hardships of New England rural existence, when Bill Jones was alive and tomatoes were love apples; Denman Thompson touched the sympathetic chord of childhood recollections for men of fifty or over and his success was a triumph.

This was due to two distinct causes: the old homestead at Swanzey, N. H., with Cy Prime, Eb. Ganzey, Aunt Matilda, Rickety Ann, Annie Hopkins, and the rest was not the invention of a playwright

I have it from the lips of Denman Thompson himself that the house, kitchen, details of furnishings, as well as characters were portrayals of the house in which he himself lived and the friends who surrounded him in life about Swanzey.

The picture of New England rural life was therefore exact and made the strongest appeal throughout the East and the Middle West.

The second and greater cause was the histrionic talent of Denman Thompson, actor, philosopher and altruist, who told for many years to hundreds of thousands of people the fallacies of city life, the foibles of society and the call of the out of doors, with a touch of earnestness, always with a smile.

No wonder that the play lived. Like all true things it continues to draw even if the only Thompson in it now is the heir to the gold mine who looks after its financial end of the business.

"The Old Homestead" is no longer the living portrayal of the life of many of us, dwellers in cities; we do not know any longer how to split rails or milk cows. It is a forgotten art to do chores.

William Lawrence made a great deal out of Joshua Whitcomb, and attracted much attention; so did Cy Prime and Aunt Matilda.

The singing choir of harvesters was most gracious in answering with good old fashion songs of New England to the four encores they received.

It is worth while to look back sometimes and the "Old Homestead" well staged and well handled will no doubt receive its full share of attention.

In many ways it was the greatest success of this new enterprise.

A most welcome information was given by the management at the intermission; the tickets for the Sunday concerts will hereafter be all reserved, without extra charge, however. The price will remain 25 cents, but tickets will be obtainable at the Auditorium and at most music dealers throughout the week preceding the concert.

The long and unavoidable waiting, the delay and annoyance of remaining in line have been vexing for many. This is a thing of the past now and an admirable move in the right direction.

Eduardo Lebegott never directed his orchestra better than yesterday. Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" was first given with technical skill, as was "Dich theure Halle," from Tanhauser, song by the new soloist, Madame Bertha Winslow Vaughn, soprano.

After the intermission LaCombe's "Aubade Printaniere" (Spring Morning Serenade) was given.

Following the excellent rule made by the Programme Committee, a musical composition by a local or at least a native artist is given each Sunday.

Yesterday for the first time anywhere Adolf Tandler, a local composer, presented his prelude to his opera "Johanna." It is not often that a composition by one of our own people is very warmly received, however good it may be. We still need on musical scores and on painted canvases some name duly certified and indorsed.

Suffice, therefor, to say, that the composer was recalled three times and that his "Vorspiel" had to be given twice to satisfy the audience.

Grieg's suite "Peer Gynt," was played, in a most creditable manner; the fourth movement attracted special applause and comment, as being executed with a great deal of talent and fine feeling.

It is to be hoped that the Peoples' Orchestra will be able to continue and increase their sphere of musical influence, so auspiciously begun.

Lyceum.

The greatest detective in the world is appearing at the Lyceum Theater this week. He is none other than the famous Sherlock Holmes, the most fascinating, sensational, cynical character of modern fiction. His friend, Dr. Watson, is with him, and in "The Sign of the Four" one has a thrilling example of the almost superhuman feats which the great sleuth accomplishes, aided by his trusted, but none too astute friend, the Doc.

Is there a playgoer who has not read the Sherlock Holmes tales?

Surely the story of "The Sign of the Four" is familiar to every one. The wonderful treasure, the four convicts, the one-legged man, the cowardly thief and the scheming villianess who, with her drugs would sap out the life of the lovely girl who without knowing it, is really heiress to the fortune, all are placed on the stage as real men and women.

Sherlock Holmes could ask for no lovelier Mary Marston than Maud Leone, whose gorgeously gowned innocence makes those who conspire against her seem doubly villainous. If "The Sign of the Four" were really true to life one would be laying fortunes at Miss Leone's feet instead of trying to steal one from her.

The writer never chanced to see anyone play Sherlock Holmes except tall, aenemic William Gillette, but Hershall Mayall, the new leading man, quickly batters down the barriers of prejudice. His assumed character of the deaf man in the boathouse is a character gem.

Beatrice Mead as the designing and murderously inclined Mrs. Sholto is as fascinating as she is wicked, and when she learns her part, will be a strong candidate for stellar honors; and Dohl Davies as Bessie needs but a wee bit of encouragement to make a capital ingenue.

And if one may be permitted a trifling digression, isn't Victor Shertzinger doing splendidly with the orchestra? His inter-act programmes are causing no end of favorable comment, for he is playing the kind of music the people like to hear.

Mason.

Dustin Farnum opens his week's engagement in "The Littlest Rebel" at the Mason Operahouse tonight. This distinguished and popular player has been fitted with a stirring vehicle by Edward Peple, author of "The Prince Chap" and other successes. "The Littlest Rebel" is a massive presentment of incidents of the Civil War. It is said to be intensely thrilling, although the cruelties and deprivations of war are used only as a background to set in relief one of the tenderest and most heart-touching stories ever woven into a war drama.

Orpheum.

"California," a real operetta, with four authors, composers and producers, a cast of twelve, and a large chorus, with special scenic and lighting effects, will be the top line attraction at the Orpheum opening this afternoon. It is a portentious affair, truly, with its scenes laid in this very region, and the saving of the missions as its topic. It includes a number of fine songs and much merriment. Atmospheric to the last degree, it should have a very powerful appeal here. James J. Morton, "a fellow of infinite jest," will also be cordially welcomed with his fine line of patter and song. Nonette, the little poetess of the violin, who sings as charmingly as she plays, and is as pretty as her work is attractive, will be on hand, as will Stella Mayes and Margie Addis, two stunners who have songs and dances to deliver.

Pantages.

After the regular Pantages show on Friday night a few prominent Catholics gathered by special invitation of Manager Walker to witness a private showing of the moving pictures of Pope Pius X, which will be a feature of this week's Pantages show. This is the first time that the present Pope has consented to be cinematographed, and the event is correspondingly interesting. The best views secured show His Holiness in the Vatican Gardens accompanied by the papal Secretary of State. There are also interesting views of the Vatican and its wonderful gardens, and of the last Eucharistic congress, in many respects the most notable of modern times. The pictures will be shown all this week together with a vaudeville programme of eight other features.

ERROR DISCOVERED.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Dec. 8.—The election called for Saturday to pass on the matter of annexing the Fruitland district to Huntington Park was not held. It was discovered at the last moment that an error had been made in describing the lines and the District Attorney declared that the vote would have been invalid. The city attorney of Huntington Park had charge of the matter of inserting the advertising and he asserts the error found was made by the printer. New petitions were put in last night and the public will be given an opportunity to pass on the matter as soon as the necessary legal steps can be taken.

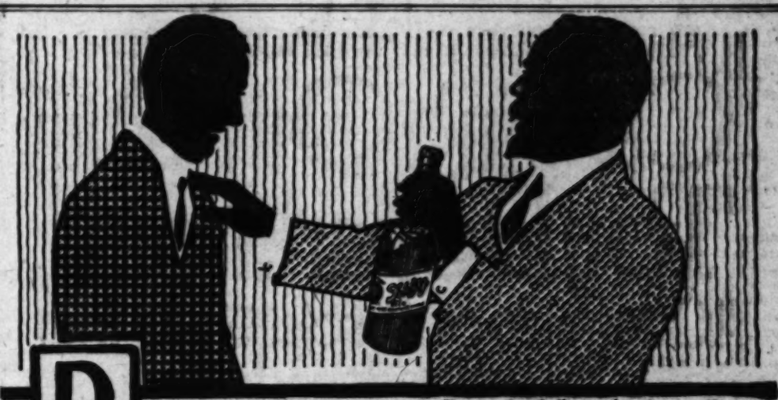
"Closing Out Our Toy Department"



Pure Beer Will Not make You Bilious

We go to Bohemia for hops; one of our partners selects the barley; water is brought from rock 1400 feet under the ground.

Not only is Schlitz—every drop of it—filtered through white wood pulp, but even the air in which it is cooled is filtered.

Before it is offered to you it is aged for months in glass enameled tanks. It will not, it cannot cause biliousness. It will not ferment in your stomach.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

the witnesses said to be slated for an executive session with the members of the grand jury, is W. W. Walley, who is thought to be possessed of information which may prove valuable to the investigating body.

The intimation that there is an organized band of "Badgers" operating in Los Angeles and that their activities have netted them several large sums of money, is being investigated by the police. Mrs. Corinne Mull, who told Chief Sebastian of a recent attempt to extort hush money from a West Fifth-street hotel-keeper, maintaining that she was an innocent party to the plot, refused to make an additional statement concerning the matter last night. The identity of the three men mixed up in this affair is known to the police, and further developments may follow. In the meantime the grand jury perhaps will develop something worth while within the next few days.

The Orpheus Club, composed of sixty male soloists, will give their first concert of the season tonight at the Auditorium. Tickets on sale at the box office.
